RED SURRENDER DEMANDED

NEED FOR WAGE, PRICE CONTROLS DEEMED URGENT

Federal Economist Expects Wholesale Prices To Jump 15 Percent

MUCH INTEREST FOCUSED ON FUTURE OF SITUATION

By Sterling F. Green

Washington, Sept. 30. —(AP)— The White House is under rising pressure to create promptly the price and wage control machinery it authorized three weeks ago.

President Truman's council of economic advisers, originally lukewarm to ceilings, today was reported to be "tremendously interested" in getting the new stabilizatio bilization agency set up as soon as possible.

Another top-rank federal economist predicted privately that wholesale prices by the year-end will have risen 15 per cent above their level on June 25, when the Communist army attacked Korea.

This official believes a complete rollback now is impossible. O. P. A. experience indicates, he said, that a one-month rollback is the best to be expected.

Until recent days, industry people have felt fairly sure that ESA, which exists only in a Truman executive order, might remain a paper agency "until after the elections."

But some officials—the economic council among them — reportedly now argue that it will take so long to build the new price-wage agency from scratch that a start should be made at once.

One sign that the White House is stirring was a report that Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation director, has been asked to become chief of ESA's nine-member wage stabilization board. Two other top

Income Tax Increase Goes In Effect Today

U.S. To Dig Approximately One-Fifth Deeper Into Wage-Salary Payments; Retroactive If Check Made Out In October For Previous Earnings

By Charles Molony

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Withholding taxes will cut roughly one-fifth deeper into wage and salary payments after today, promising more than 25,000,000 American workers a jolt next time pay day comes around.

Paychecks given out in October, regardless of the earnings period they cover, will catch the first impact of the new $2,700,000,000 a year individual income tax hike. The higher taxes are aimed at:

(1) Helping the government meet skyrocketing defense costs, now scheduled to hit a $30,000,000,000 annual rate by next June, and (2) restraining inflation by cutting down consumer buying power.

The wage and salary workers who feel the heavier tax blow first will have one "advantage" over the other 25,000,000 or so income taxpayers not subject to withholding tax.

The increased withholdings will keep them on a pay-as-you go basis so that, for the most part, they wouldn't have anything more to pay when the final 1950 income tax bills fall due on March 15.

Many, in fact, will have refunds due then, while millions of persons who pay outside of withholding will have to dig deeper into their pockets to catch up with the increase in final bills.

The $2,700,000,000 extra federal tax take will reduce ability to buy—or to save, and invest—but it won't flatten it.

Total consumer income already is at a record $219,000,000,000 a year and headed up. However, it also is already being cropped nearly $20,000,000,000 annually by federal - local income taxes plus social security levies.

U.S. TO SEEK NO VENGEANCE

Except For War Criminals Defeated N. Koreans To Get Leniency

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The United States government has decided on a policy of victory without vengeance toward the defeated people of North Korea. This underlies Gen. Douglas MacArthur's prospective surrender demand.

The attitude of leniency, which President Truman is said to approve fully does not cover two relatively small groups of North Koreans for whom stern justice will be sought when and if circumstances make it possible. Those are the leaders of the North Korean Communist regime and the officers and men who have committed atrocities against United Nations — mostly American — forces.

Washington considers both these groups fit subjects for postwar trials and expects that the perpetrators of the artocities in most cases will be caught and punished.

However, the prospects for capturing the Red political leaders who actually started the aggression that the United States has formally blamed on North Korea is another matter.

Officials here predict the Communist big shots and as many of the small fry as can manage to do so, will desert their country and take refuge across the north-

EXPLOSION ROCKS EL DORADO PLANT

One Worker Critically Injured Pan-Am Corporation Oil Refinery

El Dorado, Ark., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A section of Pan-Am southern corporation's big oil refinery was rocked by a deafening explosion here today.

The blast occurred a few hours before Pan-Am's new multi-million dollar petroleum coke production plant, nearby, was to have been dedicated by Gov. Sid McMath.

It was first reported the explosion occurred in the coke plant.

However, later reports said the blast was in the pump house supplying petroleum to the refiner's cat cracker unit. This unit is where gasoline is broken down.

One man was burned in the flash fire that followed the blast. Several other workmen suffered minor injuries. They received first aid on the scene.

Hundreds of visitors who were to attend a barbecue luncheon were turned back at the gate leading to the plant. However, company officials said the barbecue and dedication ceremonies would be run-off as scheduled.

R. T. Colquette, vice president of the company, said it was too early to make an estimate of damage. Bruce Brown, president of the firm, said a collection of vapor in the plant's pump house ignited causing the explosion and fire.

Seconds after the blast the pump house, which feeds petroleum into the main production building, was engulfed in flames. All available men and equipment from the El Dorado fire department fought the blaze for more than 45 minutes. They extinguished the blaze with the aid of chemicals. A building housing thousands of gallons of high octane gasoline was threatened for several minutes.

Hospital attendants identified the injured workman as T. Lavoy Sa: ;er 26 of El Dorado. He suffered burns about his face, hands, legs and back. His condition is critical.

GERMAN POLICE MOVE TO AVERT RED OUTBREAKS

Smash At Leadership Of Threatened Violence During This Weekend

CLAIM TRAINED AGITATORS SMUGGLED TO WEST ZONE

By Brack Curry

Cologne, Germany, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Police raiders struck today in an attempt to smash the Communist leadership of outbreaks threatened in a dozen Ruhr cities this weekend.

Police said they had been tipped off by informers in the Communist ranks that 30,000 trained agitators and street fighters had been smuggled into West Germany from the east to spearhead "Blitz rallies" or surprise demonstrations.

In the industrialized Ruhr of the British zone, where the most trouble was feared, police suddenly searched scores of Communist homes for evidence of illegal activity.

Thirty-six Communist officials and informers were seized at Gelsenkirchen when the party office was surrounded and ransacked. Red sentries standing outside were taken into custody so quickly they were unable to sound a get-away alarm.

LEGION POST TO HEAR ADDRESS

Atomic Energy Will Be Discussed By Well Informed Speaker

L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of the American Legion will hold its regular meeting at the Legion Home on Monday, October 2, 1950, at 8:00 p.m.

An interesting and important program is scheduled for this meeting, and all members are especially urged to attend. In addition to discussing current items of business, those present will be favored with an address on a subject of supreme importance to everyone today—atomic energy. A prominent and renowned guest will be on hand to give the discussion of this pertinent topic his expert attention, and no member of the local post should miss the opportunity to become informed. The guest's name must be withheld at this time in the interest of security.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a week-long program during the week beginning October 15 designed to inform the general public on the dangers of socialism and communism. All civic and service clubs, including the American Legion, have been asked to assist the Jaycees in organizing and presenting this program. At Monday night's meeting a report will be given on the plans made for this program, and American Legion participation will be discussed.

The usual refreshments will be served after the meeting.

UNCONDITIONALLY

Republic Forces Reported Already In North Korean Territory

CHINA REDS HINT THEY'LL HELP KOREAN COMMUNISTS

By Relman Morin

Tokyo, Sunday, Oct. 1.—(AP) — General MacArthur demanded today that the defeated North Korean Red army surrender unconditionally — or face destruction by United Nation forces now at the 38th parallel.

Unconfirmed reports reached U.S. eighth army headquarters that South Korean troops on the east coast already have plunged one-fourth of a mile into North Korea.

From Communist China, the Peiping radio broadcast charges by the Red Premier that the United States is the aggressor in the Far East and warned that the Chinese Reds will not "supinely tolerate seeing their neighbors being savagely invaded by imperialists."

The bristling statement of Premier Chou En-Lai expressed belief the North Korean Reds untimately would win.

MacArthur's statement was addressed to the Korean Red commander, Kim Il Sung.

Beginning at noon (10 p.m. EST Friday), powerful Tokyo transmitters began hourly broadcasts of MacArthur's warning that "complete destruction of your armed forces and war-making potential is inevitable."

He called on the North Koreans to surrender "in whatever part of Korea situated" under military supervision as I may direct."

He made no reference to the possibility of crossing the 38 parallel.

The statement also demanded that the Reds immediately free all United Nations prisoners of war and civilian internees.

The unofficial report that South Korean troops have crossed the border specified the Republic's Third Division which reached the 38th parallel at the town if Ingu Friday night.

More Republic divisions were approaching the border on the east; U. S. troops on the west above liberated Seoul were less than 25 miles from it. AP correspondent Tom Lambert said Red resistance had disappeared and U. S. Forces were expanding their positions north of Seoul.

Authoritative sources said the surrender demand from the United Nations supreme commander would be broadcast from Tokyo at noon Sunday (10 p.m. Saturday EST). It will be in the Korean language, but in MacArthur's name. The demand will be repeated hourly.

There is plenty of evidence that North Korean officials listen regularly to Tokyo broadcasts, which can reach all Asia.

The order to surrender may be broadcast also from the Seoul radio if that war-damaged station can be put back in operation in time.

Thousands of leaflets containing the surrender demand are to be dropped over North Korea.

There was general feeling in Tokyo that if the Reds ignore the surrender demand, four South Ko-

579 ENROLL AT NORTHEASTERN

New College Registers Nearly 40 Percent More Than N.J.C. Last Semester

Enrollment figures for the fall semester at Northeast Louisiana State College have continued to increase, with a total of 579 being registered at the close of Friday. Several teachers and non-college-age piano students who enrolled Saturday will boost the list to some extent, the registrar announced.

The number of enrollments represents an increase of about forty percent over last fall's registration of 418.

Freshmen head the list with 267. This total includes 208 who are entering college for the first time. Other students are classified as follows: 136 sophomores, 57 juniors, 5 seniors, 86 irregulars and 28 non-college-age.

Of the present number 336 are men students and 243 are women. The enrollment includes 491 civilians and 88 veterans, four of whom are women.

Twenty-four parishes are represented on the campus this fall. Ouachita leads with 301 students. Second place goes to Richland parish, which is represented by 65. Morehouse has 36 and Franklin 30. Other parishes represented are: Avoyelles, Bienville, Caddo, Calcasieu, Caldwell, Catahoula, Claiborne, Concordia, East Baton Rouge, East Carroll, Grant, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Rapides, Tensas, Union, Webster, West Carroll and Winn.

Students come from twelve states besides Louisiana. Texas, with six enrollees at Northeastern, takes the lead in the out-of - state group. Arkansas and Pennsylvania tie for second place with four from each. Additional states on the campus list include: Connecticut, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Register

Only one week remains for voters to register for the November 7 election.

A number of important issues are on the ballot, chief of which are the constitutional amendments and the proposed $140,000,000 bond issue for highway improvements. It is the duty of every qualified voter to cast his ballot on these important measures which will materially affect the future of Louisiana.

Go to the second floor of the Ouachita Parish courthouse and register today if you have not done so during the past year and a half.

MAKES BROADCAST

Calls For Early Decision To Prevent More Death And Destruction

SPECIFIES THAT ALLIED PRISONERS BE RELEASED

Lake Success, Sept. 30.—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur tonight called on the North Koreans to surrender at once.

MacArthur informed United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie, through the United States mission of a broadcast he is making at noon Tokyo time Sunday, Oct. 1, which is 10 p.m. E.S.T., tonight. He called on the North Koreans to lay down their arms and cease hostilities under such military supervision as he would direct.

He said he anticipated the early decision of the North Koreans.

The text of General MacArthur's statement, broadcast to the North Koreans and transmitted to the U. N. here:

"To the commander in chief, North Korean forces: The early end of the North Korean war making potential is now inevitable.

"In order that the decisions of the United Nations may be carried out with a minimum of further loss of life and destruction of property, I, as the United Nations commander in chief, call upon you and the forces under your command, in whatever part of Korea situated, forthwith to lay down your arms and cease hostilities under such military supervision as I may direct and I call upon you at once to liberate all United Nations prisoners of war and civilian interness under your control and to make adequate provision for their protection, care, maintenance and immediate transportation to such places as I indicate.

"North Korean forces, including prisoners of war in the hands of the United Nations command, will continue to be given the care dictated by civilized custom and practice and permitted to return to their homes as soon as practicable.

"I shall anticipate your early decision upon this opportunity to avoid the further useless sheding of blood and destruction of property.

"Douglas MacArthur".

Following is the text of a letter transmitted to Secretary-General Lie from Ambassador Warren R. Austin, United States representative to the United Nations:

"I have the honor, on behalf of the unified command of the United Nations forces in Korea, to submit

Grand Jury Will Study 25 Cases

The Ouachita parish grand jury will convene Monday morning with 25 cases before it for investigation, district attorney Fred Fudicker, Jr., said yesterday.

Among the serious cases that will come before the jurors for study will be the one in which William Simmons, West Monroe, is charged with negligent homicide in the death of Daisy Bowser.

Also listed are three perjury cases, two extortion, one aggravated battery.

Reds Made Very Few Friends During Occupation Of Seoul

By Tom Lambert

Seoul, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Korean Reds made very few friends and many bitter enemies during their three months stay here, residents said today.

In their final flaming defense of Seoul, the Reds set fire to some buildings. The exact number was unknown at this time.

U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio today accused the Communists of "wanton burning" before they fled the city.

Arson probably was done for propaganda reasons, so the Reds can trumpet to the South Koreans "the United Nations liberated you all right, by burning your capital."

The capitol, itself, was fired by arsonists Friday after formal reinstatement ceremonies there for the South Korean government were included by General MacArthur.

Sandbags, filled by the Reds to barricade the streets earlier this week, were used to help douse the fires. There was no water.

President Synagman Rhee and his cabinet already are tackling the problems of rehabilitation. He was cheered repeatedly as he and his wife rode through the littered streets.

The reconstruction and rehabilitation problem confronting Rhee and his government seems much too large for the republic to handle by itself.

Reports to American officials by Seoul residents, some just returning from hiding from the Communists, indicate the Reds carried out few if any of the promises about a better life they made when they seized Seoul June 28.

Most of Seoul's residents with whom this correspondent has talked the past few days appeared to bear little ill will against the Red army's soldiers. The North Korean soldiers seem to have been fairly well disciplined—especially, some people said, those soldiers who had been with the Chinese Communist army.

The North Korean political bosses, however, are remembered with bitterness.

Those bosses, for inst ce, broke

Pow Wow Wins All-American Rate For Eighteenth Time

Still rating as the top junior college newspaper in the United States, the Pow Wow, Northeast State's bi-weekly, won its eighteenth straight All-American award on issues published during the spring semester.

Editing the prize winning publication was Louie Mathis of West Monroe.

Mrs Annie Lee West "Lady" Stahl, who has directed the paper to each of the coveted All-American awards, said after learning of the latest honor, "it's always a challenge to work with staffs who continue to shoot for the top." In her usual modest manner she added, "we have in the past and will continue to put out a good paper and leave its merits up to the decision of the judges."

Graded by the Associated Collegiate Press, which scores high school, junior and senior college newspapers, the Pow Wow is the only paper in the nation to win eighteen straight awards.

The rating this year will be the last honor given under junior college status. Beginning with the fall term, the Pow Wow moves into the four-year level. Mrs. Stahl, professor of Journalism, will continue as faculty sponsor of the paper.

The All-American award was based on an evaluation of all phases of newspaper work.

Judges termed the Pow Wow "a well-organized and attractive newspaper!" Special comments included "good news coverage" and "excellent front page makeup."

Some of the highest scores went to departmental pages and special features. The editorial page rated "excellent" on each of three points: editorial column, features and makeup. Critics described editorial

L. S. U. Triumps; Miss. State Upsets; Tulane Crumbles

By Will Grimsley

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Notre Dame's national champions barely escaped disaster today but Michigan and Ohio State, co-leaders of the big ten, fell in thundering upsets that marked the first big football Saturday.

A 26-yard touchdown pass, Bob Williams to end Jim Mutscheller, in the last 2 1-2 minutes gave the fighting Irish a close squeak 14-7 victory over North Carolina at South Bend.

A crowd of 56,430 had watched, amazed, as little Dick Bunting led the southerners on a 78-yard thrust that tied the score at 7-7 in the fourth period. Notre Dame's late desperation push covered 66 yards to keep alive an unbeaten streak that now has covered 39 games.

Michigan, which for the past few years has battled the Irish for national honors, bowed to Michigan State, 14-7, before the day's largest crowd 97,239, at Ann Arbor.

Fullback Leroy Crane smashed over for the fourth period touchdown that stunned the Wolverines, third ranked nationally in 1949 and a strong touchdown favorite.

The proud middle west was humbled by the southwest in two important intersectional contests.

Ohio State's Rose Bowl champions wasted a 14-point lead after three quarters and bowed to Southern Methodist, 32 to 27, at Columbus.

Louisiana State pounded the College of the Pacific for a 19-0 win.

Texas' Longhorns outlasted Purdue in a touchdown marathon at Austin, 34-26.

Army and Oklahoma, meanwhile, joined Notre Dame in extending college football's longest success streaks.

Oklahoma's Sooners won their 22nd straight game with an easy 28-0 victory over Boston College at Norman, Okla. Army's Cadets made an auspicious debut at West Point with a 28-0 victory over Col-

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a week-long program during the week beginning October 15 designed to inform the general public on the dangers of socialism and communism. All civic and service clubs, including the American Legion, have been asked to assist the Jaycees in organizing and presenting this program. At Monday night's meeting a report will be given on the plans made for this program, and American Legion participation will be discussed.

The usual refreshments will be served after the meeting.

EXPLOSION ROCKS EL DORADO PLANT

One Worker Critically Injured Pan-Am Corporation Oil Refinery

El Dorado, Ark., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A section of Pan-Am southern corporation's big oil refinery was rocked by a deafening explosion here today.

The blast occurred a few hours before Pan-Am's new multi-million dollar petroleum coke production plant, nearby, was to have been dedicated by Gov. Sid McMath.

It was first reported the explosion occurred in the coke plant.

However, later reports said the blast was in the pump house supplying petroleum to the refiner's cat cracker unit. This unit is where gasoline is broken down.

One man was burned in the flash fire that followed the blast. Several other workmen suffered minor injuries. They received first aid on the scene.

Hundreds of visitors who were to attend a barbecue luncheon were turned back at the gate leading to the plant. However, company officials said the barbecue and dedication ceremonies would be run-off as scheduled.

R. T. Colquette, vice president of the company, said it was too early to make an estimate of damage. Bruce Brown, president of the firm, said a collection of vapor in the plant's pump house ignited causing the explosion and fire.

Seconds after the blast the pump house, which feeds petroleum into the main production building, was engulfed in flames. All available men and equipment from the El Dorado fire department fought the blaze for more than 45 minutes. They extinguished the blaze with the aid of chemicals. A building housing thousands of gallons of high octane gasoline was threatened for several minutes.

Hospital attendants identified the injured workman as T. Lavoy Sawyer 26 of El Dorado. He suffered burns about his face, hands, legs and back. His condition is critical.

UNCONDITIONALLY

Republic Forces Reported Already In North Korean Territory

By Relman Morin

Tokyo, Sunday, Oct. 1.—(AP) — General MacArthur demanded today that the defeated North Korean Red army surrender unconditionally — or face destruction by United Nation forces now at the 38th parallel.

Unconfirmed reports reached U.S. eighth army headquarters that South Korean troops on the east coast already have plunged one-fourth of a mile into North Korea.

From Communist China, the Peiping radio broadcast charges by the Red Premier that the United States is the aggressor in the Far East and warned that the Chinese Reds will not "supinely tolerate seeing their neighbors being savagely invaded by imperialists."

The bristling statement of Premier Chou En-Lai expressed belief the North Korean Reds untimately would win.

MacArthur's statement was addressed to the Korean Red commander, Kim Il Sung.

Beginning at noon (10 p.m. EST Friday), powerful Tokyo transmitters began hourly broadcasts of MacArthur's warning that "complete destruction of your armed forces and war-making potential is inevitable."

He called on the North Koreans to surrender "in whatever part of Korea situated" under military supervision as I may direct."

He made no reference to the possibility of crossing the 38 parallel.

The statement also demanded that the Reds immediately free all United Nations prisoners of war and civilian internees.

The unofficial report that South Korean troops have crossed the border specified the Republic's Third Division which reached the 38th parallel at the town if Ingu Friday night.

More Republic divisions were approaching the border on the east; U. S. troops on the west above liberated Seoul were less than 25 miles from it. AP correspondent Tom Lambert said Red resistance had disappeared and U. S. Forces were expanding their positions north of Seoul.

Authoritative sources said the surrender demand from the United Nations supreme commander would be broadcast from Tokyo at noon Sunday (10 p.m. Saturday EST). It will be in the Korean language, but in MacArthur's name. The demand will be repeated hourly.

There is plenty of evidence that North Korean officials listen regularly to Tokyo broadcasts, which can reach all Asia.

The order to surrender may be broadcast also from the Seoul radio if that war-damaged station can be put back in operation in time.

Thousands of leaflets containing the surrender demand are to be dropped over North Korea.

There was general feeling in Tokyo that if the Reds ignore the surrender demand, four South Ko-

579 ENROLL AT NORTHEASTERN

New College Registers Nearly 40 Percent More Than N.J.C. Last Semester

Enrollment figures for the fall semester at Northeast Louisiana State College have continued to increase, with a total of 579 being registered at the close of Friday. Several teachers and non-college-age piano students who enrolled Saturday will boost the list to some extent, the registrar announced.

The number of enrollments represents an increase of about forty percent over last fall's registration of 418.

Freshmen head the list with 267. This total includes 208 who are entering college for the first time. Other students are classified as follows: 136 sophomores, 57 juniors, 5 seniors, 86 irregulars and 28 non-college-age.

Of the present number 336 are men students and 243 are women. The enrollment includes 491 civilians and 88 veterans, four of whom are women.

Twenty-four parishes are represented on the campus this fall. Ouachita leads with 301 students. Second place goes to Richland parish, which is represented by 65. Morehouse has 36 and Franklin 30. Other parishes represented are: Avoyelles, Bienville, Caddo, Calcasieu, Caldwell, Catahoula, Claiborne, Concordia, East Baton Rouge, East Carroll, Grant, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Rapides, Tensas, Union, Webster, West Carroll and Winn.

Students come from twelve states besides Louisiana. Texas, with six enrollees at Northeastern, takes the lead in the out-of - state group. Arkansas and Pennsylvania tie for second place with four from each. Additional states on the campus list include: Connecticut, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Register

Only one week remains for voters to register for the November 7 election.

A number of important issues are on the ballot, chief of which are the constitutional amendments and the proposed $140,000,000 bond issue for highway improvements. It is the duty of every qualified voter to cast his ballot on these important measures which will materially affect the future of Louisiana.

Go to the second floor of the Ouachita Parish courthouse and register today if you have not done so during the past year and a half.

MAKES BROADCAST

Calls For Early Decision To Prevent More Death And Destruction

SPECIFIES THAT ALLIED PRISONERS BE RELEASED

Lake Success, Sept. 30.—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur tonight called on the North Koreans to surrender at once.

MacArthur informed United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie, through the United States mission of a broadcast he is making at noon Tokyo time Sunday, Oct. 1, which is 10 p.m. E.S.T., tonight. He called on the North Koreans to lay down their arms and cease hostilities under such military supervision as he would direct.

He said he anticipated the early decision of the North Koreans.

The text of General MacArthur's statement, broadcast to the North Koreans and transmitted to the U. N. here:

"To the commander in chief, North Korean forces: The early end of the North Korean war making potential is now inevitable.

"In order that the decisions of the United Nations may be carried out with a minimum of further loss of life and destruction of property, I, as the United Nations commander in chief, call upon you and the forces under your command, in whatever part of Korea situated, forthwith to lay down your arms and cease hostilities under such military supervision as I may direct and I call upon you at once to liberate all United Nations prisoners of war and civilian interness under your control and to make adequate provision for their protection, care, maintenance and immediate transportation to such places as I indicate.

"North Korean forces, including prisoners of war in the hands of the United Nations command, will continue to be given the care dictated by civilized custom and practice and permitted to return to their homes as soon as practicable.

"I shall anticipate your early decision upon this opportunity to avoid the further useless sheding of blood and destruction of property.

"Douglas MacArthur".

Following is the text of a letter transmitted to Secretary-General Lie from Ambassador Warren R. Austin, United States representative to the United Nations:

"I have the honor, on behalf of the unified command of the United Nations forces in Korea, to submit

Grand Jury Will Study 25 Cases

The Ouachita parish grand jury will convene Monday morning with 25 cases before it for investigation, district attorney Fred Fudicker, Jr., said yesterday.

Among the serious cases that will come before the jurors for study will be the one in which William Simmons, West Monroe, is charged with negligent homicide in the death of Daisy Bowser.

Also listed are three perjury cases, two extortion, one aggravated battery.

Reds Made Very Few Friends During Occupation Of Seoul

By Tom Lambert

Seoul, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Korean Reds made very few friends and many bitter enemies during their three months stay here, residents said today.

In their final flaming defense of Seoul, the Reds set fire to some buildings. The exact number was unknown at this time.

U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio today accused the Communists of "wanton burning" before they fled the city.

Arson probably was done for propaganda reasons, so the Reds can trumpet to the South Koreans "the United Nations liberated you all right, by burning your capital."

The capitol, itself, was fired by arsonists Friday after formal reinstatement ceremonies there for the South Korean government were concluded by General MacArthur.

Sandbags, filled by the Reds to barricade the streets earlier this week, were used to help douse the fires. There was no water.

President Synagman Rhee and his cabinet already are tackling the problems of rehabilitation. He was cheered repeatedly as he and his wife rode through the littered streets.

The reconstruction and rehabilitation problem confronting Rhee and his government seems much too large for the republic to handle by itself.

Reports to American officials by Seoul residents, some just returning from hiding from the Communists, indicate the Reds carried out few if any of the promises about a better life they made when they seized Seoul June 28.

Most of Seoul's residents with whom this correspondent has talked the past few days appeared to bear little ill will against the Red army's soldiers. The North Korean soldiers seem to have been fairly well disciplined—especially, some people said, those soldiers who had been with the Chinese Communist army.

The North Korean political bosses, however, are remembered with bitterness.

Those bosses, for instance, broke

Pow Wow Wins All-American Rate For Eighteenth Time

Still rating as the top junior college newspaper in the United States, the Pow Wow, Northeast State's bi-weekly, won its eighteenth straight All-American award on issues published during the spring semester.

Editing the prize winning publication was Louie Mathis of West Monroe.

Mrs Annie Lee West "Lady" Stahl, who has directed the paper to each of the coveted All-American awards, said after learning of the latest honor, "it's always a challenge to work with staffs who continue to shoot for the top." In her usual modest manner she added, "we have in the past and will continue to put out a good paper and leave its merits up to the decision of the judges."

Graded by the Associated Collegiate Press, which scores high school, junior and senior college newspapers, the Pow Wow is the only paper in the nation to win eighteen straight awards.

The rating this year will be the last honor given under junior college status. Beginning with the fall term, the Pow Wow moves into the four-year level. Mrs. Stahl, professor of Journalism, will continue as faculty sponsor of the paper.

The All-American award was based on an evaluation of all phases of newspaper work.

Judges termed the Pow Wow "a well-organized and attractive newspaper!" Special comments included "good news coverage" and "excellent front page makeup."

Some of the highest scores went to departmental pages and special features. The editorial page rated "excellent" on each of three points: editorial column, features and makeup. Critics described editorial

L. S. U. Triumps: Miss. State Upsets; Tulane Crumbles

By Will Grimsley

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Notre Dame's national champions barely escaped disaster today but Michigan and Ohio State, co-leaders of the big ten, fell in thundering upsets that marked the first big football Saturday.

A 26-yard touchdown pass, Bob Williams to end Jim Mutscheller, in the last 2 1-2 minutes gave the fighting Irish a close squeak 14-7 victory over North Carolina at South Bend.

A crowd of 56,430 had watched, amazed, as little Dick Bunting led the southerners on a 78-yard thrust that tied the score at 7-7 in the fourth period. Notre Dame's late desperation push covered 66 yards to keep alive an unbeaten streak that now has covered 39 games.

Michigan, which for the past few years has battled the Irish for national honors, bowed to Michigan State, 14-7, before the day's largest crowd 97,239, at Ann Arbor.

Fullback Leroy Crane smashed over for the fourth period touchdown that stunned the Wolverines, third ranked nationally in 1949 and a strong touchdown favorite.

The proud middle west was humbled by the southwest in two important intersectional contests.

Ohio State's Rose Bowl champions wasted a 14-point lead after three quarters and bowed to Southern Methodist, 32 to 27, at Columbus.

Louisiana State pounded the College of the Pacific for a 19-0 win.

Texas' Longhorns outlasted Purdue in a touchdown marathon at Austin, 34-26.

Army and Oklahoma, meanwhile, joined Notre Dame in extending college football's longest success streaks.

A Change In Police Chiefs

The resignation last Monday of H. T. Ward as chief of the Monroe police department was sudden but not unexpected. It has been known for some time that Chief Ward, after serving as a member of the department in various capacities for 28 years, desired to retire.

We have disagreed with Chief Ward and some of his policies on several occasions. But weighing his service to the community over a long period of years, one must concede that he has made a good officer. His devotion to duty as he came up through the ranks gained the respect of both the public and his fellow officers. His added responsibilities after he was made chief by former Mayor Harvey Benoit brought him many headaches, we are sure, but in general he leaves behind him a good record.

These same headaches are now being assumed by a younger man, M. L. Peters, who was appointed acting chief by Mayor Coon and his associates on the city council. Chief Peters, who is 34 years old, joined the local department in 1941, after serving as a state patrolman for several years. He has had experience in every phase of the local department's work, and this experience should stand him in good stead as he assumes his new responsibilities.

Chief Peters has not been in office long enough to formulate the policies which he intends to put into effect, but we are confident that, with the cooperation of other members of the department, he can promote that degree of efficiency which is required in such an important phase of our city government. We wish him well in his new job.

Anti-Aggression Plan Of U.S.

Nobody can say U. S. foreign affairs experts aren't trying. Our new plan for world defense against aggression, laid before the United Nations, shows great effort and imagination.

We propose:

To put the U. N. general assembly on 24 hours call to deal with any new aggression in the event Russia hamstrings the security council.

To create a "peace patrol" to investigate promptly any area where trouble threatens.

To establish a special U. N. military force contributed to by each member nation, to be held in constant readiness for action against an aggressor.

To create a U. N. committee to consider how to use collective action, including armed force, to carry out U. N. charter aims.

We go beyond measures of this type to suggest establishment of a U. N. "recovery force" to help rehabilitate and raise economic standards in backward or war-devastated countries. We recommend that such a force move into a liberated Korea first.

And we advise that Formosa, controversial Pacific bastion, have its ultimate fate settled by the U. N. rather than by individual nations.

Not since the general assembly session of 1947 has the U. S. come up with such a hatful. But, of course, merely proposing is just a bare beginning. All these plans must be carefully weighed as to merit, worked out in detail, and pushed through over the opposition of Russia and her satellites.

Most difficult, obviously, would be to set up a U. N. military force. Russia has managed in the past to block every effort toward this end. She may still have some tricks left. But if it can be done legally under the general assembly, where there is no veto, the obstacles are probably not insurmountable.

U. N. members generally have been criticized for not supplying ground force aid to the U. S. and other armies fighting in Korea. Yet there were numerous offers. U. S. commanders felt compelled to reject many because of supply problems, inadequate training and lack of sufficient size in the offered units. A U. N. force would have its own military advisers and training officers to weld the various components into an effective fighting force, equipped for immediate action.

America's program shows a high determination to surmount the Russian roadblock and work with other nations for peace—or at least to prevent little wars from growing into general conflict.

And our proposals show, too, that we understand that the free world must do more than simply halt aggressors; it must make life in a free society of nations worth living. Hence the suggested "recovery force" is a vital complementary part of the program.

The U. S. recommendations, if examination proves them feasible in detail, should gain the overwhelming support of the non-Communist U. N. members, and be placed in effect at the earliest moment.

Support Your Fair

The 1950 Fair season, which will be at its height in October, already is well under way. The scores of exhibitions that will be held throughout the state during the next few weeks will offer new exhibits, new inspiration and new recreation to the thousands who will view them, but fairs themselves are an institution as old as civilization. Ouachita's Fair opens next week.

For many centuries, fairs have served to stimulate industry and trade and introduce new industrial and agricultural products as well as to bring multitudes of people together in a spirit of good humor and friendship. In the old world, cities have sprung up at the former sites of important fairs. The fairs of today still serve much the same purpose. They bring before the public the best in industrial and agricultural goods. In their competitive exhibits those who have done well are rewarded and those who have done a little less well are inspired to greater effort. In the agricultural sections, which are so important in a largely agricultural state such as Louisiana, townspeople get a new idea of what modern agriculture is achieving and many farmers themselves see what their neighbors are achieving through better methods of crop cultivation or livestock growing.

"It's Your Fair—So Be There" is suggested as a motto by Jasper J. Joyce, County Agent with the Agricultural Extension Department. No fair is without its beneficial effect on the community in which it is held or without same attraction for all who attend. The institution of fairs would not have lasted so long were this not the case.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

ACHESON'S PROPOSALS

Editors, in large majority, are optimistic concerning the probable moral and military effectiveness of Secretary Acheson's proposals for strengthening the U. N. General Assembly. But a considerable minority of editors are doubtful concerning the effectiveness with which the various nations might respond to the Assembly's recommendations for military action. And a somewhat smaller number questions whether this is the best way, under the U. N. Charter, to marshal international military power for peace enforcement in the present world situation.

Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer (Dem.): "Briefly stated, the Acheson plan would call for the General Assembly to meet within 24 hours and act in cases in which the Security Council fails to act because of a veto. The plan would also give the Assembly investigating machinery and make it possible for it to provide armed forces to carry out its recommendations. . . . Whatever may be said about its details, the Acheson plan is a workable plan. It should be approved, with or without amendments, as soon as it can be, with full opportunity for discussion."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "The real purpose of the changes suggested is to nullify that part of the U. N. Charter which permits any permanent member of the Security Council—in actual practice, the Soviet Union—to veto collective action against an aggressor. . . . To do this by act of the General Assembly would be evasive in manner, however desirable it is in substance. . . . An excellent means of accomplishing the same purpose with the full color of legality is provided in the U. N. Charter. Article 51 allows member nations to join together by treaty and act collectively against aggression. ."

Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "It is lawful, under the charter, for the General Assembly to consider 'any questions relating to the maintenance of international peace and security brought before it' except when the same questions are already under consideration of the Security Coun-

OUR CHILDREN

PARENTAL FAILURE

Conscientious parents torture themselves searching for the cause of their children's waywardness within themselves, in their relations with the children, when there is no fault in them. We must remember that the influences on children's behavior are countless, in as many varieties as there are persons and events touching their lives.

Each child has a different heritage of traits and tendencies, certain strengths, certain weaknesses. The influences that touch them will strengthen whatever traits and tendencies they have to their good or to their hurt. Should the characteristic that we know to be a failing be very strong it will attract and be attracted to the influences that strengthen it. Home and parents are not always to be blamed. It could be that nobody is to blame.

What makes a carefully reared child steal? Sometimes he does. A lovely little girl of about twelve took quite a sum of money from her father's desk. He had put it there to pay a bill the next morning.

It was not the first time she had taken money from the family. Why, when she had an allowance the things she needed, had she done this? Investigation disclosed that she had spent most of the money for riding lessons. She wanted to learn how to ride bareback in the circus. Her great grandmother had been a bareback rider in a circus.

Knowing why is helpful but it does not cure the wrong thinking that led the child into stealing what she knew she could not get rightfully. Our problem is how to teach this child that she cannot take from others, cannot rightfully make others pay for her pleasure; that the only way she can be successful in her undertakings is the old tried way of honest labor.

This is no easy matter for parents of such a child. They already have done all they know—through an allowance, confidence, sharing, church, school, home life—all bent toward her growth in understanding. But she stole once more.

Parents are not to blame in such situations, nor should they let themselves suffer so, calling themselves failures and searching for their mistakes. They have done all they possibly could do. Now they tell the child once again what her conduct has done to them, to herself. As far as possible they make her replace the money. They do this so she learns the cost of her misdeed in terms of her own inconvenience. They let her wear the old dress and charge the cost of a new one to her account; they let her do some work that otherwise a hired worker would have done. They keep a close watch on her doings and require a stern accounting for the bad deed.

Teaching, time, experience will help these pre-adolescents who are beset with hungers they cannot satisfy.

Annoying habits in children should not be overlooked. They should be corrected. Dr. Patri gives his excellent advice on this problem in his booklet, No. 302, "Annoying Habits."

Charrles B. Driscoll:

New York Day By Day

Arcola, Ill.—This is a town of 1,800 people, 15 miles north of Mattoon, 30 miles south of Champagne, where the University of Illinois is situated. My New York friend, Barney Freeman, and I flew to Chicago on a DC-6, of American Airlines, but were delayed an hour by bad weather, so missed our air connection to Champagne. We stayed the night at the Palmer House, in Chicago, where, I believe, I stopped during national political conventions, many years ago. In fact, I seem to remember that Bryan stopped here in 1896, when he made his Cross of Gold speech. I read about it in a home-town paper then.

My visit to this part of the world is actuated by a recent talk with Henry Struve, a broom tycoon of Nebraska.

Mr. Struve told me that the broomcorn harvest would be under way in Illinois at about this time. Yesterday I saw the harvesting in progress.

I used to think that broomcorn grows well only in bad soil, upland, deep, black loam, at altitude 760 feet.

It is a corn country, and each year it's a gamble whether to plant Indian corn or broomcorn. A third big and profitable crop is soy beans.

I thought you might like to know about the brooms in your house. Here they raise the broomcorn, harvest it, take the seeds out, and make the brooms. So I came here to watch the harvest, although they tell me here that my home-town, Wichita, is still the broomcorn center of the world. Everybody I've met in these Illinois towns knows everybody in Wichita. So it's really something of a reunion, or Old Home Week. These Illinois plains are much like the prairies around my boyhood home in Kansas.

Just a few days ago, broomcorn sold in this area at $500 a ton, record price for all time. Nationally, there is a short crop. Labor costs are high. Workers in the field are not paid by the hour or by the day, but by the table. A table is two rows of corn, about a quarter of a mile long.

The harvester works with a sharp knife, four to six inches long, and I hope to take one back to New York. It is such an efficient instrument that a harvester will not lend you his knife for examination without warning you about the danger of cutting yourself. The harvesters I have met have much scar tissue, from old cuts, on their hands.

You would never guess, by looking at the harvest out here, that there is any shortage in brooms. But there is. This is a fortunate area. The stalks are 14 feet high. They must be bent down, bent over to the next row, formed into what is called a table, on which the heads of broomcorn are piled. A harvester, commonly called a broomcorn Johnny, although many are women, now gets as high as nine dollars per table. There are no loafers in the cornfields. I would like to tell you some more about this wonderful country. Perhaps tomorrow.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

POLICE STATE MENACE

The greatest menace to liberty that faces the remaining free world is that either by the force of circumstances or by imitation, totalitarian concepts of life are absorbed and adopted.

The McCarren act, which congress passed over the president's veto, whatever its necessity, is such a measure. Half a century ago, no American could conceive of similar limitations upon human freedom of thought and action. The American assumption was that no matter how wrong, how unorthodox, how stupid a person's view might be, he was entitled to express it, as long as such expression did not produce a dangerous overt act as, for instance, a riot.

Two federal limitations were placed upon individual freedom: 1. The enforcement of monogamy upon the Mormons; 2. The outlawing of anarchists. The question of polygamy requires no discussion at this time.

As for the anarchists, they were a tiny sect of men and women who disliked power and force and generally devoted themselves to discussions of the writings of Bakunin, Sorel, Ferrer, Prince Kropotkin, and similarly minded writers. Few of them believed in assassination. Alexander Berkman, who shot at Henry Frick, was the mildest of men. Czolgosz,' who assassinated President McKinley, was not an anarchist, but because of him, belief in the cooperative community without the employment of force was made a crime in the United States, and is so today.

The McCarran act deals with Communists, who present a special sect in our midst, first, because they are an apparatus of an international body, strictly controlled as to ideas and methods by Soviet Russia, which is today our self-proclaimed enemy; secondly, they engage in espionage as has been established in the Hiss, Coplon, Fuchs and other trials and by congressional investigation.

It is this circumstance which has outraged American public opinion rather than the canon of Marxian dialectics, which few Americans have bothered to study and fewer still understand. As long as the Communist devoted himself to lecturing and pamphleteering, that is, from 1848 to 1934, he was regarded as something of a freak in our society, an intellectual separatist.

I recall, in my childhood, the leader of American Marxists, Daniel De Leon, at one time professor at Columbia University, who attracted more attention by the peculiarities of his personality than by the waywardness of his ideas. Yet, De Leon left an impression upon his generation, particularly upon the outlook of Plekhanov and Lenin, the two principal theorists of Russian Marxism.

It was only after 1917, when Lenin came into control of Russia, almost by default, that Marxism became an international problem rather than one of many unusual economic and social ideas.

So far as the United States is concerned, Marxism made hardly an impression until the exchange of letters between Roosevelt and Litvinov by which this country recognized Soviet Russia in 1933. Although it was agreed by the Russians that they would not engage in what we now call subversive activities, in the following year, 1934, Harold Ware, an American who had spent a decade in Russia in the reorganization of its agricultural methods, was sent to this country to organize Americans into espionage and infiltration cells against their own country.

The work of the Ware cells and of other groups moved with astounding velocity and it was impossible to maintain the secrecy which they desired. The house of representatives organized its committee on un-American activities to ferret out their activities.

This committee, under the chairmanship of Martin Dies, had to start from scratch. The conspiracy into which it delved seemed fantastic and, at times, preposterous. No prior experience provided a technique for investigation. Fortunately, at just the moment when the committee's task seemed hopeless, Dr. J. B. Matthews, a fellow-traveler of great activity in the Communist movement, fell out with the party and joined the staff of the committee.

Matthews knew more than he could prove by such evidence as could be accepted in our courts, but he worked out a pattern of association which has been followed since, and which, while sometimes unjust to individuals, has uncovered the Communist technique in this country.

The problem that we now face is to prevent the McCarran act from becoming a proscriptive measure that will be used to limit discussion, criticism, scrutiny, examination, protest and petition in the United States. Like any other law, the test of its worth will be in its administration.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

(Bascom N. Timmons is on vacation. During his absence, his column will be written by members of his staff).

By Charles O. Gridley

It is not extraordinary that the taxpayers of this United States complain less about heavy taxes when there's fighting going on than they do in the peace interludes, which enabled President Truman to get his new bill for increased taxes to finance the expanded armament program through Congress almost without protest.

Most people take the tax raise grimly realizing that it will probably get worse — and it will. There will be another tax bill in January, and another still later probably in 1951 according to sources close to the planning minds. The Korean incident had the effect of killing all proposals for a slash in the budget, and since it began, there have been a number of new proposals presented to Congress involving heavy spending — all sorts of civil defense proposals, training courses, bomb shelters, a huge transfer of federal departments outside of Washington (which won't happen for some time, if at all) involving thousands of new employees and new temporary buildings.

The Marshall plan in Europe, regardless of the improvement it has wrought and the resistance it has imposed to the spread of Communism, has unquestionably encouraged every beneficiary to lean heavily on this nation to meet a good part of its bills, so that economic aid to Europe will continue to run at least two billion annually.

In 1919-20, after World War I, budgets began to run to a billion dollars annually, and frightened members of Congress shivered as they flayed the "profligate spending' of the postwar period. A dozen Republicans — and a Democrat or two—claim credit for the reply, "but this is a billion dollar country." The budget has climbed ever since. But if the congressmen who were alarmed by the billion dollar budget of only thirty years ago could see the prospect of a 60 billion dollar budget (or more) which now confronts the country, they would turn into whirling dervishes. And nobody has yet tried to grab credit for any such remark as, "This is a sixty billion dollar country."

Of course this is much more than a sixty billion dollar country, but an annual budget of that size can't go on indefinitely without a serious political reaction. State and local taxes have increased at such rates that the revolt could become general. The lawmakers took that into account, but the congress wound up in such confusion that there was only one thing to do—go home for a while and get some sort of a mandate from the voters.

The new tax bill doesn't go beyond the rates of World War II for individuals. It isn't, in fact, a bad bill, considering the cost of the "police action' in Korea. It contains a lot of complicated provisions (including one which exempts enlisted men and warrant officers from tax "in the combat zone of Korea" and leaves it to the president to determine the combat zone) but will not evoke much complaint — at least not until dose No. 2 comes along next year. The sad thing is that this time, there is no relief in sight.

When Rep. Gordon L. McDonough (Rep. Cal.) received that famous letter from President Truman, making dirty cracks about the marine corps, he inserted it in the appendix of the congressional record, nd it wasn't discovered there by reporters until Labor Day when a columnist hard up for news turned in desperation to what is sometimes referred to as the "catch all" of congress — the section of the record in which speeches and remarks never made are placed by their proud authors.

That brought McDonough into the limelight, made him the leading spokesman for the marine corps in the continuing fight as to whether the Marine corps shall be represented on the joint chiefs of staff. He is continuing his fight, and has written a letter to General George C. Marshall, the new secretary of defense, again presenting his argument for marine representation. And this letter, like the Truman reply to his first, he buried in the appendix of the congressional record.

A Change In Police Chiefs

The resignation last Monday of H. T. Ward as chief of the Monroe police department was sudden but not unexpected. It has been known for some time that Chief Ward, after serving as a member of the department in various capacities for 28 years, desired to retire.

We have disagreed with Chief Ward and some of his policies on several occasions. But weighing his service to the community over a long period of years, one must concede that he has made a good officer. His devotion to duty as he came up through the ranks gained the respect of both the public and his fellow officers. His added responsibilities after he was made chief by former Mayor Harvey Benoit brought him many headaches, we are sure, but in general he leaves behind him a good record.

These same headaches are now being assumed by a younger man, M. L. Peters, who was appointed acting chief by Mayor Coon and his associates on the city council. Chief Peters, who is 34 years old, joined the local department in 1941, after serving as a state patrolman for several years. He has had experience in every phase of the local department's work, and this experience should stand him in good stead as he assumes his new responsibilities.

Chief Peters has not been in office long enough to formulate the policies which he intends to put into effect, but we are confident that, with the cooperation of other members of the department, he can promote that degree of efficiency which is required in such an important phase of our city government. We wish him well in his new job.

Anti-Aggression Plan Of U.S.

Nobody can say U. S. foreign affairs experts aren't trying. Our new plan for world defense against aggression, laid before the United Nations, shows great effort and imagination.

We propose:

To put the U. N. general assembly on 24 hours call to deal with any new aggression in the event Russia hamstrings the security council.

To create a "peace patrol" to investigate promptly any area where trouble threatens.

To establish a special U. N. military force contributed to by each member nation, to be held in constant readiness for action against an aggressor.

To create a U. N. committee to consider how to use collective action, including armed force, to carry out U. N. charter aims.

We go beyond measures of this type to suggest establishment of a U. N. "recovery force" to help rehabilitate and raise economic standards in backward or war-devastated countries. We recommend that such a force move into a liberated Korea first.

And we advise that Formosa, controversial Pacific bastion, have its ultimate fate settled by the U. N. rather than by individual nations.

Not since the general assembly session of 1947 has the U. S. come up with such a hatful. But, of course, merely proposing is just a bare beginning. All these plans must be carefully weighed as to merit, worked out in detail, and pushed through over the opposition of Russia and her satellites.

Most difficult, obviously, would be to set up a U. N. military force. Russia has managed in the past to block every effort toward this end. She may still have some tricks left. But if it can be done legally under the general assembly, where there is no veto, the obstacles are probably not insurmountable.

U. N. members generally have been criticized for not supplying ground force aid to the U. S. and other armies fighting in Korea. Yet there were numerous offers. U. S. commanders felt compelled to reject many because of supply problems, inadequate training and lack of sufficient size in the offered units. A U. N. force would have its own military advisers and training officers to weld the various components into an effective fighting force, equipped for immediate action.

America's program shows a high determination to surmount the Russian roadblock and work with other nations for peace—or at least to prevent little wars from growing into general conflict.

And our proposals show, too, that we understand that the free world must do more than simply halt aggressors; it must make life in a free society of nations worth living. Hence the suggested "recovery force" is a vital complementary part of the program.

The U. S. recommendations, if examination proves them feasible in detail, should gain the overwhelming support of the non-Communist U. N. members, and be placed in effect at the earliest moment.

Support Your Fair

The 1950 Fair season, which will be at its height in October, already is well under way. The scores of exhibitions that will be held throughout the state during the next few weeks will offer new exhibits, new inspiration and new recreation to the thousands who will view them, but fairs themselves are an institution as old as civilization. Ouachita's Fair opens next week.

For many centuries, fairs have served to stimulate industry and trade and introduce new industrial and agricultural products as well as to bring multitudes of people together in a spirit of good humor and friendship. In the old world, cities have sprung up at the former sites of important fairs. The fairs of today still serve much the same purpose. They bring before the public the best in industrial and agricultural goods. In their competitive exhibits those who have done well are rewarded and those who have done a little less well are inspired to greater effort. In the agricultural sections, which are so important in a largely agricultural state such as Louisiana, townspeople get a new idea of what modern agriculture is achieving and many farmers themselves see what their neighbors are achieving through better methods of crop cultivation or livestock growing.

"It's Your Fair—So Be There" is suggested as a motto by Jasper J. Joyce, County Agent with the Agricultural Extension Department. No fair is without its beneficial effect on the community in which it is held or without same attraction for all who attend. The institution of fairs would not have lasted so long were this not the case.

ACHESON'S PROPOSALS

Editors, in large majority, are optimistic concerning the probable moral and military effectiveness of Secretary Acheson's proposals for strengthening the U. N. General Assembly. But a considerable minority of editors are doubtful concerning the effectiveness with which the various nations might respond to the Assembly's recommendations for military action. And a somewhat smaller number questions whether this is the best way, under the U. N. Charter, to marshal international military power for peace enforcement in the present world situation.

Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer (Dem.): "Briefly stated, the Acheson plan would call for the General Assembly to meet within 24 hours and act in cases in which the Security Council fails to act because of a veto. The plan would also give the Assembly investigating machinery and make it possible for it to provide armed forces to carry out its recommendations. . . . Whatever may be said about its details, the Acheson plan is a workable plan. It should be approved, with or without amendments, as soon as it can be, with full opportunity for discussion."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "The real purpose of the changes suggested is to nullify that part of the U. N. Charter which permits any permanent member of the Security Council—in actual practice, the Soviet Union—to veto collective action against an aggressor. . . . To do this by act of the General Assembly would be evasive in manner, however desirable it is in substance. . . . An excellent means of accomplishing the same purpose with the full color of legality is provided in the U. N. Charter. Article 51 allows member nations to join together by treaty and act collectively against aggression. ."

Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "It is lawful, under the charter, for the General Assembly to consider 'any questions relating to the maintenance of international peace and security brought before it' except when the same questions are already under consideration of the Security Coun-

OUR CHILDREN

PARENTAL FAILURE

Conscientious parents torture themselves searching for the cause of their children's waywardness within themselves, in their relations with the children, when there is no fault in them. We must remember that the influences on children's behavior are countless, in as many varieties as there are persons and events touching their lives.

Each child has a different heritage of traits and tendencies, certain strengths, certain weaknesses. The influences that touch them will strengthen whatever traits and tendencies they have to their good or to their hurt. Should the characteristic that we know to be a failing be very strong it will attract and be attracted to the influences that strengthen it. Home and parents are not always to be blamed. It could be that nobody is to blame.

What makes a carefully reared child steal? Sometimes he does. A lovely little girl of about twelve took quite a sum of money from her father's desk. He had put it there to pay a bill the next morning.

It was not the first time she had taken money from the family. Why, when she had an allowance the things she needed, had she done this? Investigation disclosed that she had spent most of the money for riding lessons. She wanted to learn how to ride bareback in the circus. Her great grandmother had been a bareback rider in a circus.

Knowing why is helpful but it does not cure the wrong thinking that led the child into stealing what she knew she could not get rightfully. Our problem is how to teach this child that she cannot take from others, cannot rightfully make others pay for her pleasure; that the only way she can be successful in her undertakings is the old tried way of honest labor.

This is no easy matter for parents of such a child. They already have done all they know—through an allowance, confidence, sharing, church, school, home life—all bent toward her growth in understanding. But she stole once more.

Parents are not to blame in such situations, nor should they let themselves suffer so, calling themselves failures and searching for their mistakes. They have done all they possibly could do. Now they tell the child once again what her conduct has done to them, to herself. As far as possible they make her replace the money. They do this so she learns the cost of her misdeed in terms of her own inconvenience. They let her wear the old dress and charge the cost of a new one to her account; they let her do some work that otherwise a hired worker would have done. They keep a close watch on her doings and require a stern accounting for the bad deed.

Teaching, time, experience will help these pre-adolescents who are beset with hungers they cannot satisfy.

New York Day By Day

Arcola, Ill.—This is a town of 1,800 people, 15 miles north of Mattoon, 30 miles south of Champagne, where the University of Illinois is situated. My New York friend, Barney Freeman, and I flew to Chicago on a DC-6, of American Airlines, but were delayed an hour by bad weather, so missed our air connection to Champagne. We stayed the night at the Palmer House, in Chicago, where, I believe, I stopped during national political conventions, many years ago. In fact, I seem to remember that Bryan stopped here in 1896, when he made his Cross of Gold speech. I read about it in a home-town paper then.

My visit to this part of the world is actuated by a recent talk with Henry Struve, a broom tycoon of Nebraska.

Mr. Struve told me that the broomcorn harvest would be under way in Illinois at about this time. Yesterday I saw the harvesting in progress.

I used to think that broomcorn grows well only in bad soil, upland, deep, black loam, at altitude 760 feet.

It is a corn country, and each year it's a gamble whether to plant Indian corn or broomcorn. A third big and profitable crop is soy beans.

I thought you might like to know about the brooms in your house. Here they raise the broomcorn, harvest it, take the seeds out, and make the brooms. So I came here to watch the harvest, although they tell me here that my hometown, Wichita, is still the broomcorn center of the world. Everybody I've met in these Illinois towns knows everybody in Wichita. So it's really something of a reunion, or Old Home Week. These Illinois plains are much like the prairies around my boyhood home in Kansas.

Just a few days ago, broomcorn sold in this area at $500 a ton, record price for all time. Nationally, there is a short crop. Labor costs are high. Workers in the field are not paid by the hour or by the day, but by the table. A table is two rows of corn, about a quarter of a mile long.

The harvester works with a sharp knife, four to six inches long, and I hope to take one back to New York. It is such an efficient instrument that a harvester will not lend you his knife for examination without warning you about the danger of cutting yourself. The harvesters I have met have much scar tissue, from old cuts, on their hands.

You would never guess, by looking at the harvest out here, that there is any shortage in brooms. But there is. This is a fortunate area. The stalks are 14 feet high. They must be bent down, bent over to the next row, formed into what is called a table, on which the heads of broomcorn are piled. A harvester, commonly called a broomcorn Johnny, although many are women, now gets as high as nine dollars per table. There are no loafers in the cornfields. I would like to tell you some more about this wonderful country. Perhaps tomorrow.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

POLICE STATE MENACE

The greatest menace to liberty that faces the remaining free world is that either by the force of circumstances or by imitation, totalitarian concepts of life are absorbed and adopted.

The McCarren act, which congress passed over the president's veto, whatever its necessity, is such a measure. Half a century ago, no American could conceive of similar limitations upon human freedom of thought and action. The American assumption was that no matter how wrong, how unorthodox, how stupid a person's view might be, he was entitled to express it, as long as such expression did not produce a dangerous overt act as, for instance, a riot.

Two federal limitations were placed upon individual freedom: 1. The enforcement of monogamy upon the Mormons; 2. The outlawing of anarchists. The question of polygamy requires no discussion at this time.

As for the anarchists, they were a tiny sect of men and women who disliked power and force and generally devoted themselves to discussions of the writings of Bakunin, Sorel, Ferrer, Prince Kropotkin, and similarly minded writers. Few of them believed in assassination. Alexander Berkman, who shot at Henry Frick, was the mildest of men. Czolgosz,' who assassinated President McKinley, was not an anarchist, but because of him, belief in the cooperative community without the employment of force was made a crime in the United States, and is so today.

The McCarran act deals with Communists, who present a special sect in our midst, first, because they are an apparatus of an international body, strictly controlled as to ideas and methods by Soviet Russia, which is today our self-proclaimed enemy; secondly, they engage in espionage as has been established in the Hiss, Coplon, Fuchs and other trials and by congressional investigation.

It is this circumstance which has outraged American public opinion rather than the canon of Marxian dialectics, which few Americans have bothered to study and fewer still understand. As long as the Communist devoted himself to lecturing and pamphleteering, that is, from 1848 to 1934, he was regarded as something of a freak in our society, an intellectual separatist.

I recall, in my childhood, the leader of American Marxists, Daniel De Leon, at one time professor at Columbia University, who attracted more attention by the peculiarities of his personality than by the waywardness of his ideas. Yet, De Leon left an impression upon his generation, particularly upon the outlook of Plekhanov and Lenin, the two principal theorists of Russian Marxism.

It was only after 1917, when Lenin came into control of Russia, almost by default, that Marxism became an international problem rather than one of many unusual economic and social ideas.

So far as the United States is concerned, Marxism made hardly an impression until the exchange of letters between Roosevelt, and Litvinov by which this country recognized Soviet Russia in 1933. Although it was agreed by the Russians that they would not engage in what we now call subversive activities, in the following year, 1934, Harold Ware, an American who had spent a decade in Russia in the reorganization of its agricultural methods, was sent to this country to organize Americans into espionage and infiltration cells against their own country.

The work of the Ware cells and of other groups moved with astounding velocity and it was impossible to maintain the secrecy which they desired. The house of representatives organized its committee on un-American activities to ferret out their activities.

This committee, under the chairmanship of Martin Dies, had to start from scratch. The conspiracy into which it delved seemed fantastic and, at times, preposterous. No prior experience provided a technique for investigation. Fortunately, at just the moment when the committee's task seemed hopeless, Dr. J. B. Matthews, a fellow-traveler of great activity in the Communist movement, fell out with the party and joined the staff of the committee.

Matthews knew more than he could prove by such evidence as could be accepted in our courts, but he worked out a pattern of association which has been followed since, and which, while sometimes unjust to individuals, has uncovered the Communist technique in this country.

The problem that we now face is to prevent the McCarran act from becoming a proscriptive measure that will be used to limit discussion, criticism, scrutiny, examination, protest and petition in the United States. Like any other law, the test of its worth will be in its administration.

BASCOM TIMMONS

(Bascom N. Timmons is on vacation. During his absence, his column will be written by members of his staff).

By Charles O. Gridley

It is not extraordinary that the taxpayers of this United States complain less about heavy taxes when there's fighting going on than they do in the peace interludes, which enabled President Truman to get his new bill for increased taxes to finance the expanded armament program through Congress almost without protest.

Most people take the tax raise grimly realizing that it will probably get worse — and it will. There will be another tax bill in January, and another still later probably in 1951 according to sources close to the planning minds. The Korean incident had the effect of killing all proposals for a slash in the budget, and since it began, there have been a number of new proposals presented to Congress involving heavy spending — all sorts of civil defense proposals, training courses, bomb shelters, a huge transfer of federal departments outside of Washington (which won't happen for some time, if at all) involving thousands of new employees and new temporary buildings.

The Marshall plan in Europe, regardless of the improvement it has wrought and the resistance it has imposed to the spread of Communism, has unquestionably encouraged every beneficiary to lean heavily on this nation to meet a good part of its bills, so that economic aid to Europe will continue to run at least two billion annually.

In 1919-20, after World War I, budgets began to run to a billion dollars annually, and frightened members of Congress shivered as they flayed the "profligate spending' of the postwar period. A dozen Republicans — and a Democrat or two—claim credit for the reply, "but this is a billion dollar country." The budget has climbed ever since. But if the congressmen who were alarmed by the billion dollar budget of only thirty years ago could see the prospect of a 60 billion dollar budget (or more) which now confronts the country, they would turn into whirling dervishes. And nobody has yet tried to grab credit for any such remark as, "This is a sixty billion dollar country."

Of course this is much more than a sixty billion dollar country, but an annual budget of that size can't go on indefinitely without a serious political reaction. State and local taxes have increased at such rates that the revolt could become general. The lawmakers took that into account, but the congress wound up in such confusion that there was only one thing to do—go home for a while and get some sort of a mandate from the voters.

The new tax bill doesn't go beyond the rates of World War II for individuals. It isn't, in fact, a bad bill, considering the cost of the "police action' in Korea. It contains a lot of complicated provisions (including one which exempts enlisted men and warrant officers from tax "in the combat zone of Korea" and leaves it to the president to determine the combat zone) but will not evoke much complaint — at least not until dose No. 2 comes along next year. The sad thing is that this time, there is no relief in sight.

When Rep. Gordon L. McDonough (Rep. Cal.) received that famous letter from President Truman, making dirty cracks about the marine corps, he inserted it in the appendix of the congressional record, nd it wasn't discovered there by reporters until Labor Day when a columnist hard up for news turned in desperation to what is sometimes referred to as the "catch all" of congress — the section of the record in which speeches and remarks never made are placed by their proud authors.

That brought McDonough into the limelight, made him the leading spokesman for the marine corps in the continuing fight as to whether the Marine corps shall be represented on the joint chiefs of staff. He is continuing his fight, and has written a letter to General George C. Marshall, the new secretary of defense, again presenting his argument for marine representation. And this letter, like the Truman reply to his first, he buried in the appendix of the congressional record.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

YOM KIPPUR IN KOREA

When Eleanor and I were in Tokyo a little over a year ago, we got to know Colonel Anthony Story, General MacArthur's pilot. This morning I got a letter from Tony with a Korea dateline and it contained a story which I think is worth passing along. . . .

In one of the marine corps regiments which recently slugged into Inchon there was a corporal named Abraham Geller who had been brought up a nickel phone call away from Delancey street. Abe was one son of a rabbi, and even a the front where sleep is the most important thing in the world, he never failed to wake a half hour before his buddies and go through the ritual of the orthodox morning prayers.

On September 20, Abe's regiment crossed the Han and cut the Seoul-Kaesong road and, what with snipers in every rice paddy, by dusk the men were glad to dig in and catch a few hours of clammy sleep —especially since they knew that the drive for the Korean capital itself was scheduled for sunup.

An hour before dawn, aside from the sentries, only two men in the company were awake: Corporal Geller, bent over his prayer book, and Captain George O'Connor, surveying the terrain and figuring out how best to deploy his troops in the coming action.

When Abe was finished, the captain said, "Go back to the chow truck and get yourself a cup of coffee."

"Thanks, Captain," said Geller, "but today's Yom Kippur, and I'm not supposed to eat until sundown."

"You mean to say you're going to fast the day we bust into Seoul?" said the captain.

The East Sider grinned. "I figure I've got enough calories packed away for twenty-four hours," he said.

Well, as the papers have told you, the marines ran into plenty of trouble the first day of the drive, and along about sundown Captain O'Connor's men were inching their way across a field littered with dead North Koreans. One of the Commies, however, though badly wounded, was only playing dead, and as the officer came within range he rolled over on his side and aimed his pistol.

Fortunately, Abe, who was only a few feet from his commanding officer, saw the body move. He jerked his bayonet out of his belt and made a dive for the enemy soldier, but in finishing him off he got the three bullets which had been intended for O'Connor.

The captain did the best he could for Abe, but at this stage the situation was what military commentators called "fluid," and it was almost three hours before the corporal got a shot of penicillin and was carried to a hospital tent.

The operation lasted over an hour, and when the surgeon finally came out Captain O'Connor was waiting for him.

"How does it look?" he asked.

"The kid's doing fine," said the medico.

"I figured he was done for," said O'Connor.

"So did I," said the surgeon. "The bullets went through his abdomen and several loops of intestine, and wounds like that are generally fatal if penicillin isn't administered pretty fast. The spillage almost always causes peritonitis and general blood poisoning."

"I don't get all the words," said the captain, "but his pulling through seems like something of a miracle."

"In a manner of speaking, it is," said the surgeon. "Corporal Geller owes his life to the fact that when he was shot there was hardly any food in his stomach."

SING BACKACHE BLUES AWAY

Thousands once blue and depressed felt like singing when they discovered how quickly wonder-soothing CYSTEX usually relieves Backache, Strong Cloudy Urine, Frequent, Burning Passages, Getting Up Nights, Leg Pains, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, and Rheumatic Pains, due to simple Kidney and Bladder troubles without organic or systemic cause. CYSTEX works in acid conditions by helping nature clear away certain irritating non-specific germs which often cause much trouble. Then nature has a chance to rebuild your natural vitality and make you want to sing with the joy of living. Don't wait and let dreary days and wretched nights make you sorry. Get CYSTEX from your druggist today and see how quickly you may feel like singing again. Satisfaction or money back is guaranteed.

An automatic no-left-turn signal, which is to be placed at the intersection of South Grand and Grammont streets this week, is being installed by the Monroe police department, announced Captain Jack Davis of the traffic department. The signal is to be placed underneath the red light and will be used at the peak hours of around 3 o'clock and afterwards and at 5:30.

Thurman Sensing,

DOWN SOUTH

YOU CAN'T EAT DOLLARS

Inflation is an insidious disease. It slowly eats into the vitals of a nation and, usually, by the time the nation realizes it is inflicted it is too late to effect a cure.

Inflation is all the more insidious because in its early stages it is pleasant and stimulating. It makes money more plentiful—and the average person feels prosperous in proportion to the number of dollars he has in his pocket; he gives very little thought to what the dollars will buy. That comes later.

There is another fact about inflation we should take note of—and that is that inflation is a fault of leadership. Inflation is not demanded by the people; inflation is permitted by the leaders. The people may accept it without much question, may even accept it gladly, but it is only promoted and allowed by unprincipled leaders whose real responsibility in their position as leaders is to prevent it.

And there is one thing certain about inflation—it destroys the system which permits it. There have been numerous examples throughout history. We can even point to recent examples. Inflation in Germany wound up in dictatorship; inflation in China wound up in communism.

Now, this it not an abstract discussion unrelated to life in these United States. We are facing inflation right here in our own country. It has proceeded and will perhaps proceed more slowly here than it ordinarily would due to the great accumulated resources of our country and due to our enormous productive capacity. But if we continue the trend we have been following we can be just as certain as death and taxes that inflation will destroy our own economy. And we can be quite sure that when our economy is destroyed, our traditional form of government will go along with it.

All this has come about because cent years has not measured up to its responsibility. Nor is this a question of politics; it is much bigger than politics. It so happens that this condition has developed under a Democratic administration. It would have been just as bad under a Republican administration. In fact, the leadership of the Republican party cannot deny a measure of responsibility for the present situation; this leadership has at least committed the sin of omission in not more actively defending the principles which make for a sound economy. It has been too easy for politicians in both parties in recent years to advocate the "tax and tax and spend and spend and promise and promise" policy. They have found it means votes on election day and all other considerations have been subjugated to this end.

During the eight years of peace proceding World War Two, our national debt was increased from $19 billion to $48 billion; each year we spent more than we received, thus violating all the fundamental factors that make for a sound economy. Then came the war with a its terrible cost. We had five years of peace following the war 5 years that by most guages would be considered very prosperous years. But only during two of those two years did we live within our income, and the payments on the national debt during those two years were largely made from money borrowed in excess of our needs for the war. Now in the twenty first year of this procedure we are again at war and preparing for more war. The national debt stands at $257 billion and is again on the increase; no one can see the end.

There is no escaping the fact, of course, that war is wasteful and expensive. Whatever war costs, it must be won. But we seem to have reached a point in this country in our attitude toward our national finances that there is no limit to the amount of money that can be appropriaed for any and all purposes—war or otherwise. If we continue in that attitude, we shall some day find out how wrong we were. We will find that the money we print is worth no more than the paper it is printed on. We will find that money makes poor eating!

In this case . . . any of the other Big Five members can veto a Russian Security Council proposal to consider any question when the proposal is intended to snatch the subject away from the General Assembly."

El Paso (Texas) Herald-Post (Ind.): "The plan for an international army, under which each member nation would be expected to set up a special military force which could be called upon for prompt U. N. service, represents a laudable goal. But unless a firm deadline is set for the formation of such forces . . . the response is likely to be as slow and fragmentary as . . . in the Korean emergency. It would seem more realistic to provide for immediate creation of a less ambitious police unit of one or two divisions strength . . . responsible only to the U. N. Such a force could hold the line while the member units were being assembled."

San Francisco (Calif.) Chronicle (Ind.-Rep.): "The great majority of the nations in the U. What is important is that the promises were made at all and are steadily being fulfilled."

Dallas (Texas) Morning News (Ind.-Dem.): "What is surprising is that Russia's Vishinsky did not go all out in an attack on the Acheson proposal. For this change would not only largely take the teeth out of Vishinsky's beloved veto; it would also cut the Security Council itself down to size, with a corresponding buildup of the power and prestige of the full assembly of fifty-nine nations."

Philadelphia (Pa.) Inquirer (Ind.-Rep.): "Russia's words in the General Assembly have been milder thus far. . . . But there's no reason to suppose that Russian aims have been changed. Russia may fear Western rearmament, and want to lead us to think it isn't necessary after all. . . . Russia may even want to end the Korean war by agreement, now that it is going against her. Little Theatre Curtain Call

One actor and one actress have dropped from the cast of "Boy Meets Girl" because of conflicting business reasons. Flo Bernheim, who was cast as Mr. Friday the producer, can't be with us in this play and the same goes for artist Dorothy Fountain who's free lance art work has piled upon her.

Director Stocker Fontelieu tells us that the role of Mr. Friday will be recast by Monday night rehearsal. As for the part of the acid tongued Miss Crews, which Mrs. Fountain was doing, it has been given to Ramona Cormier who has come up from manicurist to secretary (In the Play).

The first backstage chairman to be named for the production of "Boy Meets Girl" is that popular little girl Jackie Voorhees. Jackie will be head of properties. Say, you know, there is going to be quite a crew of people working on this play by the time Stocker gets around to alloting all the back stage work.

Random Notes. . .Commercial Solvents has provided Little Theatre with an electric water cooler. This is mighty good news to those folks working out there each night and to Little Theatre goers who will be seeing the plays. Many thanks to J. E. Wheeler for his kindness and thoughtfulness. . . While passing Dell's barber shop Saturday morning we glanced in and thought an Indian attack was going on. On second glance we discovered that it was only Kim and Frederick Breese driving their mother Beth to distraction while waiting their turn in the barber chair. Don't know who was more confused, the boys or the barbers . . .Next person we ran into was Yvonne Lusk who was inning and outing every store on DeSiard St. Could she have been readying her wardrobe for the leading feminine role in "Boy Meets Girl". . .Just what can't Lon Heuer do? Heard he spent Saturday deep in the floor of a friend's house installing a floor furnace. . .Congrats to the Junior Charity League and to those mighty nice gals, Beth Breese, Jerry Cox and Jane Schubert who made the appeal for $695.00 for a special bed to save the life of Charles Parry. They not only netted their goal but came out with a few dollars over. . .Don't forget the special meeting for all workers who sold tickets during the membership drive. It is imperative that everyone be on hand, at Little Theatre playhouse, 3 p.m. today. See you there.

Blessed Event. . .We doff our hats to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johns, proud parents of a nine pound baby boy born in the wee hours on Friday morning. Although, we hear he will be junior, ten hours after his arrival Roy Sr. was calling him Hank. Now that is what we call watching our membership grow.

Columbia Doctor Is Elected At Convention

Shreveport, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Louisiana Academy of General Practice today wound up its fourth annual convention here with the installation of new officers.

Dr. C. M. Wiginton of Hammond was named president-elect and Dr. Joel B. Gray of New Orleans, nominated president-elect at the 1949 convention assumed the office of president.

MRS. C. MANSHIP SUCCUMBS AT SEA

Wife Of Former Baton Rouge Publisher Dies During Pleasure Cruise

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Charles P. Manship, Sr., 68, widow of the late publisher of the Baton Rouge State-Times and Morning Advocate, will be flown home next week from Porto Rico.

Mrs. Manship's family announced her death, of a heart attack today, aboard the S. S. Del Norte at sea east of Havana, Cuba. Mrs. Manship had left New Orleans Thursday for a pleasure trip to South America.

She was accompanied by Hunter Jarreau, publisher of the Alexandria Town Talk, Mrs. Jarreau, Robert Stone and his wife and daughter Nancy of Lake Charles.

Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Charles P. Manship, Jr., said tonight his mother's body will be taken ashore Monday at San Juan, Porto Rico to be flown back to Baton Rouge Tuesday or Wednesday. He and another son, Doug, fly to San Juan Sunday.

Funeral services are tentatively set for Thursday in Baton Rouge.

Charles, Jr., is president of the Capital City Press and publisher of the State-Times and Morning Advocate. Douglas is president of the Baton Rouge Broadcasting Co., operator of stations WJBO and WBRL.

Other survivors include two brothers, J. B. Douthit, of Pendleton S. C., and Claude Douthit of Boston, and three sisters, Mrs. Carrie E. Glenn and Mrs. Maude Bell of Anderson, S. C., and Mrs. Fred Patterson of Sandy Springs, S. C.

Mrs. Manship was active in the founding of the Good Fellows which provides Christmas toys for hundreds of under-privileged children in Baton Rouge. Also prominent in works of St. James Episcopal Church, she was an alumna of the Chi Omega Sorority and a member of the junior service league.

DOROTHY DIX

Useless Emotion

Woman Asks How She Can Rid Self Of Jealousy

DEAR MISS DIX: I am having a terribly jealous streak that is making me do foolish things and putting wrinkles in my face. My husband works with a very attractive and sweet girl. I know she is crazy about him and he likes her, but I am sure I'm the one he loves. Lately she has been waiting to walk home with him and that is what has got me all roused up. It makes me so resentful toward him that I don't treat him right. A couple of times I have shown my jealousy of her by letting loose and he just thought me silly. How shall I treat the situation? I hate this being jealous, and I hope you can knock it out of me some way or another.

MRS. S. A.

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: You are the first green-eyed woman I have ever encountered who realized that jealousy made her do foolish things, so perhaps you can cure yourself. The only remedy for jealousy is an application of common sense to the situation.

LOOK AT PROBLEM CALMLY

Now, being more level-headed than most women, suppose you look your problem in the face and try to deal with it sanely instead of hysterically. In the first place, calmly decide what real cause you have for jealousy. Because your husband works with a pretty and attractive girl is no sign that he is in love with her. The world is full of pretty and attractive girls, but not every man who meets with one falls for her.

The fact that your husband chose you out of all the world for a wife should prove to you that you are his type, and until you have strong evidence to the contrary you are justified in believing that he still prefers you to any other woman. Nor have you any proof that the girl is in love with your husband. Because you are in love with him is no sign that every other woman is.

My advice to you is to try to realize that in a world that is full of men and women you can't protect your husband from temptation; you can't segregate him from attractive women. The only way you can possibly have any happiness is by trusting him and not letting the thought of these other women keep you worried and stirred up. If he has not enough love for you to be faithful to you because you are the only woman in the world for him, and if he has not manhood and loyalty enough to be true to you, then he isn't worth a single jealous pang, much less putting wrinkles in your face.

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I decently end an engagement with a young lady? I have deliberately and politely asked for my liberty but to no avail. I have rushed other girls she disliked, but it did me no good. I have done everything I know how to make her angry so I could make my getaway, but she doesn't get visibly angry, just hurt and sad. The situation is one that calls for drastic measures and I am at my wit's end to know what to do. Can you suggest a decent and honorable way out?

FRED

ANSWER: I should think that the thing to do would be to just come out flat-footed and tell the girl in plain and unmistakable language that you do not love her, and that you do not intend to marry her now or ever, that the whole affair is washed up. Inasmuch as it is difficult to tell the brutal truth in a convincing fashion to one who protesses to love you, I would further suggest that you put your ultimatum in writing rather than deliver it by word of mouth.

If you lack the backbone to act the part of a man, emulate the tactics of a balky mule. Make no more dates with the young lady. Don't answer her telephone calls. Use passive resistance. After all, no woman, no matter how determined she is, can force a man to marry her if he puts his back up and refuses to do so. There are no more unhappy marriages than those entered into by men who make a little near-love that they never intend her to take seriously to a girl and who find that they have tied a knot with their tongues that they can't untie with their teeth.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a man of 40, with two little children. Lost my wife last February. After ten weeks of bewilderment I was deeply attracted to one of my wife's friends, who has always loved my children. I proposed to her and was accepted and we expect to be married before the year ends, but I have received much criticism about my haste in replacing my wife. Is this just? K. C. M.

ANSWER: The accepted canon of good taste is that a man shall wait a year before marrying again. But it is a matter of individual inclination and, of course, a husband who isn't greatly bereaved has a perfect right to do as he pleases in the matter.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

YOM KIPPUR IN KOREA

When Eleanor and I were in Tokyo a little over a year ago, we got to know Colonel Anthony Story, General MacArthur's pilot. This morning I got a letter from Tony with a Korea dateline and it contained a story which I think is worth passing along. . . .

In one of the marine corps regiments which recently slugged into Inchon there was a corporal named Abraham Geller who had been brought up a nickel phone call away from Delancey street. Abe was the son of a rabbi, and even a the front where sleep is the most important thing in the world, he never failed to wake a half hour before his buddies and go through the ritual of the orthodox morning prayers.

On September 20, Abe's regiment crossed the Han and cut the Seoul-Kaesong road and, what with snipers in every rice paddy, by dusk the men were glad to dig in and catch a few hours of clammy sleep—especially since they knew that the drive for the Korean capital itself was scheduled for sunup.

An hour before dawn, aside from the sentries, only two men in the company were awake: Corporal Geller, bent over his prayer book, and Captain George O'Connor, surveying the terrain and figuring out how best to deploy his troops in the coming action.

When Abe was finished, the captain said, "Go back to the chow truck and get yourself a cup of coffee."

"Thanks, Captain," said Geller, "but today's Yom Kippur, and I'm not supposed to eat until sundown."

"You mean to say you're going to fast the day we bust into Seoul?" said the captain.

The East Sider grinned. "I figure I've got enough calories packed away for twenty-four hours," he said.

Well, as the papers have told you, the marines ran into plenty of trouble the first day of the drive, and along about sundown Captain O'Connor's men were inching their way across a field littered with dead North Koreans. One of the Commies, however, though badly wounded, was only playing dead, and as the officer came within range he rolled over on his side and aimed his pistol.

Fortunately, Abe, who was only a few feet from his commanding officer, saw the body move. He jerked his bayonet out of his belt and made a dive for the enemy soldier, but in finishing him off he got the three bullets which had been intended for O'Connor.

The captain did the best he could for Abe, but at this stage the situation was what military commentators called "fluid," and it was almost three hours before the corporal got a shot of penicillin and was carried to a hospital tent.

The operation lasted over an hour, and when the surgeon finally came out Captain O'Connor was waiting for him.

"How does it look?" he asked.

"The kid's doing fine," said the medico.

"I figured he was done for," said O'Connor.

"So did I," said the surgeon. "The bullets went through his abdomen and several loops of intestine, and wounds like that are generally fatal if penicillin isn't administered pretty fast. The spillage almost always causes peritonitis and general blood poisoning."

"I don't get all the words," said the captain, "but his pulling through seems like something of a miracle."

"In a manner of speaking, it is," said the surgeon. "Corporal Geller owes his life to the fact that when he was shot there was hardly any food in his stomach."

SING BACKACHE BLUES AWAY

Thousands once blue and depressed felt like singing when they discovered how quickly wonder-soothing CYSTEX usually relieves Backache, Strong Cloudy Urine, Frequent, Burning Passages, Getting Up Nights, Leg Pains, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, and Rheumatic Pains, due to simple Kidney and Bladder troubles without organic or systemic cause. CYSTEX works in acid conditions by helping nature clear away certain irritating non-specific germs which often cause much trouble. Then nature has a chance to rebuild your natural vitality and make you want to sing with the joy of living. Don't wait and let dreary days and wretched nights make you sorry. Get CYSTEX from your druggist today and see how quickly you may feel like singing again. Satisfaction or money back is guaranteed.

An automatic no-left-turn signal, which is to be placed at the intersection of South Grand and Grammont streets this week, is being installed by the Monroe police department, announced Captain Jack Davis of the traffic department. The signal is to be placed underneath the red light and will be used at the peak hours of around 3 o'clock and afterwards and at 5:30.

YOU CAN'T EAT DOLLARS

Inflation is an insidious disease. It slowly eats into the vitals of a nation and, usually, by the time the nation realizes it is inflicted it is too late to effect a cure.

Inflation is all the more insidious because in its early stages it is pleasant and stimulating. It makes money more plentiful—and the average person feels prosperous in proportion to the number of dollars he has in his pocket; he gives very little thought to what the dollars will buy. That comes later.

There is another fact about inflation we should take note of—and that is that inflation is a fault of leadership. Inflation is not demanded by the people; inflation is permitted by the leaders. The people may accept it without much question, may even accept it gladly, but it is only promoted and allowed by unprincipled leaders whose real responsibility in their position as leaders is to prevent it.

And there is one thing certain about inflation—it destroys the system which permits it. There have been numerous examples throughout history. We can even point to recent examples. Inflation in Germany wound up in dictatorship; inflation in China wound up in communism.

Now, this it not an abstract discussion unrelated to life in these United States. We are facing inflation right here in our own country. It has proceeded and will perhaps proceed more slowly here than it ordinarily would due to the great accumulated resources of our country and due to our enormous productive capacity. But if we continue the trend we have been following we can be just as certain as death and taxes that inflation will destroy our own economy. And we can be quite sure that when our economy is destroyed, our traditional form of government will go along with it.

All this has come about because cent years has not measured up to its responsibility. Nor is this a question of politics; it is much bigger than politics. It so happens that this condition has developed under a Democratic administration. It would have been just as bad under a Republican administration. In fact, the leadership of the Republican party cannot deny a measure of responsibility for the present situation; this leadership has at least committed the sin of omission in not more actively defending the principles which make for a sourd economy. It has been too easy for politicians in both parties in recent years to advocate the "tax and tax and spend and spend and promise and promise" policy. They have found it means votes on election day and all other considerations have beer subjugated to this end.

During the eight years of peace proceding World War Two, our national debt was increased from $19 billion to $48 billion; each year we spent more than we received, thus violating all the fundamental factors that make for a sound economy. Then came the war with a its terrible cost. We had five years of peace following the war 5 years that by most guages would be considered very prosperous years. But only during two of those two years did we live within our income, and the payments on the national debt during those two years were largely made with money borrowed in excess of our needs for the war. Now in the twenty first year of this procedure we are again at war and preparing for more war. The national debt stands at $257 billion and is again on the increase; no one can see the end.

There is no escaping the fact, of course, that war is wasteful and expensive. Whatever war costs, it must be won. But we seem to have reached a point in this country in our attitude toward our national finances that there is no limit to the amount of money that can be appropriaed for any and all purposes—war or otherwise. If we continue in that attitude, we shall some day find out how wrong we were. We will find that the money we print is worth no more than the paper it is printed on. We will find that money makes poor eating!

EDITOR'S ROUNDTABLE

cil. . . . Only such a course can pull the U. N. out of the paralyzing grip of the Soviet Union's veto. . . . In this case . . . any of the other Big Five members can veto a Russian Security Council proposal to consider any question when the proposal is intended to snatch the subject away from the General Assembly."

El Paso (Texas) Herald-Post (Ind.): "The plan for an international army, under which each member nation would be expected to set up a special military force which could be called upon for prompt U. N. service, represents a laudable goal. But unless a firm deadline is set for the formation of such forces . . . the response is likely to be as slow and fragmentary as . . . in the Korean emergency. It would seem more realistic to provide for immediate creation of a less ambitious police unit of one or two divisions strength . . . responsible only to the U. N. Such a force could hold the line while the member units were being assembled."

San Francisco (Calif.) Chronicle (Ind.-Rep.): "The great majority of the nations in the U. N. sprang promptly to our side on the Korean question. . . . 53 nations declared against aggression, in the full knowledge that they were also declaring against the Soviet Union. It is quite true that the men and equipment came less readily, or speedily, than the moral statements. But that has been overstressed—we, ourselves, discovered what a gap could exist between the bold moral stand and the actual delivery of adequate forces to support the stand. What is important is that the promises were made at all and are steadily being fulfilled."

Dallas (Texas) Morning News (Ind.-Dem.): "What is surprising is that Russia's Vishinsky did not go all out in an attack on the Acheson proposal. For this change would not only largely take the teeth out of Vishinsky's beloved veto; it would also cut the Security Council itself down to size, with a corresponding buildup of the power and prestige of the full assembly of fifty-nine nations."

Philadelphia (Pa.) Inquirer (Ind.-Rep.): "Russia's words in the General Assembly have been milder thus far. . . . But there's no reason to suppose that Russian aims have been changed. ANSWER: The accepted canon of good taste is that a man shall wait a year before marrying again. But it is a matter of individual inclination and, of course, a husband who isn't greatly bereaved has a perfect right to do as he pleases in the matter.

SEARCH, RESCUE MISSIONS SLATED

Wing And Squadron Personnel Receive Extensive Training

Simulated search and rescue missions over the surrounding area of Alexandria is being conducted by the Civil Air Patrol in a manuver known as "Operation Sarcap", which is a search air rescue.

The Monroe squadron of the civil air patrol used its own observation plane during the exercises. The plane was flown to Alexandria by Farrell Adams with Clifford Foster as observer.

All wing and squadron personnel received extensive training in search and rescue procedure. Emphasis was placed on flight observers being able to locate the missing aircraft, but most important to be able to direct ground rescue in the shortest possible time and over the best route available. to the scene of the accident.

The civil air patrol has been conducting these missions at squadron level as the major part of its training program, since the day the CAP was activated. This combined wing operation, which was held in Alexandria, was the first of its kind to be conducted in Louisiana.

Red Collapse In Korea Is Big Relief To Hong Kong

By Fred Hampson

Hong Kong, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Hong Kong, vulnerably situated just beyond Red China's periphere, is breathing easier as Communist forces collapse in Korea. But the British are keeping their powder dry and their border guards alert.

Geography, trade and politics give this British colony an importance far greater than its size. Of all the possible targets along communism's borderline in Asia, Hong Kong probably is the least defensible.

Yet the British have never deviated from their oft-repeated determination to hold the colony, even when the Korean war was going badly for the allies and it looked as if Hong Kong might be high on the Red timetable.

At present the British have about 25,000 troops here. Defense forces were reduced to send a brigade to Korea, but military men here believe the remaining force sufficient to hang on, in case of trouble, until reinforcements could arrive from the main Far Eastern naval base at Singapore.

Units here now are about half combat troops. They include some six artillery regiments. Singapore probably could supply at least another division in a few days if necessary. Two squadrons of Australian spitfires are based at Hong Kong's Kaitak airfield.

The colony sent to Korea most of its flying boats, along with the two aircraft carriers normally anchored here, but this week end one carrier returned from Korea and another came out to Hong Kong from Europe. Partly because Kaitak Field is crowded, the British do not want a heavy concentration of air power until needed.

Most of the large naval force customarily in Hong Kong is still operating off Korea, but several destroyer-type ships remain here. Their guns could reach any point along the border where the Reds might invade.

The big question in case of an attack would be what the colony's 3,000,000-odd Chinese would do. Hong Kong's government, including police, consists largely of Chinese personnel. So far no signs of wavering loyalty have been noted, but the British have kept the border open and it is assumable that there are thousands of Communist sympathizers here.

Red elements tried to engineer a general strike last January but failed. Efforts to stir unrest among Hong Kong Chinese since then have collapsed chiefly because the Chinese here have the opportunity to compare their lot with that of the Chinese under Communism.

Even so, the British hesitate to conclude definitely that the population would remain quiet if the Chinese Reds should spill over the border.

The British do not expect a Chinese Communist attack, their observers say. They were not so sure, however, a couple of months ago, when the North Koreans seemed to be winning, and the Red tide appeared to be at flood stage in Asia.

Now it looks as if the tide were ebbing; the pressure on Hong Kong apparently is off. Indeed, latest reports from the border say the Chinese Reds have less than 600 (hundred) soldiers along their side of the boundary, across from the British new territories area, and no known concentration at any nearby base.

Nevertheless, most military opinion holds that Hong Kong could not be retained for long if the Chinese Reds threw a large force against it—simply because the colony isn't big enough, and the island itself isn't far enough offshore to withstand siege.

The Japanese overran the colony in a few days in 1941, when the British had only a small home guard unit, no naval strength and practically no air force.

One American military officer, afetr visiting the "new territories,"—the mainland part of the colony — observed there be only one way to resist successfully—by attacking, and seizing more ground beyond the border to fight in.

Korea is small enough, but even compared to Korea Hong Kang is a pinpoint.

PSYCHOLOGICAL WAR

Singapore — (AP) — Malaya will shortly begin waging psychological warfare on the Communist terrorists who have been fighting the government for over two years. A top-ranking British propaganda expert is due from London shortly. The propaganda offensive is part of the so-called "Briggs Plan" to end terrorism in the country.

$10,000,000 Is Unpaid In Jewish Campaign

Unpaid pledges of $10,000,000 are still outstanding in the United Jewish Appeal, Herman Masur, chairman of the drive in this city, reported yesterday.

With cash imperative to transport 80,000 Jews from eastern Europe and North Africa to Israel this year, Mr. Masur said that Oct. 8 had been designated as "C Day" (Cash Day) to call in unpaid pledges in 1,200 communities.

Louis Broido, who accepted the chairmanship of the cash emergency campaign by cable from Israel on Aug. 22 after seeing conditions there, confirmed the pressing nature of the campaign. The salvation of Israel today is cash, Mr. Broido said.

To illustrate ways in which the money must be used, Mr. Broido cited immigrants living in camps because nearly completed housing lacked roofs, and irrigation systems were held up for lack of pipe.

"We must not let the joint distribution committee down in helping Jews beat imigration deadlines to Israel," Mr. Broido said. The committee, he added, faces exhaustion of its transportation funds after having moved 114,000 Jewish refugees this year at a cost of $12,000,000.

Jews who escaped from Russia told him it was "impossible for any Jew to live behind the Iron Curtain," Mr. Broido added, and "life for any Jew in an Arab country has become unsafe and insecure."

Drink Machine Is Broken Into

A soft drink machine at the Central No. 1 Service station was borken into Friday night, reported Monroe police officers.

W. S. Koonce, manager, stated that when he came to work Saturday morning he found that the machine had been broken into and between $9 and $10 in nickels taken.

Monroe police are conducting an extensive investigation, asserted Chief M. L. Peters.

Better Buy Buick!

PERHAPS you've noticed that there seem to be a lot of these brawny beauties running around on America's highways—and it isn't just that boldly gleaming forefront that spreads this impression.

It isn't just the fact that folks who own a Buick get such a bang out of it that they do a lot of driving.

Back of all this is another fact. It's a fact that contains a broad hint to anyone who'd like to know what's what in motorcar buys. 1950 Buicks are breaking all past popularity records, as registered in sales.

So we suggest that you do some personal investigating.

Find out, for example, how masterful you feel, with Fireball power purring away the miles, at a polite touch of your toe on the gas treadle.

Find out how the jolts and jars seem to disappear, when you have big soft coil springs on all four wheels, and fat low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims.

Then there's Dynaflow Drive,* which Buick owners vote the biggest automotive hit that has come along in years.

With all this, there's room, and comfort, and road-hugging heft combined with a light and willing response to your hand on the wheel—and prices that start down with the sixes.

Seems like almost everyone wants to own one of these Buicks—and most people can. How about you? Isn't it a smart idea to see your Buick dealer now and get your name on his list?

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Only BUICK has Dynaflow—and with it goes! HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube.

Louis Broido, who accepted the chairmanship of the cash emergency campaign by cable from Israel on Aug. 22 after seeing conditions there, confirmed the pressing nature of the campaign. The salvation of Israel today is cash, Mr. Broido said.

To illustrate ways in which the money must be used, Mr. Broido cited immigrants living in camps because nearly completed housing lacked roofs, and irrigation systems were held up for lack of pipe.

"We must not let the joint distribution committee down in helping Jews beat imigration deadlines to Israel," Mr. Broido said. The committee, he added, faces exhaustion of its transportation funds after having moved 114,000 Jewish refugees this year at a cost of $12,000,000.

Jews who escaped from Russia told him it was "impossible for any Jew to live behind the Iron Curtain," Mr. Broido added, and "life for any Jew in an Arab country has become unsafe and insecure."

Drink Machine Is Broken Into

A soft drink machine at the Central No. 1 Service station was borken into Friday night, reported Monroe police officers.

W. S. Koonce, manager, stated that when he came to work Saturday morning he found that the machine had been broken into and between $9 and $10 in nickels taken.

Monroe police are conducting an extensive investigation, asserted Chief M. L. Peters.

Better Buy Buick!

PERHAPS you've noticed that there seem to be a lot of these brawny beauties running around on America's highways—and it isn't just that boldly gleaming forefront that spreads this impression.

It isn't just the fact that folks who own a Buick get such a bang out of it that they do a lot of driving.

Back of all this is another fact. It's a fact that contains a broad hint to anyone who'd like to know what's what in motorcar buys. 1950 Buicks are breaking all past popularity records, as registered in sales.

So we suggest that you do some personal investigating.

Find out, for example, how masterful you feel, with Fireball power purring away the miles, at a polite touch of your toe on the gas treadle.

Find out how the jolts and jars seem to disappear, when you have big soft coil springs on all four wheels, and fat low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims.

Then there's Dynaflow Drive,* which Buick owners vote the biggest automotive hit that has come along in years.

With all this, there's room, and comfort, and road-hugging heft combined with a light and willing response to your hand on the wheel—and prices that start down with the sixes.

Seems like almost everyone wants to own one of these Buicks—and most people can. How about you? Isn't it a smart idea to see your Buick dealer now and get your name on his list?

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Only BUICK has Dynaflow and with it goes! HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube.

U. N. To Hear Mindszenty Case First Despite Reds

Lake Success, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The United Nations special political committee voted over Russian bloc objection today to argue first the Mindszenty case and other charges of human rights violations in Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

The vote was 30 to 15, with 10 countries abstaining and five not participaing in the 60-nation vote. Cuba proposed bringing the item to the top, to decide what the U. N. should do next about a decision of the international court of justice on the charges.

The item had been listed as number seven on a program suggested by the assembly steering committee. Other questions deal with Italian prewar colonies in Africa, the Spanish membership question, the Palestine refugee and Jerusalem trusteeship question, treatment of Indians living in South Africa, and the question of prescribing qualifications for credentials of a member state.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik protested that the court decision had never been published in Russian and charged that the U. S. Representative, Benjamin Cohen, was trying to take advantage of a situation he knew because he had argued the case in court.

But many delegates argued, and the secretariat confirmed, that numerous documents on other agenda questions were not yet ready and will not be ready until late next week.

Cohen told Malik he was not trying to take any advantage. He poinetd out that the court decision was given ou tlast July.

The court ruled that Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria have violated peace treaty clauses by refusing to discuss U. N. charges that they infringed upon religious and civil rights of their citizens. The court also ruled, however, that the U. N. could not name a member to an inquiry commission to take the place of members each o' the three accused nations refused to name.

Russia and her sympathizers have fought for a year against the right of the U. N. to pursue the charges against the three satellites.

ONE BOND ISSUE IS BATTED DOWN

Causes Speculation On What May Be Fate Of State Proposal

By Edmond Le Breton

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The biggest local bond issue proposal submitted to voters anywhere in Louisiana this year came spectacularly to grief this week.

It happened in Baton Rouge, the front yard—geographically speaking, not politically—of the state administration. Gov. Earl K. Long and his lieutenants are campaigning for a favorable statewide vote Nov. 7 on the biggest single bond authorization ever proposed to Lousianians—$140,000,000 for roads an bridges.

So the season is now open for predicting the outcome of the November vote on the basis of Baton Rouge's experience with a bond issue proposal just one-tenth the size of the state's—$14.000.000.

It would be easy, and probably dangerous, to jump to conclusions. There are plenty of differences between the local and statewide situations. Still, opponnts of bond issues are tempted to see a trend in the rough way Baton Rouge taxpayers handled the propositions submitted to them Tuesday. The vote against the various bond and tax authorizations ranged between four and five to one. Not one of the seven propositions carried in the popular vote in a single precinct.

Yet other local bond issues have carried this year. Lafayette parish said "yes" to $2,668,000 for school and library improvements, in an election following hard on a 1949 vote of approval for more than $8,000.000 city public works.

Smaller issues in Rapides, East Feliciana and elsewhere have been successful.

It may be significant that the Lafayette vote came before the Korean war and its consequences—increased prices, sharply hiked federal income tax, and fears of shortages and controls that might block big public construction.

Local politics were involved in the Baton Rouge election and of course statewide politics will play a part in the November vote.

Interestingly enough, a strong supporter of Governor Long, East Baton Rouge parish Assessor Jesse Webb, led the opposition to the Baton Rouge bond issue vote. He has been a steady critic of the present city-parish government.

In any speculation about the state wide bond vote in the light of the one just counted in Baton Rouge, here are some differences to keep in mind:

The Baton Rouge voters were passing both on bonds and additional taxes. No new taxes are proposed in connection with the state issues, but instead a freezing of a portion of the state gasoline tax, which already has been increased.

In Baton Rouge, only property owners voted. In the statewide election, all registered voters may participate.

Chairman For Coming Year Selected By President Smith

Mrs. F. Smith, president of the Fairbanks P.-T. A., named as her committee chairmen for the 1950-51 school term the following: program, Mrs. Spurgeon Welch; budget and finance, Mabrey Savage; publicity and Founder's Day, Mrs. Fred Peters; hospitality, Mrs. Earl Brimberry; study group, Mrs. R. N. Lanningham; magazine, Mrs. Arthur Stewart; character and spiritual, Mrs. Emery Johnson; summer round up, Mrs. John Wooldridge; improvement and expansion of campus, Spurgeon Welch, R. N. Lanningham, and Arthur Stewart. The other officers making the executive board complete are Mrs. R. N. Lanningham, vice-president; Mrs. Pansye Sanders, secretary; Mrs. T. A. Ward, treasurer.

The plans for the year were discussed and the budget presented by the committee accepted. This included the purchase of a roll-away bed, secretarial supplies, achievement tests, membership envelopes playground equipment, first aid kit, teachers supplies, magazines, ditto supplies, and contingencies, a total outlay of $254.35. Mr. Savage announced the first of a series of money-making projects would be held Wednesday night, October 4, an amateur hour. Herman Miller suggested the sale of sandwiches and drinks during the intermission. Plans were also made for the annual Halloween party, and a bingo party, which would fulfill the requirements for the proposed budget.

Fred Peters volunteered to repair the swings and see-saws, and to make two new sets in the very near future. Herman Miller and Lloyd Cole volunteered to act as a committee to secure films to be used with the school projector.

Mrs. John Wooldridge was appointed as general chairman of the Halloween carnival. Mrs. F. Smith outlined the high points of the school of instruction held by the Twin-City P.-T. A. council September 21. Mrs. Spurgeon Welch and Mrs. F. Smith were designated as delegates to the fifth district fall meeting to be held at St. Matthews Parochial School, October 16. The membership committee is composed of the following home room mothers: 1st and 2nd—Mrs. John Wooldridge; 3rd and 4th—Mrs. Albert Barker and Mrs. Emery Johnson; 5th and 6th—Mrs. Fred Peters and Mrs. Spurgeon Welch; 7th, Mrs. Leslie Peters and Mrs. J. Dunginen. The room award went to the 3rd and 4th grades of Mrs. Buckley's room.

STEVENS GUIDES L. S. U. THROUGH PACIFIC

BAYOU BENGALS HANG 19-0 LOSS ON WESTERNERS

Tigers' T-Quarterbacks Passes For 2 Touchdowns, Masterminds Other

By Warren Rogers Jr.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Louisiana State tonight blunted College of Pacific's thrust at big-time football, overpowering the westerners 19-0 in an intersectional game before an estimated 30,000 fans.

Pacific, minus quarterback Eddie LeBaron, could get nowhere on passes. Quarterbacks Doug Scovil and Tony Geremia, replacing the graduated LeBaron, were unable to fill his shoes. The Pacific offense milled through L. S. U. s line but lost the ball five times on fumbles and was in scoring position only once.

An L. S. U. sophomore, T-Quarterback Norm Stevens tossed two touchdown passes and masterminded a 73-yard ground march to the other tally. Stevens understudy Halfback Lee Hedges took one touchdown pass over and End Warren Virgets the other. They were good for 72 yards and 41 yards, respectively.

A junior halfback, Jim Barton, set up and then scored L. S. U.'s ground touchdown. Barton slipped through the Pacific line for seven and 24 yards before lunging nine yards for the score. Halfback Kenny Konz placekicked L. S. U.'s lone extra point.

Pacific's center, big Bob Moser had a field day opening holes in the middle of L. S. U.'s line and Soph Wes Walch, 160-pound halfback, scooted through several of them. L. S. U. linebacker Chet Freeman was strong on defense.

Pacific was out-gunned in every department, but kept banging away at the in-and-out LSU line. T-Quarterback Scovil and Geremia began tossing in the last half. They got little protection, however, and had to heave in a hurry.

It was L.S.U.'s first victory of the season and Pacific's first loss after 17 straight victories. Highest scoring team in the nation last year, this was the first time Pacific had failed to score since 1946.

L. S. U. scoring: Touchdowns, Hedges, Barton, Virgets. Conversions, Konz.

Phil-Dodger Game Today On Air At 1:05 O'Clock

New York, Sept. 30. —(AP)— The Mutual Broadcasting Company announced tonight the important Brooklyn - Philadelphia baseball game tomorrow afternoon will be carried on its nationwide hookup.

The game will start at 1:05 p.m. (C. S. T.). The Phillies can clinch the National League championship by winning the game. If Brooklyn wins, a best two out of three game series for the pennant will be necessary.

The New York Yankees already have clinched the American League championship.

Battlefield Cops Rich Belmont Futurity Race

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Battlefield came with a rush in the final eighth of a mile today to win the $106,415 Futurity Stakes at Belmont in a photo finish with Big Stretch. Rough 'N Tumble was third.

A field of 14 two-year-olds contested the six and one half furlong dash down the Widener straight course.

Battlefield, owned by George D. Widener, Belmont president and ridden by Eddie Arcaro, virtually clinched two-year-old honors for 1950 by his thrilling victory.

Battlefield returned $3.90, $2.90 and $2.50. Big Stretch, owned by Greentree stable, paid $7.70 and $5.60 and Rough 'N Tumble, from the stable of Mrs. Frances A. Genter, $9.10 to show.

Claude Brawner, Now At L,S.U., Gets Draft Call

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two Louisiana State University football squad members were ordered today to report for pre-induction army physical examinations, but university athletic officials expected them to be able to complete at least this semester at the university.

Billy Baggett, senior halfback from Beaumont, Tex., who is one of the bulwarks of L. S. U.'s offensive team, and Claude Brawner, junior guard from Wynne, Ark., who is a transfer from Northeast Louisiana State at Monroe, were listed in the preliminary draft call to take examinations Oct. 10.

The university athletic department said Baggett and Brawner would report for the examinations, but that they were believed to be covered by the regulation allowing upper classmen with good academic records to complete college work at least for the semester for which they were enrolled.

'CATS OVERPOWER OLE MISS, 27 TO 0

Vito Parilli Spearheads Kentucky's March Through Johnny Rebs

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 30. —(AP)—Quarterback Vito Parilli struck damaging blows in the Mississippi defense with his bullseye passes here tonight to lead Kentucky to a 27-0 victory in a rough and tumble Southeastern Conference football game.

Kentucky started from its 36 after taking the opening kickoff and on the second play Parilli hit end Ben Zaranka for a 15 yard advance. Fullback Bill Leskovar rammed for 18 in two tries sandwiched around an incomplete pass. Then Parilli aimed one at End Dominic Fucci who missed the ball at the four but a pass interference penalty was called on Mississippi's James Salley and Kentucky had a first down.

Leskovar bulled it over in three tries and Kentucky led 6-0 with four and a half minutes gone.

Kentucky moved 80 yards for its next score after a Mississippi punt and a clipping penalty put the oval there. Leskovar exploded for 28 yards, was struck in the head and left the tilt for keeps.

Parilli fired twice to end Al Bruno and the second one, a leaping catch, put it on the 13. Short gains by Cliff Lawson and Clayton Webb plus an offside foul moved it to the two and on second down Parilli rammed over. Bobby Brooks converted it to 13-0.

Rocky Byrd, Ole Miss quarterback, fumbled on his 19 and guard Bill Wannamaker pounded on the ball to make possible Kentucky's third touchdown near the end of the half. Fucci got four on an end-around and then Parilli fired one to Fucci on the three. Lawson wiggled through left guard on the second play and Brooks make it 20 as the half ended.

Byrd's butterfingers cost the next touchdown on the third play of the second half as End Charley McClendon fell on the loose ball on the Ole Miss 24. Parilli faded and arched one to Zaranka as the big end stepped into the end zone. Brooks again converted and it was 27-0.

Ole Miss then generated its strongest threat, advancing from its 42 to the Kentucky 25 in eight plays but Dottley couldn't budge on the fourth down when he needed a couple of yards and it was Kentucky's ball.

Kentudky	13	7	7	0	—27

Kentucky scoring: touchdowns; Leskovar, Parilli, Lawson, Zaranka. Conversions—Brooks 3.

CLEMSON EASY WINNER

Northeast Indians Aim For Big 6 Scrap With Paris

REDSKINS INVADE TEXAS AGAIN FOR SCRAP THURSDAY

Malone Says Score Was No Indication Of Closeness Of Kilgore Game

Home from one Texas invasion, the Northeast Louisiana State Indians yesterday began preparing for a second straight visit into the Lone Star state next Thursday night when they tangle with Paris Junior College at Paris.

It will be the second Big Six Conference game for Coach James L. Malone's Redskins and the first for the Paris eleven. The game will be the first to be played between the two schools.

Paris beat Henderson in a wild scoring battle the past week, 43 to 41, and scout reports indicate Paris will be every bit as tough as the Kilgore College Rangers who beat the Indians, 27 to 0, Thursday at Kilgore. Paris, however, flashes a more wide open game with deceptive running plays and plenty of passing.

Comparing Paris with Kilgore, the latter an old rival of Northeast, the Rangers were able to beat Paris only 7-6 last year, and both clubs have practically their same team intact this season.

Chief casualty in the Kilgore contest was Bob Gunter, impressive fullback, who was hurt on the second play of the game. Coach Malone last night said Gunter is not expected to be ready to go against Paris and that Harry Hubenthal will take over his assignments. Ends Robert Kirby and Greg LeBlanc and Tackle Pat Marnell are also nursing bad bruises but are expected to round into shape again soon although they were not permitted to drill yesterday morning.

E. J. Sievers came out of the Kilgore game with a gashed jaw.

"Despite the fact that Kilgore beat us 27-0 by the score, it was one of the best football games I have ever seen," "Coach Malone declared yesterday. "The score was no indication of the type of game Kilgore fans witnessed. The passing was perfect, and blocking, tackling, and punting was exceptional on both sides. Sievers averaged 49 yards on five punts for us, and Hubenthal kicked two more for 54 yards. Jim Shelton, the whole show for Kilgore, was punting just as good, averaging us yard for yard.

"Kilgore is behind us, but we have just as tough a customer on the docket for this week. Paris ranks right along with Kilgore and Tyler as the junior college powers of Texas and we'll have to be at our best for this one too."

The Tribe's workout yesterday was light, but Coach Malone said rough work will get underway again tomorrow evening.

L.S.U. TRIUMPHS

The Cadets thrilled the crowd with a series of long runs, climaxed by Vic Pollard's 94-yard touchdown sprint that set a record for Matchie stadium.

Tennessee, Tulane and Georgia Tech were outstanding upset victims in the south while Holy Cross surprised eastern observers in holding highly regarded Dartmouth to a 21-21 tie. Missouri, favored by two touchdowns, was an easy prey of Clemson, which won 34-0.

Maj. Bob Neyland's Tennessee machine, rated fourth nationally in a recent Associated Press preseason poll, fell before Mississippi State 7-0.

A bomb scare staged a deadly air attack to turn back Tulane, 26-14, at New Orleans and send Crimson Tide hopes soaring. Big Steve Wadiak led a 91-yard drive in the fourth period to give South Carolina a 7-0 victory over Georgia Tech, favored by two touchdowns.

Duke lived up to advance notices by routing Pittsburgh on a last half offensive, 28-14.

Penn and Cornell, perennial Ivy League leaders, won impressively in the east. Penn repelled Virginia, 21-7, while Cornell rolled over Lafayette, 27-0.

Navy's 1950 dbut under new Coach Eddie Erdelatz was spoiled by powerful Maryland, which stood off a late rally to prevail, 35-21. Yale surprised with a 36-12 triumph over Brown.

In the midlands, Northwestern found Iowa State an unexpected handful but won, 23-13; Wisconsin toppled Marquette, 28-6; Indiana and Nebraska wrangled to a 20-20 tie.

On the Pacific coast, University of Washington added to the midwest's miseries by thumping Minnesota for the first time in history, 28-13. Hurrying Hugh McElhenny did most of the damage for the Huskies.

California overwhelmed Oregon, 28-7, to set a record of 18 straight coast conference victories but found little comfort in other results.

Stanford, picked as the power of the Pacific region this fall, trampled San Francisco, 55-7, and U. C. L. A. overwhelmed Washington State, 42-0.

TEAM FETED

Eureka, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Eureka baseball fans held an old-fashioned ice-cream supper here to show their appreciation for a bang-up ball club. The small community was out in full force to compliment the Eureka players, who rated with the top four teams in the Ouachita Valley League throughout the season.

Williamsburg, Va.—Dickie Lewis William and Mary halfback, not only played the entire game on offense and defense against V. M. I., but returned two kickoffs and a punt for 99 yards.

Grammar Grid

SHERROUSE, OUACHITA WIN

Sherrouse and Ouachita scored opening victories in the Sixth Grade League of grammar school football here yesterday, Sherrouse beating Mitchell of West Monroe, 13 to 6, and Ouachita nosing out Central Grammar, 14 to 13.

In the only other game played, Barkdull Faulk and Lida Benton, also of the Sixth Grade circuit, battled to a scoreless tie.

One Sixth Grade game in which Columbia was to have met Georgia Tucker, and a Seventh Grade contest in which Columbia was due to play Ouachita didn't come off when Columbia failed to send teams here for the scheduled games.

Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department, said St. Matthew's has pulled out of the Seventh Grade League, being replaced by Bastrop.

Yerger scored on an end run and again on a quarterback sneak to spark Sherrouse past Mitchell. Nelson added one point for the winners. The Mitchell touchdown came in the final period on an end run by Brown.

Gonzales' ability to run over extra points gave Ouachita its margin over Central. Gonzales scored one touchdown and Bryan bagged the other, and Gonzales added both points on plays from scrimmage. Ragan accounted for all Central's points, getting two touchdowns and making one conversion.

Louisiana College Downs Alabama State, 20 To 13

Pineville, La., Sept. 30. —(AP)—Louisiana College downed Livingston State College of Alabama 20-13 in a football game here tonight.

In the first quarter, Louisiana College, on their first plays scored a touchdown after Quarterback Wesley Dyer threw a 60-yard pass to Bernard Calendar. Harold Garrett converted.

Alabama took the ball on the Louisiana 34 and, after a series of running plays, Claude Ezell scored. Grady Pearson converted.

In the second quarter another Dyer-Calendar pass was no good for 27 yards and touchodwn. Garrett again converted.

After a sustained drive in the third, Dyer ran over from the second. Garrett's attempt to convert failed.

The visitors final counter came in the fourth when Ezell went over an 80-yard drive. The kick was blocked.

BAYOU BENGALS HANG 19-0 LOSS ON WESTERNERS

Tigers' T-Quarterbacks Passes For 2 Touchdowns, Masterminds Other

By Warren Rogers Jr.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Louisiana State tonight blunted College of Pacific's thrust at big-time football, overpowering the westerners 19-0 in an intersectional game before an estimated 30,000 fans.

Pacific, minus quarterback Eddie LeBaron, could get nowhere on passes. Quarterbacks Doug Scovil and Tony Geremia, replacing the graduated LeBaron, were unable to fill his shoes. The Pacific offense milled through L. S. U.'s line but lost the ball five times on fumbles and was in scoring position only once.

An L. S. U. sophomore, T-Quarterback Norm Stevens tossed two touchdown passes and masterminded a 73-yard ground march to the other tally. Stevens understudy Halfback Lee Hedges took one touchdown pass over and End Warren Virgets the other. They were good for 72 yards and 41 yards, respectively.

A junior halfback, Jim Barton, set up and then scored L. S. U.'s ground touchdown. Barton slipped through the Pacific line for seven and 24 yards before lunging nine yards for the score. Halfback Kenny Konz placekicked L. S. U.'s lone extra point.

Pacific's center, big Bob Moser had a field day opening holes in the middle of L. S. U.'s line and Soph Wes Walch, 160-pound halfback, scooted through several of them. L. S. U. linebacker Chet Freeman was strong on defense.

Pacific was out-gunned in every department, but kept banging away at the in-and-out LSU line. T-Quarterback Scovil and Geremia began tossing in the last half. They got little protection, however, and had to heave in a hurry.

It was L.S.U.'s first victory of the season and Pacific's first loss after 17 straight victories. Highest scoring team in the nation last year, this was the first time Pacific had failed to score since 1946.

L. S. U. scoring: Touchdowns, Hedges, Barton, Virgets. Conversions, Konz.

Phil-Dodger Game Today On Air At 1:05 O'Clock

New York, Sept. 30. —(AP)— The Mutual Broadcasting Company announced tonight the important Brooklyn - Philadelphia baseball game tomorrow afternoon will be carried on its nationwide hookup.

The game will start at 1:05 p.m. (C. S. T.). The Phillies can clinch the National League championship by winning the game. If Brooklyn wins, a best two out of three game series for the pennant will be necessary.

The New York Yankees already have clinched the American League championship.

Battlefield Cops Rich Belmont Futurity Race

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Battlefield came with a rush in the final eighth of a mile today to win the $106,415 Futurity Stakes at Belmont in a photo finish with Big Stretch. Rough 'N Tumble was third.

A field of 14 two-year-olds contested the six and one half furlong dash down the Widener straight course.

Battlefield, owned by George D. Widener, Belmont president and ridden by Eddie Arcaro, virtually clinched two-year-old honors for 1950 by his thrilling victory.

Battlefield returned $3.90, $2.90 and $2.50. Big Stretch, owned by Greentree stable, paid $7.70 and $5.60 and Rough 'N Tumble, from the stable of Mrs. Frances A. Genter, $9.10 to show.

Claude Brawner, Now At L.S.U., Gets Draft Call

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two Louisiana State University football squad members were ordered today to report for pre-induction army physical examinations, but university athletic officials expected them to be able to complete at least this semester at the university.

Billy Baggett, senior halfback from Beaumont, Tex., who is one of the bulwarks of L. S. U.'s offensive team, and Claude Brawner, junior guard from Wynne, Ark., who is a transfer from Northeast Louisiana State at Monroe, were listed in the preliminary draft call to take examinations Oct. 10.

The university athletic department said Baggett and Brawner would report for the examinations, but that they were believed to be covered by the regulation allowing upper classmen with good academic records to complete college work at least for the semester for which they were enrolled.

'CATS OVERPOWER OLE MISS, 27 TO 0

Vito Parilli Spearheads Kentucky's March Through Johnny Rebs

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 30. —(AP)—Quarterback Vito Parilli struck damaging blows in the Mississippi defense with his bullseye passes here tonight to lead Kentucky to a 27-0 victory in a rough and tumble Southeastern Conference football game.

Kentucky started from its 36 after taking the opening kickoff and on the second play Parilli hit end Ben Zaranka for a 15 yard advance. Fullback Bill Leskovar rammed for 18 in two tries sandwiched around an incomplete pass. Then Parilli aimed one at End Dominic Fucci who missed the ball at the four but a pass interference penalty was called on Mississippi's James Salley and Kentucky had a first down.

Leskovar bulled it over in three tries and Kentucky led 6-0 with four and a half minutes gone.

Kentucky moved 80 yards for its next score after a Mississippi punt and a clipping penalty put the oval there. Leskovar exploded for 28 yards, was struck in the head and left the tilt for keeps.

Parilli fired twice to end Al Bruno and the second one, a leaping catch, put it on the 13. Short gains by Cliff Lawson and Clayton Webb plus an offside foul moved it to the two and on second down Parilli rammed over. Bobby Brooks converted it to 13-0.

Rocky Byrd, Ole Miss quarterback, fumbled on his 19 and guard Bill Wannamaker pounded on the ball to make possible Kentucky's third touchdown near the end of the half. Fucci got four on an end-around and then Parilli fired one to Fucci on the three. Lawson wiggled through left guard on the second play and Brooks make it 20 as the half ended.

Byrd's butterfingers cost the next touchdown on the third play of the second half as End Charley McClendon fell on the loose ball on the Ole Miss 24. Parilli faded and arched one to Zaranka as the big end stepped into the end zone. Brooks again converted and it was 27-0.

Ole Miss then generated its strongest threat, advancing from its 42 to the Kentucky 25 in eight plays but Dottley couldn't budge on the fourth down when he needed a couple of yards and it was Kentucky's ball.

Kentucky scoring: touchdowns; Leskovar, Parilli, Lawson, Zaranka. Conversions—Brooks 3.

CLEMSON EASY WINNER

Northeast Indians Aim For Big 6 Scrap With Paris

Malone Says Score Was No Indication Of Closeness Of Kilgore Game

Home from one Texas invasion, the Northeast Louisiana State Indians yesterday began preparing for a second straight visit into the Lone Star state next Thursday night when they tangle with Paris Junior College at Paris.

It will be the second Big Six Conference game for Coach James L. Malone's Redskins and the first for the Paris eleven. The game will be the first to be played between the two schools.

Paris beat Henderson in a wild scoring battle the past week, 43 to 41, and scout reports indicate Paris will be every bit as tough as the Kilgore College Rangers who beat the Indians, 27 to 0, Thursday at Kilgore. Paris, however, flashes a more wide open game with deceptive running plays and plenty of passing.

Comparing Paris with Kilgore, the latter an old rival of Northeast, the Rangers were able to beat Paris only 7-6 last year, and both clubs have practically their same team intact this season.

Chief casualty in the Kilgore contest was Bob Gunter, impressive fullback, who was hurt on the second play of the game. Coach Malone last night said Gunter is not expected to be ready to go against Paris and that Harry Hubenthal will take over his assignments. Ends Robert Kirby and Greg LeBlanc and Tackle Pat Marnell are also nursing bad bruises but are expected to round into shape again soon although they were not permitted to drill yesterday morning.

E. J. Sievers came out of the Kilgore game with a gashed jaw.

"Despite the fact that Kilgore beat us 27-0 by the score, it was one of the best football games I have ever seen," "Coach Malone declared yesterday. "The score was no indication of the type of game Kilgore fans witnessed. The passing was perfect, and blocking, tackling, and punting was exceptional on both sides. Sievers averaged 49 yards on five punts for us, and Hubenthal kicked two more for 54 yards. Jim Shelton, the whole show for Kilgore, was punting just as good, averaging us yard for yard.

"Kilgore is behind us, but we have just as tough a customer on the docket for this week. Paris ranks right along with Kilgore and Tyler as the junior college powers of Texas and we'll have to be at our best for this one too."

The Tribe's workout yesterday was light, but Coach Malone said rough work will get underway again tomorrow evening.

gate - their 21st game without a defeat.

The Cadets thrilled the crowd with a series of long runs, climaxed by Vic Pollard's 94-yard touchdown sprint that set a record for Matchie stadium.

Tennessee, Tulane and Georgia Tech were outstanding upset victims in the south while Holy Cross surprised eastern observers in holding highly regarded Dartmouth to a 21-21 tie. Missouri, favored by two touchdowns, was an easy prey of Clemson, which won 34-0.

Maj. Bob Neyland's Tennessee machine, rated fourth nationally in a recent Associated Press preseason poll, fell before Mississippi State 7-0.

A bomb staged a deadly air attack to turn back Tulane, 26-14, at New Orleans and send Crimson Tide hopes soaring. Big Steve Wadiak led a 91-yard drive in the fourth period to give South Carolina a 7-0 victory over Georgia Tech, favored by two touchdowns.

Duke lived up to advance notices by routing Pittsburgh on a last half offensive, 28-14.

Penn and Cornell, perennial Ivy League leaders, won impressively in the east. Penn repelled Virginia, 21-7, while Cornell rolled over Lafayette, 27-0.

Navy's 1950 dbut under new Coach Eddie Erdelatz was spoiled by powerful Maryland, which stood off a late rally to prevail, 35-21. Yale surprised with a 36-12 triumph over Brown.

In the midlands, Northwestern found Iowa State an unexpected handful but won, 23-13; Wisconsin toppled Marquette, 28-6; Indiana and Nebraska wrangled to a 20-20 tie.

On the Pacific coast, University of Washington added to the midwest's miseries by thumping Minnesota for the first time in history, 28-13. Hurrying Hugh McElhenny did most of the damage for the Huskies.

California overwhelmed Oregon, 28-7, to set a record of 18 straight coast conference victories but found little comfort in other results.

Stanford, picked as the power of the Pacific region this fall, trampled San Francisco, 55-7, and U. C. L. A. overwhelmed Washington State, 42-0.

TEAM FETED

Eureka, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Eureka baseball fans held an old-fashioned ice-cream supper here to show their appreciation for a bang-up ball club. The small community was out in full force to compliment the Eureka players, who rated with the top four teams in the Ouachita Valley League throughout the season.

Williamsburg, Va.—Dickie Lewis William and Mary halfback, not only played the entire game on offense and defense against V. M. I., but returned two kickoffs and a punt for 99 yards.

SHERROUSE, OUACHITA WIN

Sherrouse and Ouachita scored opening victories in the Sixth Grade League of grammar school football here yesterday, Sherrouse beating Mitchell of West Monroe, 13 to 6, and Ouachita nosing out Central Grammar, 14 to 13.

In the only other game played, Barkdull Faulk and Lida Benton, also of the Sixth Grade circuit, battled to a scoreless tie.

One Sixth Grade game in which Columbia was to have met Georgia Tucker, and a Seventh Grade contest in which Columbia was due to play Ouachita didn't come off when Columbia failed to send teams here for the scheduled games.

Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation department, said St. Matthew's has pulled out of the Seventh Grade League, being replaced by Bastrop.

Yerger scored on an end run and again on a quarterback sneak to spark Sherrouse past Mitchell. Nelson added one point for the winners. The Mitchell touchdown came in the final period on an end run by Brown.

Gonzales' ability to run over extra points gave Ouachita its margin over Central. Gonzales scored one touchdown and Bryan bagged the other, and Gonzales added both points on plays from scrimmage. Ragan accounted for all Central's points, getting two touchdowns and making one conversion.

Louisiana College Downs Alabama State, 20 To 13

Pineville, La., Sept. 30. —(AP)—Louisiana College downed Livingston State College of Alabama 20-13 in a football game here tonight.

In the first quarter, Louisiana College, on their first plays scored a touchdown after Quarterback Wesley Dyer threw a 60-yard pass to Bernard Calendar. Harold Garrett converted.

Alabama took the ball on the Louisiana 34 and, after a series of running plays, Claude Ezell scored. Grady Pearson converted.

In the second quarter another Dyer-Calendar pass was no good for 27 yards and touchodwn. Garrett again converted.

After a sustained drive in the third, Dyer ran over from the second. Garrett's attempt to convert failed.

The visitors final counter came in the fourth when Ezell went over an 80-yard drive. The kick was blocked.

DODGERS BLAST CRUMBLING PHILS, 7 TO 3

'WHIZLESS' KIDS MUST WIN TODAY TO SKIP PLAYOFF

Brooklyn Can Tie For Pennant, Force 3-Game Series With Final Victory

By Jack Hand

Brooklyn, Sept. 30. —(AP)— Pennant - crazy Brooklyn slashed the staggering Phillies National League lead to one game with one to play today with a delirious 7-3 triumph on the home run bats of Duke Snider and Roy Campanella.

The Dodger "miracle finish" thus carries into the last day of the season when they again face the weary and wobbly Phils in the pennant game.

By blowing all but one game of a solid 7 1-2 game lead they held as late as Sept. 21, the Phils now must take tomorrow's game to clinch that elusive pennant. If Brooklyn wins the two teams will be tied, forcing a post-season playoff. The Dodgers have won 13 of their last 16 games and the Phils have lost eight of their last ten.

Robin Roberts (19-11) will pitch for the Phils tomorrow against big Don Newcombe (19-10) in a clash of two pitching aces.

If the Phils lose this one, the big one, they may go into the record books as the worst collapse in baseball history. Their blind staggers already rival those of the 1934 Giants, 1921 and 1938 Pirates and 1942 Dodgers.

In case it winds up in a tie, President Ford Frick announced today, a best-of-three playoff for the championship starts at Brooklyn Monday afternoon. The second game would be played at Philadelphia Tuesday afternoon and also a third there if necessary. The site was determined by the flip of a coin.

Erv Palica, a two-hit shutout winner over the Phils' whizless Whiz Kids last Sunday, whipped them again this hazy Indian summer afternoon.

Two big home runs by Snider and Campanella, both off Jim Konstanty, making his 74th relief appearance, sent the Phils reeling into their clubhouse to dream nightmares of vanishing World Series checks.

Snider's long drive over the right field wall with Pee Wee Reese on base doomed Konstanty, who had just come to the rescue of starter Bob Miller. The Brooks opened up on Miller after 4 1-2 scoreless innings to score two runs on singles by Billy Cox and Cal Abrams and Reese's towering 400-foot triple to the center field exit gate.

Then in the eighth, after the Phils scrambled back with three in the sixth, Campanella unloaded a tremendous 400-foot poke into the center field stands with two men on base. That did it. Instead of a one-run deficit, the Phils trailed by three coming up to the ninth. They succumbed, one-two-three with Palica striking out Stan Lopata to end the game.

You might have thought the Dodgers had won the pennant from the wild reaction of the below-capacity crowd of 23,879. With two out in the ninth, a small boy ran into center field to shake the hand of Snider after he had made a sensational running catch of Willie Jones' long drive.

The Phils gamely got off the floor to stage a three-run rally in the sixth after watching the Dodgers break the game wide open on Snider's 31st homer.

Eddie Waitkus and Richie Ashburn sliced singles to left field, sending pitchers hustling to the Dodger bullpen. Sisler drove a sizzling liner to center and Snider unwisely tried a gambling shoestring catch. Duke didn't quite get there as he somersaulted the ball rolled to the wall for a two-run triple.

Then came a break that looked most important at the time. The return throw from the outfield went to Palica who tossed wildly past third base as Sisler slid in on a belly-whopper. The ball trickled toward the stands and a small girl in a box seat reached over the rail to pick it up. Sisler, who had no chance of going home and had stopped at third, was waved in by plate Umpire Larry Goetz. The girl was ejected from the park to the accompaniment of boos from the rabid Dodgerites.

Sisler would have scored anyhow for Del Ennis, the next batter, lofted a long fly to right field so it really didn't matter.

The Phils missed their big chance to rack up Palica in that inning. There were none out when Sisler tripled. After Ennis flied out, Willie Jones walked but was out stealing and Gran Hamner grounded out.

Konstanty avoided trouble after the home run ball to Snider until the eighth. Then he walked leadoff man Jackie Robinson. Furillo singled and Robinson was forced on an attempted sacrifice by Gil Hodges.

Campanella's 31st homer followed to nail the lid on the Phils' hopes of clinching before the last day.

Not only was this the Phils' eighth defeat in 10 games within a week as their lead melted away. It was their sixth in the last seven games with the Dodgers. Brooklyn now holds an 11-10 season edge over the Phils who have been on top since July 25.

GIANTS CLINCH 3RD

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The New York Giants clinched third place today as Larry Jansen pitched the New Yorkers to a 5-3 victory over the fourth place Boston Braves. The Giants lead the Braves, who they meet again tomorrow in the final game of the season, by two games.

Jansen allowed five hits in gaining his 19th victory. Two errors in between a double by Sid Gordon gave the Braves two runs in the seventh inning. Gordon homered in the ninth for Boston's final run. Bob Thomson smacked a two-run homer in the seventh inning to give the Giants their margin of victory.

IRISH GET EDGE IN LAST PERIOD FOR 14 TO 7 WIN

North Carolina, With Better Ground Game, Almost Ends Reign Of Kings

By Jerry Liska

South Bend, Inc., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Modern football's greatest reign of invincibility tottered but held firm today as Notre Dame, weary and worn, staggered to a 14-7 opening win over a North Carolina team that nearly played the Irish off their feet in the second half.

A 26-yard touchdown pass with only 2:20 minutes left, from heroic Bob Williams to End Jim Mutscheller, a combination that accounted for both Irish scores, produced Notre Dame's 39th straight game without defeat.

An Irish capacity crowd of 56,430 saw Notre Dame confidently capitalize on two North Carolina fumbles for a 7-0 lead in the first four minutes of the game and then fight with its back to the wall the rest of the way.

The Tar Heels, marshaled by 163-pound Halfback Dick Bunting, who almost matched Williams' as the day's individual star, slashed 78 yards for a fourth period touchdown by sophomore Bud Wallace that tied the score at 7-7.

Then came the closing desperation drive by Notre Dame which covered 66 yards and was capped by Williams decisive heave down the middle to Mutscheller.

North Carolina, a 13-7 winner over North Carolina State last week, played like a high school team in the opening minutes.

Tom Higgins fumbled Notre Dame's opening kickoff. A few minutes later Wallace fumbled and Mutscheller recovered on North Carolina's 10.

Three plays later, with the ball on the three, Williams stepped back and fired a short pass to Mutscheller in the end zone for a the point for a 7-0 Irish lead.

But then an apparent Irish walkaway, in keeping with their three touchdown favoritism, slowly faded before a North Carolina team that got more vicious as the game got older.

Notre Dame, suddenly lethargic and gasping for breath under the oppressive humidity, found North Carolina a howling tartar in the second half.

The Tar Heels, outrushed in the first, 91 to 42, wound up ahead in ground yardage, 173 to 135.

It was in the air, with Williams completing 14 of 27 tosses for 128 yards, that North Carolina was whipped. The Tar Heels completed only five of 17 tosses for 56 yards.

Razorbacks Power Past North Texas

Fayetteville, Ark., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Arkansas jammed its pro-modeled attack into high gear and ran over North Texas State College, 50 to 6, before 15,000 here today.

North Texas' Eagles scored first on a 48-yard run by halfback Ken Bahnsen and promised to make a good game of it.

But the Razorbacks, rebounding from an upset by Oklahoma A. and M., took the ensuing kickoff and marched 84 yards to a touchdown, quarterback Jim Rinehart sneaking over from a yard out. George Thomason kicked his first of five points to give Arkansas a 7-6 lead and the rout was on.

MAROONS UPSET VOLUNTEERS, 7-0

Underrated Miss. State Drives For Winning TD With Opening Kickoff

By Clem Brossier

Starkville, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Under-rated Mississippi State College struck with 14 powerful plays in the first period to upset the University of Tennessee, rated one of the nation's top 10 football teams, 7-0, today.

It was crushing, bruising football all the way with Mississippi State battling hard and successfully to protect their slim seven point margin.

State started its touchdown at the kickoff when Norman Duplain took the ball on his own goal line and raced back to the 45 before he was tackled.

Fullback Bill Stewart and right half Wallace Beech alternated in a dozen line bucks good for from three to six yards each that put State on the Vol's 12-yard line.

Halfback Tom Rushing made five yards on the next try and then scored standing up from the seven. Max Stainbrook, State's place kick specialist, booted the extra point.

Tennessee threatened inside Mississippi's 15-yard line only once—late in the fourth quarter. But Mississippi stiffened and took over on downs on the eight.

The victory heralded State's Maroons as a team under-rated before the Southeastern Conference play began becoming now a conference contender. Tennessee on the other hand was rated with Kentucky as a conference power, and was strongly favored to defeat Mississippi State.

The game was the conference opener for each school, and was the first time the two teams have met on a Mississippi gridiron in 24 years.

An estimated 22,000 persons were in the stands.

Tennessee

Four Former Neville Gridders Lead Hinds

Hinds Junior College, a favorite to win the championship of the 12-team Mississippi Junior College Conference, are getting added spark this season from four graduates of Neville High School here.

Jerry Brooks, former Neville fullback, saved the first game of the season for the Eagles when, trailing 10-6, he snagged a pass with two minutes to play and ran for a touchdown that gave Hinds a 12-10 victory. Brooks plays right half for Hinds.

Bucky McElroy, one of the fastest backs produced by Coach Bill Ruple at Neville, was the mainspring in the 33-13 rout of Copiah-Lincoln, accounting for three touchdowns.

Ronald Gunter, Neville's former all-state guard, playing end for Hinds, took a pass for one touchdown in the defeat of Co-Lin.

Latest Neville addition to Hinds is Kenneth Lewis, halfback for the local prep club last year. The Eagles are using Lewis at guard.

DODGERS BLAST CRUMBLING PHILS, 7 TO 3

'WHIZLESS' KIDS MUST WIN TODAY TO SKIP PLAYOFF

By Jack Hand

Brooklyn, Sept. 30. —(AP)— Pennant - crazy Brooklyn slashed the staggering Phillies National League lead to one game with one to play today with a delirious 7-3 triumph on the home run bats of Duke Snider and Roy Campanella.

The Dodger "miracle finish" thus carries into the last day of the season when they again face the weary and wobbly Phils in the pennant game.

By blowing all but one game of a solid 7 1-2 game lead they held as late as Sept. 21, the Phils now must take tomorrow's game to clinch that elusive pennant. If Brooklyn wins the two teams will be tied, forcing a post-season playoff. The Dodgers have won 13 of their last 16 games and the Phils have lost eight of their last ten.

Robin Roberts (19-11) will pitch for the Phils tomorrow against big Don Newcombe (19-10) in a clash of two pitching aces.

If the Phils lose this one, the big one, they may go into the record books as the worst collapse in baseball history. Their blind staggers already rival those of the 1934 Giants, 1921 and 1938 Pirates and 1942 Dodgers.

In case it winds up in a tie, President Ford Frick announced today, a best-of-three playoff for the championship starts at Brooklyn Monday afternoon. The second game would be played at Philadelphia Tuesday afternoon and also a third there if necessary. The site was determined by the flip of a coin.

Ery Palica, a two-hit shutout winner over the Phils' whizless Whiz Kids last Sunday, whipped them again this hazy Indian summer afternoon.

Two big home runs by Snider and Campanella, both off Jim Konstanty, making his 74th relief appearance, sent the Phils reeling into their clubhouse to dream nightmares of vanishing World Series checks.

Snider's long drive over the right field wall with Pee Wee Reese on base doomed Konstanty, who had just come to the rescue of starter Bob Miller. The Brooks opened up on Miller after 4 1-2 scoreless innings to score two runs on singles by Billy Cox and Cal Abrams and Reese's towering 400-foot triple to the center field exit gate.

Then in the eighth, after the Phils scrambled back with three in the sixth, Campanella unloaded a tremendous 400-foot poke into the center field stands with two men on base. That did it. Instead of a one-run deficit, the Phils trailed by three coming up to the ninth. They succumbed, one-two-three with Palica striking out Stan Lopata to end the game.

You might have thought the Dodgers had won the pennant from the wild reaction of the below-capacity crowd of 23,879. With two out in the ninth, a small boy ran into center field to shake the hand of Snider after he had made a sensational running catch of Willie Jones' long drive.

The Phils gamely got off the floor to stage a three-run rally in the sixth after watching the Dodgers break the game wide open on Snider's 31st homer.

Eddie Waitkus and Richie Ashburn sliced singles to left field, sending pitchers hustling to the Dodger bullpen. Sisler drove a sizzling liner to center and Snider unwisely tried a gambling shoestring catch. Duke didn't quite get there as he somersaulted the ball rolled to the wall for a two-run triple.

Then came a break that looked most important at the time. The return throw from the outfield went to Palica who tossed wildly past third base as Sisler slid in on a belly-whopper. The ball trickled toward the stands and a small girl in a box seat reached over the rail to pick it up. Sisler, who had no chance of going home and had stopped at third, was waved in by plate Umpire Larry Goetz. The girl was ejected from the park to the accompaniment of boos from the rabid Dodgerites.

Sisler would have scored anyhow for Del Ennis, the next batter, lofted a long fly to right field so it really didn't matter.

The Phils missed their big chance to rack up Palica in that inning. There were none out when Sisler tripled. After Ennis flied out, Willie Jones walked but was out stealing and Gran Hamner grounded out.

Konstanty avoided trouble after the home run ball to Snider until the eighth. Then he walked leadoff man Jackie Robinson. Furillo singled and Robinson was forced on an attempted sacrifice by Gil Hodges.

Campanella's 31st homer followed to nail the lid on the Phils' hopes of clinching before the last day.

Not only was this the Phils' eighth defeat in 10 games within a week as their lead melted away. It was their sixth in the last seven games with the Dodgers. Brooklyn now holds an 11-10 season edge over the Phils who have been on top since July 25.

GIANTS CLINCH 3RD

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The New York Giants clinched third place today as Larry Jansen pitched the New Yorkers to a 5-3 victory over the fourth place Boston Braves. The Giants lead the Braves, who they meet again tomorrow in the final game of the season, by two games.

Jansen allowed five hits in gaining his 19th victory. Two errors in between a double by Sid Gordon gave the Braves two runs in the seventh inning. Gordon homered in the ninth for Boston's final run. Bob Thomson smacked a two-run homer in the seventh inning to give the Giants their margin of victory.

Notre Dame Forced To Air To Squeeze Past Tar Heels

North Carolina, With Better Ground Game, Almost Ends Reign Of Kings

By Jerry Liska

South Bend, Inc., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Modern football's greatest reign of invincibility tottered but held firm today as Notre Dame, weary and worn, staggered to a 14-7 opening win over a North Carolina team that nearly played the Irish off their feet in the second half.

A 26-yard touchdown pass with only 2:20 minutes left, from heroic Bob Williams to End Jim Mutscheller, a combination that accounted for both Irish scores, produced Notre Dame's 39th straight game without defeat.

An Irish capacity crowd of 56,430 saw Notre Dame confidently capitalize on two North Carolina fumbles for a 7-0 lead in the first four minutes of the game and then fight with its back to the wall the rest of the way.

The Tar Heels, marshaled by 163-pound Halfback Dick Bunting, who almost matched Williams' as the day's individual star, slashed 78 yards for a fourth period touchdown by sophomore Bud Wallace that tied the score at 7-7.

Then came the closing desperation drive by Notre Dame which covered 66 yards and was capped by Williams decisive heave down the middle to Mutscheller.

North Carolina, a 13-7 winner over North Carolina State last week, played like a high school team in the opening minutes.

Tom Higgins fumbled Notre Dame's opening kickoff. A few minutes later Wallace fumbled and Mutscheller recovered on North Carolina's 10.

Three plays later, with the ball on the three, Williams stepped back and fired a short pass to Mutscheller in the end zone for a the point for a 7-0 Irish lead.

But then an apparent Irish walkaway, in keeping with their three touchdown favoritism, slowly faded before a North Carolina team that got more vicious as the game got older.

Notre Dame, suddenly lethargic and gasping for breath under the oppressive humidity, found North Carolina a howling tartar in the second half.

The Tar Heels, outrushed in the first, 91 to 42, wound up ahead in ground yardage, 173 to 135.

It was in the air, with Williams completing 14 of 27 tosses for 128 yards, that North Carolina was whipped. The Tar Heels completed only five of 17 tosses for 56 yards.

Razorbacks Power Past North Texas

Fayetteville, Ark., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Arkansas jammed its pro-modeled attack into high gear and ran over North Texas State College, 50 to 6, before 15,000 here today.

North Texas' Eagles scored first on a 48-yard run by halfback Ken Bahnsen and promised to make a good game of it.

But the Razorbacks, rebounding from an upset by Oklahoma A. and M., took the ensuing kickoff and marched 84 yards to a touchdown, quarterback Jim Rinehart sneaking over from a yard out. George Thomason kicked his first of five points to give Arkansas a 7-6 lead and the rout was on.

MAROONS UPSET VOLUNTEERS, 7-0

Underrated Miss. State Drives For Winning TD With Opening Kickoff

By Clem Brossier

Starkville, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Under-rated Mississippi State College struck with 14 powerful plays in the first period to upset the University of Tennessee, rated one of the nation's top 10 football teams, 7-0, today.

It was crushing, bruising football all the way with Mississippi State battling hard and successfully to protect their slim seven point margin.

State started its touchdown at the kickoff when Norman Duplain took the ball on his own goal line and raced back to the 45 before he was tackled.

Fullback Bill Stewart and right half Wallace Beech alternated in a dozen line bucks good for from three to six yards each that put State on the Vol's 12-yard line.

Halfback Tom Rushing made five yards on the next try and then scored standing up from the seven. Max Stainbrook, State's place kick specialist, booted the extra point.

Tennessee threatened inside Mississippi's 15-yard line only once—late in the fourth quarter. But Mississippi stiffened and took over on downs on the eight.

The victory heralded State's Maroons as a team under-rated before the Southeastern Conference play began becoming now a conference contender. Tennessee on the other hand was rated with Kentucky as a conference power, and was strongly favored to defeat Mississippi State.

The game was the conference opener for each school, and was the first time the two teams have met on a Mississippi gridiron in 24 years.

An estimated 22,000 persons were in the stands.

Four Former Neville Gridders Lead Hinds

Hinds Junior College, a favorite to win the championship of the 12-team Mississippi Junior College Conference, are getting added spark this season from four graduates of Neville High School here.

Jerry Brooks, former Neville fullback, saved the first game of the season for the Eagles when, trailing 10-6, he snagged a pass with two minutes to play and ran for a touchdown that gave Hinds a 12-10 victory. Brooks plays right half for Hinds.

Bucky McElroy, one of the fastest backs produced by Coach Bill Ruple at Neville, was the mainspring in the 33-13 rout of Copiah-Lincoln, accounting for three touchdowns.

Ronald Gunter, Neville's former all-state guard, playing end for Hinds, took a pass for one touchdown in the defeat of Co-Lin.

Latest Neville addition to Hinds is Kenneth Lewis, halfback for the local prep club last year. The Eagles are using Lewis at guard.

SALEM PASSES 'BAMA TO WIN OVER TULANE

RED ELEPHANTS WHIP GREENIES BY 26-14 COUNT

Crimsons Ice Games Away With Touchdowns In First Three Quarters

By Keith Fuller

New Orleans, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Alabama's blistering pass attack beat Tulane's Green Wave 26-14 here today and sent the Crimson Tide's Southeastern Conference football stock soaring.

The Tide scored in each of the first three periods with talented Ed Salem sparking the drive with his neatly spaced passes.

Tulane was at its best on the ground and its pass defense crumbled badly during the first half.

It was a sweet victory for Alabame who had been victims of Tulane for three straight years when Fullback Eddie Price was engineering the Waves' jarring ground game.

Price, who was graduated last June, was sorely missed by wave Coach Henry Frnka today.

Alabama took the opening kickoff and moved to Tulane's two yard line on passes from Salem to Butch Avinger and ground gains by Halfback Bobbie Marlow and Fullback Tom Calvin.

But Tulane stiffened and stopped the attack.

Later in the period Tulane's Halfback George Kinek fumbled on his own 35 and the Crimson Tide roared back to score.

Salem went over left guard from the two-yard line for the tally. Salem missed the extra point.

Tulane opened the second quarter with a drive that broke down on their own 41 and punted to the Alabama 32. Alabama marched downfield to the Tulane 37. Ellsworth Kingery intercepted a long Salem heave in the end zone to halt the threat. Tulane took over their own 20, but Jug Jenkins, Alabama left end, intercepted Quarterback Bill Bonar's pass on Tulane's 44.

Then Salem hit Ed Lary with a 15-yard pass that carried to the Tulane 29. On the next play from scrimmage Salem lost his blockers but neatly threaded his way along the sidelines to the Wave 20. Then after two tries at the line Salem backed up to the 35 and threw a bullet pass to Al Lary standing open on the two.

Lary stepped over for the touchdown, untouched, and Salem converted from placement.

The score was Alabama 13 to 0 at half time.

Alabama took Tulane's kickoff after the half and drove to the Tulane 46 with Marlow and Larry Chiodetti gaining on the ground. Fullback Tom Calvin carried around right end for a first down on Tulane's 35. Calvin added five more to the 30 and Marlow went to the 23 around left end. The drive was turned into a score when Avinger shot a short pass to Al Lary in the end zone with the period just five minutes old. Salem's conversion attempt was wide.

Tulane's Harry Hahn took Alabama's kickoff on his own 25 and ran it back through a broken field to Tulane's 49. Here again the Wave's drive for yardage bogged down and Bonar was forced to punt.

Alabama fared no better with its series of downs and in turn punted. On the first play from scrimmage Tulane came to life when Kinek broke through for a 32-yard run that ended on the Alabama 43.

Bonar faked a kick and pitched out to Harold Waggoner who blasted 38 yards around left end. The play caught the 'Bama defense asleep. On three tries Kinek capped his own drive by bulling his way to the score from the five.

Tommy Comeaux converted from placement.

Alabama pushed back behind Salem's talented passing which netted a touchdown. Salem's scoring heave went to Al Lary spanning the 42 yards to the double stripe.

In the last period Tulane's Kinek cracked through right guard for a 28-yard gain. A 17-yard pass from Bill Bonar to Gale Kirkpatrick sparked a 53 - yard scoring drive. Alvis Batson made the touchdown with a plunge from the six. Comeaux placekicked the extra point.

Alabama penetrated to the 23 as the game ended.

BILLY SANDOW FACES G. CURTIS IN SEMI-WINDUP

Long-Time Absentees From Kallio's Arena Coming Back Tuesday

Three battlers who have been long-time absentees from Gus Kallio's Arena here will be back Tuesday night to share on a two-match program that sends "Black Phantom" against Henry Harrell in the main event, and George Curtis against Billy Sandow in the semi-final.

"Black Phantom," Harrell and Sandow are well known to Kallio's mat customers but it has been some time since the trio has performed before Twin City fans.

Kallio had announced the past week that the hooded Phantom and Harrell would be here Tuesday, but he didn't know at that time whether they would appear as opponents or with other opposition.

"Henry and the Phantom are coming back at the request of the fans," Kallio said. "Folks have been asking about them, and I finally decided, once they had agreed to come here again, that they should get together in the main event.

"Both are rough and tumble battlers with plenty of steam and color. I believe the match will be as good as any of the thrillers we have been getting here lately."

Harrell, a protege of Champion Jack Curtis hails form Memphis and Vicksburg. He will battle the masked brawler over a 90-minute time limit distance with two falls to win.

Sandow, a classy tussler from Miami, Fla., hasn't shown here in a little over a year, will work over an hour time limit route with Curtis, younger brother of the world's light heavyweight champ, in the semi-final which will also go two falls to win.

Five Clubs Enter Basketball Loop

Rayville, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Delhi, Epps, Start, Central and Nichols Motors of Monroe clinched their entry in the Valley Basketball League in a loop meeting here Tuesday night, and set up rules for the 1950 season.

College varsity players were exempted from the league, but no restriction was placed on graduates. Secretary Maynard Chambers, who was re-elected by the delegates, said that a sprinkling of college graduates have already entered and may make the league one of the fastest in the state.

The trophy for the four - team playoff at the end of the season is offered this year by Curtis Nichols, sponsor of the Nichols entry. A mid-season tourney including every team also holds a trophy for the winner.

Rayville, Baskin, Alto. Mangham and Winnsboro failed to apply for the spot they held in the '49 league. President L. E. Traxler announced that three vacancies may be cut down to one, to make a six-man league.

Team rosters, bearing no more than 12 players, must be submitted to Secretary Chambers before November 10. After that date, Chambers said, only teams holding a .333 average or less could bring in new players.

SKEET SHOOTERS AIM FOR TROPHY

Five-Week Event Gets Underway At Plum Street Range

The Monroe Skeet Club today opens its first classified handicap tournament, scheduled for five weeks with shooting each Sunday afternoon, at the Plum street range.

Howard Brothers Jewelers will supply the trophy for the winner, a sterling silver ice bucket. Other awards will include an electric toaster from the skeet club, a sports shirt from J. C. Penny Company, a month's supply of milk from Cooperative Dairies, and other awards.

Classification of skeet shooters has been in progress at the range here for the past few weeks, and all entrants, getting the benefit of their handicaps for the first time, stand a chance at the top award.

Members of skeet clubs at El Dorado and Camden, Ark., and Vicksburg, Miss., have been invited to today's shoot to participate in the weekly merchandise event which will run in conjunction with the first round of the classified tourney.

Merchandise awards offered today include wash, grease and oil change by Jackson Motors, groceries from Welch Grocery and Market, a hunting knife from Snyder Hardward and Furniture of West Monroe, two dinners at Bakal's Drive-In, a deluxe back - up light by Milner-Fuller Motors, a gallon of antifreeze from Thoman's Garage; groceries from Carso's Grocery and Market, and two awards for women shooters from Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, a ballpoint pen and a purse.

SALEM PASSES 'BAMA TO WIN OVER TULANE

RED ELEPHANTS WHIP GREENIES BY 26-14 COUNT

Crimsons Ice Games Away With Touchdowns In First Three Quarters

By Keith Fuller

New Orleans, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Alabama's blistering pass attack beat Tulane's Green Wave 26-14 here today and sent the Crimson Tide's Southeastern Conference football stock soaring.

The Tide scored in each of the first three periods with talented Ed Salem sparking the drive with his neatly spaced passes.

Tulane was at its best on the ground and its pass defense crumbled badly during the first half.

It was a sweet victory for Alabame who had been victims of Tulane for three straight years when Fullback Eddie Price was engineering the Waves' jarring ground game.

Price, who was graduated last June, was sorely missed by wave Coach Henry Frnka today.

Alabama took the opening kickoff and moved to Tulane's two yard line on passes from Salem to Butch Avinger and ground gains by Halfback Bobbie Marlow and Fullback Tom Calvin.

But Tulane stiffened and stopped the attack.

Later in the period Tulane's Halfback George Kinek fumbled on his own 35 and the Crimson Tide roared back to score.

Salem went over left guard from the two-yard line for the tally. Salem missed the extra point.

Tulane opened the second quarter with a drive that broke down on their own 41 and punted to the Alabama 32. Alabama marched downfield to the Tulane 37. Ellsworth Kingery intercepted a long Salem heave in the end zone to halt the threat. Tulane took over their own 20, but Jug Jenkins, Alabama left end, intercepted Quarterback Bill Bonar's pass on Tulane's 44.

Then Salem hit Ed Lary with a 15-yard pass that carried to the Tulane 29. On the next play from scrimmage Salem lost his blockers but neatly threaded his way along the sidelines to the Wave 20. Then after two tries at the line Salem backed up to the 35 and threw a bullet pass to Al Lary standing open on the two.

Lary stepped over for the touchdown, untouched, and Salem converted from placement.

The score was Alabama 13 to 0 at half time.

Alabama took Tulane's kickoff after the half and drove to the Tulane 46 with Marlow and Larry Chiodetti gaining on the ground. Fullback Tom Calvin carried around right end for a first down on Tulane's 35. Calvin added five more to the 30 and Marlow went to the 23 around left end. The drive was turned into a score when Avinger shot a short pass to Al Lary in the end zone with the period just five minutes old. Salem's conversion attempt was wide.

Tulane's Harry Hahn took Alabama's kickoff on his own 25 and ran it back through a broken field to Tulane's 49. Here again the Wave's drive for yardage bogged down and Bonar was forced to punt.

Alabama fared no better with its series of downs and in turn punted. On the first play from scrimmage Tulane came to life when Kinek broke through for a 32-yard run that ended on the Alabama 43.

Bonar faked a kick and pitched out to Harold Waggoner who blasted 38 yards around left end. The play caught the 'Bama defense asleep. On three tries Kinek capped his own drive by bulling his way to the score from the five.

Tommy Comeaux converted from placement.

Alabama pushed back behind Salem's talented passing which netted a touchdown. Salem's scoring heave went to Al Lary spanning the 42 yards to the double stripe.

In the last period Tulane's Kinek cracked through right guard for a 28-yard gain. A 17-yard pass from Bill Bonar to Gale Kirkpatrick sparked a 53 - yard scoring drive. Alvis Batson made the touchdown with a plunge from the six. Comeaux placekicked the extra point.

Alabama penetrated to the 23 as the game ended.

The lineups:

OUACHITA, NEVILLE GIRD FOR BATTLE FRIDAY

SELLOUT CROWD TO SEE BENGALS BATTLING LIONS

Monroe Schools Offer Hometown Fans Top Prep Classic Of Year Here

The standout schoolboy football classic of the season—as far as Twin City grid fans are concerned—brings the Neville High School Tigers and the Ouachita Parish High School Lions onto Brown Field here next Friday night for their second annual battle.

Just as it was last year, when Neville and Ouachita met for the initial time in the first all-Monroe grid contest since the old Monroe City High School battled Ouachita back in 1911, another sellout is certain for the coming conflict.

Reserved seats in the concrete stands have already been taken, and the advanced sale of general admissions will be in progress this week.

Both schools divided the tickets. Neville will sell its share of the general admissions at the school office, beginning tomorrow. Ouachita is disposing of its share on a mail order basis. Mail orders are being accepted at Ouachita through Tuesday and distribution will follow immediately.

The advanced sale of general admissions is being restricted to available bleacher seats on the east side of the field. Persons holding such tickets should be able to obtain seats if they arrive at the stadium by 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. Tickets for remaining space go on sale at Brown Field at that time Friday.

So far the rival coaches have been making no predictions on the game and they're not expected to. A favored Ouachita last year found Neville a tough nut to crack and finally broke a 7-7 tie in the last quarter and went on to beat the Tigers, 19-7.

The record favors Ouachita again this year, but if the performance last season can be accepted as a barometer, anything can happen Friday night.

Both rivals go into the contest with three wins and a single loss for the season, and by comparison they each played two common foes. Ouachita routed Homer, 40 to 6, but Neville lost to the same club, 21 to 13. Neville beat Bolton of Alexandria in a season opener, 6 to 0, and Ouachita trimmed the Bruins last Friday night, 29 to 7. In other games, Ouachita edged Ruston, 7-6, and lost to Bossier City, 19-13. Neville has beaten Minden, 33 to 0, and barely got by Rayville on the last Tiger outing, 13 to 0.

Actually the situation stacks up about the same as last year with Neville again featuring a huge and more experienced line with a less seasoned backfield, and Ouachita, with a fairly classy backfield, again relying greatly on a smaller and unseasoned forward wall.

Maryland Scuttles Navy By 35-21 Edge

College Park, Md., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Sophomore Quarterback Johnny Scarbath was the difference today as Maryland dedicated its $1,000,000 football stadium with a 35-21 triumph over Navy.

The 20-year-old Baltimorean put Maryland out in front 21-0 at the half by running for one touchdown and passing for two more.

Navy, playing its first game under Coach Eddie Erdelatz, gave the capacity crowd of 43,836 an idea of making it a tighter game by scoring for the first time in the second half to trail 21-7.

But Maryland, rebounding in style from last week's upset by Georgia, banged in two more speedy touchdowns early in the fourth quarter to sew things up. Navy then got two more while Coach Jim Tatum played out the game with the remnants of his bench.

Score by quarters:

Navy	0	0	7	14	—21
Maryland	7	14	0	14	—35

Navy scoring: Touchdowns, Adorney, Wilson, Kukowski. Conversions, Drew 3.

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns, Scarbath, Karnash, Augsburger, Wingate, E. Modzelewski. Conversions, Dean 5.

EX-HURLER DIES

Longhorns Hard Pressed To Nip Purdue, 34 To 26

Austin, Tex., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, two-touchdown favorites over Purdue's Boilermakers, were hard pushed to win 34 to 26 before 40,000 spectators here today.

Texas' passing attack was not as sharp as usual but it accounted for two touchdowns while a vastly improved running game sent Longhorn runners across the goal line three times.

Purdue held Texas to a 7-7 tie in the first quarter and were close enough on the Longhorns' heels to keep Texas fans nervous until the late moments of the final period.

Score by quarters:

Purdue	7	7	6	6	—26
Texas	7	14	7	6	—34

Scoring summary:

Texas: Touchdowns—Townsend, Levine, Dawson 2, Procter. Points after touchdown-Porter 4.

Purdue: Touchdowns — J. Kerestes, Sugar, Klezek, Schmidt. Points after touchdown-Samuels 2.

OAK GROVE NICKS START OWLS, 19-13

Tigers Forced To Come From Behind As Bill Lee Leads Way

Oak Grove, La. Sept. 30.—(Special)—Fullback Bill Lee led his Oak Grove Tiger teammates to a 19-13 victory over the Start High School eleven here last night, scoring all three of the locals touchdowns.

Despite amassing a net gain of 298 yards from scrimmage as against Start's 66 yards net gain. The Tigers had to come from behind to tie the game and then scored the winning TD in the fourth period. It was their third win in four games, two of them being over Class A conference foes.

Penalties, fumbles and bad breaks kept the Tiger score down.

Opening the first quarter, Oak Grove forced Start back to their own four-yard line. Attempting to punt out of danger, Trisler kicked out of bounds on his 12-yard line. Lee picked up two yards for Oak Grove at right tackle. Kelly Nix, Tiger fullback, slashed through the same slot for eight more, and Lee scored standing up on the next play from the two.

Tackle B. W. Walters' kick for the point was no good.

Start, after recovering an Oak Grove fumble on the 50-yard line, staged a sustained drive, aided by two off-side penalties against Oak Grove, Foster, Start quarterback, scored around right end from eight yards out. Hogan passed to Moore for the extra point to put Start in the lead 7-6.

Sparked by Lee, Oak Grove came back strong offensively, but halftime stopped the drive on the Start two.

Early in the second half, a 13-yard touchdown sprint by Lee was nullified when Oak Grove was penalized for off-sides. Start then held the Tigers for downs, but on Start's second play from scrimmage, Oak Grove recovered a fumble on the four.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Lee scored over center from the four. A pass from quarterback Jess Smith to end Herbert Manley was good for the point.

Roark took the Oak Grove kickoff and raced through the entire Tiger squad from his 20-yard line to the Oak Grove two, where he was caught by Don Stevens, defensive linebacker, and John Grubbs, tackle. Oak Grove held for two downs before Foster scored from the half-yard line on a quarterback sneak. The try for point was no good.

Oak Grove bounced back immediately with fullback Lee doing the heavy offensive work. He broke loose from his own 29-yard line and sprinted through center to the start 17. Alternate running plays took the ball to the one-yard line, where Lee went over center for the final talley and game-winning touchdown.

Columbus Cops Little World Series Opener

Baltimore, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Columbus Red Birds blasted Baltimore's top hurler Bill Kennedy off the mound in the ninth inning tonight to give the American Association club a 5 to 1 victory over the International League's Orioles in he first game of the Little World Series, before 20,468 fans.

PANTHER POWER STOPS FARMERS

Lake Providence Gridders Subdue Farmerville High, 27 To 7

Lake Providence, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Playing their third and best game of the season, the Lake Providence Panthers of Lake Providence High School, overwhelmed the heavier Farmerville Farmers on Hamley Field Friday night by a score of 27 to 7.

Coach Charles Newman's Panthers scored their first touchdown in the early minutes of the game as a result of recovering of Farmerville fumble on the latter's 19-yard line. Lebane Clement took the ball over on a short line play. Later in the first half Fisher of Lake Providence scored again for his team, going over from the two-yard line.

Early in the second half Farmerville recovered a Lake Providence fumble on the Farmerville 26-yard marker and on successive line plays made their only goal of the night. Ramsey and Nolan of the Farmers carried the ball again and again through the Panthers' line, the touchdown being made by Nolan.

Lake Providence's other two touchdowns came as a result of an 18-yard pass completion from Phillips to George Hopkins and another completion, Phillips to Fortenberry, good for 17 yards.

With the Farmers backed up on their own goal line in the last quarter the Panthers blocked a punt attempt and fell on the ball across the goal line, making two additional points. For the visitors Ramsey and Nolan stood out, while Lake Providence's best players were Phillips, John and George Hopkins, Fortenberry, Lebane Clements, Key and Hull.

Baylor Lions Storm Past Hapless Houston, 34 To 7

WACO, Tex., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Baylor's Golden Bears today ground the University of Houston into the turf of the Bears' brand-new stadium, 34-7.

The buggy-whip passing of Larry Isbell shot Baylor to a three-touchdown lead in the first half and alert play — a blocked punt and an intercepted pass — set the stage for two fourth - quarter scores.

THE BIG KICK

Holder of Louisiana State's all-time punting record is Bill Pitcher, Bengal backfield star in 1924, whose record breaking boot against Auburn at Birmingham sailed in the ozone for 73 yards and rolled on the ground for 20 more.

Cocky Spartans End Michigan Supremacy

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Michigan's perennial gridiron victims, Michigan State College, smacked the spots off the national football reputation of the Big Ten co-champions here today with a 14-7 victory.

A screaming capacity crowd of 97,239 saw the fired-up Spartans cocky and confident, blast their way to two touchdowns in the first and final periods and hang up their first win in 13 years of hot grid rivalry with Michigan.

Everett (Sonny) Grandelius, 195-pound Spartan halfback from Muskegon Heights, Mich., ripped through and around the Michigan line and accounted for the first State score. Fullback Leroy Crane bounced into the Wolverine end zone in the final period to sew up a victory that Michigan Partisans couldn't quite believe.

A huge delegation of Michigan State followers swarmed out of the stadium seats to congratulate the Spartan crew that finally made the grade. The Michigan squad, which hasn't lost an opener since its 19 to 14 loss to State in 1937, walked dejectedly from the field.

Thus Michigan, rated only behind Notre Dame and Army in the AP poll, was certain to slide considerably in ranking before its meeting next week with Dartmouth. The victorious Michigan State contingent returned to East Lansing to prepare for a meeting with Maryland.

Score by quarter:

Michigan State	7	0	0	7	—14
Michigan	0	0	7	0	—7

Michigan State scoring: touchdowns, Grandelius, Crane. Points after touchdown, Bob Carey 2 (placements).

Michigan scoring: touchdowns, Pickard. Point after touchdown, Allis (placement).

GENERALS TRIUMPH

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Washington and Lee's Generals' sparked by Quarterback Gil Bocetti's clutch running and passing, impolitely welcomed West Virginia into the Southern Conference today by handing the Mountaineers a sound 26-7 thrashing.

TROJANS EASILY OVERCOME MANY

Tallulah Romps Over Rival Eleven By Score Of 39 To 12

Tallulah, Sept. 30.—(Special)—Romping on the Many Tigers practically at will, the Tallulah Trojans scored a 39-12 victory here Friday night.

Tallulah used the first team only in the first quarter and was able to carry on capably with reserve players in the last three quarters.

For Tallulah, touchdowns were made by Wallace Hargon, Bill Christian, Martin Verhagen, Billy Laird, E. Mooney and Bob Bailey. Hargon made two extra points and Billy Jackson one. Scorers for Many were Eugene Wright and Leo McDonald.

There were eight first downs for Tallulah and six for Many. Many completed three out of 11 passes and Tallulah completed two out of five, one for a touchdown. Each team made one interception. Tallulah was penalized three times for a total of 25 yards and Many was penalized once for five yards. Many did not make a first down until the second half.

This was the third game and the third win for Tallulah and in each game Tallulah scored at least 30 points. Next Friday Tallulah has an open date and the following Friday the team will play Newellton.

Carrasquel Has Operation To Remove Torn Cartilage

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)— Chico Carrasquel, Chicago White Sox rookie shortstop, today underwent an operation for removal of a torn cartilage on his right knee.

Attendants at Mercy Hospital described the young Venezuelan's condition as "good," but predicted he would be in the hospital for 10 days to two weeks. They said it was a "major operation."

Carrasquel suffered the injury in a game with St. Louis Wednesday.

Tallulah Romps Over Rival Eleven By Score Of 39 To 12

Tallulah, Sept. 30.—(Special)—Romping on the Many Tigers practically at will, the Tallulah Trojans scored a 39-12 victory here Friday night.

Tallulah used the first team only in the first quarter and was able to carry on capably with reserve players in the last three quarters.

For Tallulah, touchdowns were made by Wallace Hargon, Bill Christian, Martin Verhagen, Billy Laird, E. Mooney and Bob Bailey. Hargon made two extra points and Billy Jackson one. Scorers for Many were Eugene Wright and Leo McDonald.

There were eight first downs for Tallulah and six for Many. Many completed three out of 11 passes and Tallulah completed two out of five, one for a touchdown. Each team made one interception. Tallulah was penalized three times for a total of 25 yards and Many was penalized once for five yards. Many did not make a first down until the second half.

This was the third game and the third win for Tallulah and in each game Tallulah scored at least 30 points. Next Friday Tallulah has an open date and the following Friday the team will play Newellton.

Carrasquel Has Operation To Remove Torn Cartilage

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Chico Carrasquel, Chicago White Sox rookie shortstop, today underwent an operation for removal of a torn cartilage on his right knee.

Attendants at Mercy Hospital described the young Venezuelan's condition as "good," but predicted he would be in the hospital for 10 days to two weeks. They said it was a "major operation."

Carrasquel suffered the injury in a game with St. Louis Wednesday.

DESIARD WOMEN PLAY 1-DAY MEET

Second Annual Golf Tournament To Be Held Here On October 18

The Ladies Golf Association of Bayou DeSiard Country Club will sponsor its second annual One-Day Tournament here Wednesday, October 18, with women from throughout this section expected to participate.

Mrs. Gordon Perrin, El Dorado, Ark., present women's amateur champion of Arkansas and winner of the event here last year, will be back to defend her title. Mrs. George Miller, Monroe, holder of the women's amateur crown of Louisiana, was runner-up to Mrs. Perrin last year and will be shooting for the top prize this trip.

Miss Nancy Stewart, Hodge, finished third in 1949 and is considered a good threat for the second tourney.

Earliest entry for the 1950 event is Mrs. Harold Klemeyer, Vincennes Country Club, Vincennes, Ind. Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi are expected to have strong representation.

Pairings for the medal play event will be made on a handicap basis, and handicaps of all entries must be filed at Bayou DeSiard C. C. not later than Monday, October 16.

The Bayou DeSiard course will be open to entrants beginning Monday week with the exception of Saturday, October 14.

Because of illness, one sister, Mrs. N. C. Gordan of Pampa, Tex., was unable to attend.

The highlight of the day was the elaborate dinner served on the spacious lawn where a bounteous repast was prepared.

Their house destroyed on Claiborn estreet, West Monroe, and its entire contents, even the clothing of the family being a total loss. Jack Bogg and his wife and three children are in dire financial straits. The family comprises children two and three years old and a baby of two months. They not only need clothes but food and a complete rehabilitation kindly disposed friends raised $35.00 in cash for them early Saturday but there is need for many donations. Rev. Wesley L. Johnson, phone 6869-W will gladly call and make collection of any gifts that may be offered in this worthy cause.

Three members of one family had birthdays on the same day and a party was held for them on September 24. They were the mother, Mrs. P. M. Humphries of Kelly, La., her grandson, Jack Brittain, 2404 Gordon avenue; and Mrs. B. B. Humphries, daughter-in-law, 3024 North Ninth street, West Monroe.

The celebration for the trio was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Oden, 2615 North 11th street, West Monroe,, Mrs. Oden being a daughter of Mrs. P M. Humphries.

A fine dinner was served and the party included besides the host and hostess and the three whose birthdays were being celebrated, the following: C. L. Brittain. Mrs. C. L. Brittain, Bruce Humphries and son, Bennett and I. S. Humphries and son, Jimmy.

"Go to Church Today," this is the third Sunday in the campaign waged by all pastors of the parish and by the service clubs. They all realize that attending some church with regularity aids a man or woman to be a better citizen of the community. The mere attendance at church is not to be regarded as a sure way to salvation, but it is a gesture of commendation and the large per cent of successful and vigorous men in industry are to be found in the ranks of church attendants.

With persecution, as never before in our time, of all that is religious in countries under domination of the hammer and sickle, there is every reason for all who do believe in religious influences, to rally to the cause. We can not permit suppression of churches and church influences in America as has been the case in Russia and her satelite nations.

Go to church today, you will feel better all the week! Try it and see!

The Boy Scouts of the Twin Cities once more rallied to a good cause. It was they who placed those "See You in Church Sunday" posters in virtually all store windows in both towns. It took considerable time out which they could have devoted to sports or other personal interests, but being ever ready to aid a good cause, they gladly performed their little task.

jobs—that of ESA administrator and a price stabilization director—also must be filled.

At this moment, industry sources are guessing that C.I.O. Steel workers will win a 10 per cent wage boost—averaging about 17 cents an hour — in negotiations soon to open with the major producers of steel, the basic defense metal.

Whether that would mean a steel price boost, sending an inflationary tremor throughout industry, is uncertain. United States Steel Corp. and other big producers are aware that a stiff price increase might be the government's signal to issue a painful rollback order.

The possibility exists that the victory in Korea will take some pressure off inflation. The prospect is dimmed, however, by Mr. Truman's announced decision to plow ahead with the $30,000,000,000-a-year preparedness program.

Government spending on that scale — or higher, as Mr. Truman has warned — will continue to inflate the public's buying power and absorb huge tonnages of material. Meantime the tightening labor supply will tempt industry to give wage boosts, in order to retain workers.

Pending moves by the government indicate there will be no letdown in the armament drive, on the administration's part at least. They include:

Tomorrow: A multi-million ton expansion of the nation's steel producing capacity, by private producers, will be announced by Secretary of Commerce Sawyer.

Monday: A priority order, giving military purchases an overriding preference in every plant and mine, will be issued by the national production authority.

Monday and Tuesday: Plans to restrict private housing credit will be discussed by federal reserve board with bankers and builders. An order is expected before the weekend.

The "near future": more materials will be brought under the two-week old anti-hoarding, or inventory control, order which now governs 32 key commodities. Synthetic rubber will be allocated (but tires won't be rationed). Other allocations are expected, and limits may be placed on materials going into some civilian production.

The president's council of economic advisers is reported to believe advisers is reported to beage and heavy demand have become "a very, very urgent problem."

This seems to represent a reversal of council thinking. In August, when congress was proposing to give Mr. Truman standby wage-price powers for which he had not asked, council chairman Leon Keyserling referred to the price movement as a "speculative flurry" which would not do undue damage.

The scope and speed of the preparedness program have mushroomed since then. Whether the council favors mandatory price and wage controls, or voluntary ones, is not known.

However, the council is known to feel definitely that ESA should be given flesh-and-blood reality promptly, so that it can begin preparing for whatever action it may find necessary.

rean divisions lined up along or near the 38th parallel will get the order they have been hoping for—drive into North Korea and smash the remnants of the routed Red invasion army. They are being held in check only by an order from their own Korean Republican high command.

Spearheads of the South Korean Third Division have reached the 38th parallel at the east coast village of Ingu.

Three other South Korean divisions rolling northward on the third's left were moving so fast they were ahead of official reports. Their advance elements probably toed the line Saturday, forming a front a little less than halfway across the country.

The South Korean Assembly, in Pusan, unanimously urged United Nations forces—including their own Republican government troops—to seek out and smash the tag-ends of the North Korean Army in North Korea.

The Korean Republic, created under United Nation auspices, always has claimed sovereignty over all Korea, as has also the Soviet-sponsored northern Red regime.

The Pusan radio said the Republican Assembly voted to a man for "absolutely eliminating obstacles to national unification and independence and the establishment of an absolutely free and independent government."

West of the massed South Korean troops, the U. S. Tenth Corps sent steel-tipped spearheads toward the 38th parallel.

U. S. Marines took off from Seoul for Uijongbu, road hub 12 miles north of the capital and 18 miles south of the Red border, marine warplanes smashed Uijongbu flat in their heaviest strike of the war.

The fliers used 1,000-pound "Tiny-Tim" rockets to crush the Red-infested town.

The road north from Uijongbu, one of the main north-south highways, leads to Chorwon, 48 miles north of Seoul, reportedly the headquarters of the North Korean Army-in-retreat.

A South Korean Army spokesman has estimated that 100,000 Communists have massed in Chorwon. But, he said, most were believed to be poorly and lightly-armed conscripts rounded up in haste.

American Intelligence officers said they had no solid information on the reported gathering. They said they had no good estimate of how many Reds still were in fighting form.

Northwest of Seoul, the U. S. 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team rambled out of Kimpo airfield to within 24 miles of the 38th parallel. They were still south of the Han River, however.

The immediate objective of the 187th was to clear Reds from the Inchon Peninsula, extending northwest of Seoul between the Han River and the Yellow Sea. They met little or no opposition and moved about seven miles in one day.

In Seoul itself the only action was the mopping up of small Red groups in the west and southwest. The old capital was officially restored as the Republic's seat of government by General MacArthur Triday, but it was in bad shape.

Its power and water systems were out of order—damaged or destroyed. Many of its streets were still choked with war debris.

But President Syngman Rhee seemed philosophical.

"Lives were saved and the people were made free," he told correspondents. "We can and we will rebuild."

Fires set by arsonists broke out in the granite-walled capitol Friday shortly after MacArthur and Rhee left the building where they led a brief liberation ceremony.

When no one made a move to put out the blazes because there was no water in the mains, the Austrian-born wife of the President took command of the situation and ordered sand thrown on the flames. The fires did no serious damage.

South of Seoul, the U. S. Seventh Division advanced 25 miles east of Suwon to Ichon, rail-highway junction and possible retreat avenue for Reds trapped in the South.

Other Seventh Division Infantry cleared out a Red pocket seven miles south of Suwon. Reds in company strength with two tanks had been reported in the area earlier.

In the huge mop-up operation farther south, the U. S. 25th division put spearheads on the outskirts of Kunsan, west coast port, after capturing the village of Kumje, five miles inland.

Two destroyers, the Canadian Athabaskan and the Australian Bataan, shelled Kusan.

The American 24th and South Korean First Division, operating in South-Central Korea, pared Red pockets around Kumchon, Yongdong and Taejon.

The British Cruiser Ceylon put a party ashore on Techong Island, within ten miles of the 38th parallel off Korea's west coast.

U. S. warships bombarded both coasts. The cruiser Toledo pounded Red territory northwest of Seoul and other units blasted Red-held points on the Ongjin Peninsula which is crossed by the 38th parallel. On the east coast, the U. S. Navy shelled Samchok and vicinity, 75 miles south of the parallel, which South Koreans forces had skirted in their drive northward.

The Chinese Red radio at Peiping sid 1,300 North Korean delegates met in the northern capital of Pyongyang Tuesday to find out how the war was going. It quoted the president of the Korean Democratic Women as telling the representatives: "partial difficulties could not prevent the heroic people from marching forward to victory."

Pyongyang radio insisted that "fierce street battles" were raging in Seoul and that "on all fronts, units of the people's army continue to wage bitter battles against American troops."

ern border in Red China or Soviet Russia.

Wars which divide a nation against itself always produce extreme bitterness which may require years to overcome. The United States apparently hopes to speed the process of reconciliation which is an essential part of unifying and stabilizing Korea.

The more quickly the job can be done—once the military campaign is ended—the better it will suit the major objectives of United States foreign policy. Korea has been a diversion from the main task of rearming western Europe even though it has greatly stimulated that work. The quicker the forces poured into Korea can be pulled back and restored to their original duties of occupying Japan or strengthening Europe, the better pleased authorities here will be.

Exactly how some of the legal and political problems of the final phase of the war are to be handled is still a question. In the matter of postwar trials, for example, if the leaders of the Communist aggression could be caught they apparently could be tried either by the South Korean government or by international tribunals organized under the United Nations.

GERMAN POLICE

munist Free German Youth (F. D. J.) were grabbed at Dortmund, a steel town of 600,000 population, in a dawn raid.

Many known Communists vanished from public view through out the Ruhr, apparently to avoid the police dragnet.

At one Ruhr community, Bottrop, police confiscated stacks of Communist propaganda and discovered a copy of their secret anti-riot orders had fallen into Red hands.

In the old cathedral city of Cologne police reported they had seized Communist plans for an invasion by 10,000 young troublemakers tomorrow.

On the Soviet zone frontier, West German officials turned back several hundred young East Germans in special buses. Describing themselves as sport fans, the Easterners flourished interzonal passes issued by their Communist government but failed to argue their way across the border.

Throughout the Ruhr authorities were at the alert to guard against the Communist program of "national resistance" against the western occupation powers and the Bonn government.

About 2,000 British troops were recalled from maneuvers to stand by at Duesseldorf. About 100,000 police were mobilized.

Police halted traffic into Cologne and several other cities and inspected trucks and cars for hidden arms and Communist agitators. Riot squads, armed with pistols, rubber clubs and water guns were on duty, ready to move quickly to threatened points. Bridges were guarded.

'Whistler' Taunted Couple Receive Gifts

Paradis, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—New Orleans merchants tonight presented wedding gifts valued at $1200 to state Trooper Herbert Belsom, 26, and his pretty 18-year old bride-to-be Jackie Cadow.

The couple are to be married tomorrow afternoon at the Holy Rosary church in nearby Taft, La., 25 miles west of New Orleans.

Jackie's mother, Mrs. Clifford Cadow, reported to St. Charles parish Sheriff Leon Vial early this month that a nocturnal "whistler" had threatened to kill her daughter if she went through with the marriage. However, Sheriff Vial characterized the story as a hoax.

"We know of no other couple in Louisiana who have had to overcome such obstacles to be married," said Ray A. Lluzza, spokesman for the New Orleans merchants.

Among the gifts was a one week all-expense paid honeymoon in Miami, Fla. the couple will leave Moisant International Airport in New Orleans tomorrow night on a free plane trip to Miami.

Among their other gifts were a silver service set, bridal flowers, champagne, wedding breakfast, wedding cake, picture album, and a lifetime recording of their marriage vows.

MAKES BROADCAST

herewith the text of a message which General Douglas MacArthur the commander-in-chief of the United Nations forces in Korea, is issuing today at 1200 Tokyo time, October 1 (10:00 p.m. eastern standard time, September 30). I request that you circulate this message to the members of the United Nations for their information."

When informed of General MacArthur's message to the North Korean commander in chief, Secretary-General Lie expressed the hope that peace and order would now soon be re-established in Korea, so that as many lives as possible could be saved.

The special report, in which the MacArthur broadcast was contained, was sent immediately during the late hours of the night to all U. N. members who have delegations in New York City, near Lake Success. The secretariat also circulated copies to the U. N. members through the regular channels.

Copies were dispatched immediately to the president of the U. N. general assembly, Nasrollah Entezam, and to the chairman of the security council, Sir Gladwyn Jebb.

There had been hints that General MacArthur would make an important broadcast to the North Koreans late tonight, Lake Success time, and delegates generally have been expecting such a message as was contained in the special message to the U. N.

It was noted that Gen. MacArthur did not specifically say he would cross the 38th parallel, which was the boundary between North and South Korea, but that he called on the North Koreans to lay down their arms in whatever part of Korea situated. This was taken in key circles here to mean that Gen. MacArthur feels he has the authority under the security council resolution of June 27 to go ahead and finish the war against the North Koreans to restore peace in that area.

The question of Korea is now being debated in the political committee of the general assembly, with eight nations backing a resolution calling for a free, independent and unified Korea.

Sir B. N. Rau, of India, one of the key delegates in the U. N., whose country has taken a keen interest in the Korean war, was informed promptly of the message.

Rau said he wanted to study the statement carefully before making any comment on it.

India has not yet spoken in the U. N. political committee's debate on the Korean rehabilitation resolution and it was known that the tenor of the MacArthur broadcast will affect his country's stand on the resolution.

B. V. Keskar, India's deputy minister of foreign affairs, is one of the members of the delegation and policy discussions were foreseen between the two, with the possibility fresh instructions may be asked of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Marines Say 'Yes' To Sale Of Letter

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30—(AP)—The marine corps league changed its mind again tonight and now says "yes" to an offered $2500—the purchase price of President Truman's letter chiding the corps.

The letter dubbed the marines as "the navy's police force" with "a propaganda machine" likeable to Stalin's. Mr. Truman apologized after marines and ex-marines exploded at home and abroad.

Yesterday, Theus, J. McQueen, national adjutant of the marine corps league, announced at headquarters here that the famous letter would be sold. He said the $2500 check would be turned over to the league for welfare and service work among marine veterans.

But last night, league commandant Maurice J. Fagan of Philadelphia, Pa., wired McQueen not to accept the $2500 under any circumstances. So McQueen announced the deal was off.

Tonight, McQueen reported he had conducted a telegraphic poll of the league's 11-member national staff. The first seven replies received voted "yes," giving a "clear majority" to approval, McQueen said. He added he has so advised Commandant Fagan.

Rep. Gordon McDonough (R.-Calif.), to whom the president wrote the letter, is en route from Los Angeles to Chicago, Ill., to close the deal, McQueen said tonight. He will be met at Chicago, McQueen added, by league officials to complete the transaction.

George T. Bullen, former national commandant, and Joseph Probst, former national publicity director, will represent the league at the Chicago meeting, McQueen said. The sale and acceptance of the check will take place "tonight or tomorrow," he added.

McQueen said he doesn not know the identity of the purchaser.

chunk out of consumer income, beginning next January 1.

The rate will remain the same as now, 1 1-2 per cent on workers and 1 1-2 per cent on their employers, but the levy will be extended to several million persons newly joining the big pension system in 1951.

Also, the rate will be charged after January 1 against the first $3.600 of annual earnings. Now it applies to only $3.000.

The increased income tax withholdings rates will, of course, hit more people sooner and harder.

Fishing Boat Nabs Sea Bass With Anchor

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 30.—(AP)— Fishermen on Skipper Jack Melroy's sports fishing boat all came in today with 15 to 20-pound sea bass—but Melroy uses a bigger hook. He came in with a 39 pound sea bass.

Melroy's hook was the boat's anchor. When he pulled the anchor up, the big bass came up with it.

The fish had a fish hook in its mouth and about 50 feet of line that once belonged to some unlucky fisherman. The line had got entwined about the anchor and snared the bass for good.

REDS MADE

up many Seoul families. A father would be arrested as a "traitor" and jailed or taken north from Seoul into a vacuum which yields no news of his whereabouts. A son would be impressed into Red army service. The family's property would be confiscated.

Such a family may never be brought together again.

The Communist conscription methods were treacherous and tricky. They reopened schools, and when students returned to classes they were told they were in the Red army.

The Reds had another trick of offering free movies. When the house was full, the doors were locked and all able bodied men in the audience were told they were in the army, then and there.

A mounting number of reports also indicate the North Koreans—people in Seoul refer to them as "the Communists" and rarely as "the Red army"—looted and stole whatever they wanted.

There seems to have been some resistance to the Reds, but usually it was of a passive nature. The Koreans are masters at this tactic which they employed for so long against the Japanese.

Young persons on hearing of the army conscription program would quietly flee the city for the countryside if able to get away.

Kimm was arrested late in ernment official who broke with the Rhee regime but did not go Red, is reported to have made one radio broadcast voluntarily against Rhee, but to have made a second radio talk only with a pistol at his back.

Kim m was arrested late in September and taken north. His property was confiscated and his house turned into a Red army dispensary.

Long lines of people who left Seoul during the Red rule are returning to the city.

Shell and flame-batter Seoul is without water, power or light facilities.

Mayor Lee Kl Bong and 32 of his specialists are on the job to cope with public health, public welfare and utilities problems.

It will be next to impossible, however, for the South Koreans alone to bring order out of chaos in this city. They have neither the money nor enough trained personnel to do so.

Three members of one family had birthdays on the same day and a party was held for them on September 24. They were the mother, Mrs. P. M. Humphries of Kelly, La., her grandson, Jack Brittain, 2404 Gordon avenue; and Mrs. B. B. Humphries, daughter-in-law, 3024 North Ninth street, West Monroe.

The celebration for the trio was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Oden, 2615 North 11th street, West Monroe,, Mrs. Oden being a daughter of Mrs. P M. Humphries.

A fine dinner was served and the party included besides the host and hostess and the three whose birthdays were being celebrated, the following: C. L. Brittain. Mrs. C. L. Brittain, Bruce Humphries and son, Bennett and I. S. Humphries and son, Jimmy.

"Go to Church Today," this is the third Sunday in the campaign waged by all pastors of the parish and by the service clubs. They all realize that attending some church with regularity aids a man or woman to be a better citizen of the community. The mere attendance at church is not to be regarded as a sure way to salvation, but it is a gesture of commendation and the large per cent of successful and vigorous men in industry are to be found in the ranks of church attendants.

With persecution, as never before in our time, of all that is religious in countries under domination of the hammer and sickle, there is every reason for all who do believe in religious influences, to rally to the cause. We can not permit suppression of churches and church influences in America as has been the case in Russia and her satelite nations.

Go to church today, you will feel better all the week! Try it and see!

The Boy Scouts of the Twin Cities once more rallied to a good cause. It was they who placed those "See You in Church Sunday" posters in virtually all store windows in both towns. It took considerable time out which they could have devoted to sports or other personal interests, but being ever ready to aid a good cause, they gladly performed their little task.

jobs—that of ESA administrator and a price stabilization director—also must be filled.

At this moment, industry sources are guessing that C.I.O. Steel workers will win a 10 per cent wage boost—averaging about 17 cents an hour — in negotiations soon to open with the major producers of steel, the basic defense metal.

Whether that would mean a steel price boost, sending an inflationary tremor throughout industry, is uncertain. United States Steel Corp. and other big producers are aware that a stiff price increase might be the government's signal to issue a painful rollback order.

The possibility exists that the victory in Korea will take some pressure off inflation. The prospect is dimmed, however, by Mr. Truman's announced decision to plow ahead with the $30,000,000,000-a-year preparedness program.

Government spending on that scale — or higher, as Mr. Truman has warned — will continue to inflate the public's buying power and absorb huge tonnages of material. Meantime the tightening labor supply will tempt industry to give wage boosts, in order to retain workers.

Pending moves by the government indicate there will be no letdown in the armament drive, on the administration's part at least. They include:

Tomorrow: A multi-million ton expansion of the nation's steel producing capacity, by private producers, will be announced by Secretary of Commerce Sawyer.

Monday: A priority order, giving military purchases an overriding preference in every plant and mine, will be issued by the national production authority.

Monday and Tuesday: Plans to restrict private housing credit will be discussed by federal reserve board with bankers and builders. An order is expected before the weekend.

The "near future": more materials will be brought under the two-week old anti-hoarding, or inventory control, order which now governs 32 key commodities. Synthetic rubber will be allocated (but tires won't be rationed). Other allocations are expected, and limits may be placed on materials going into some civilian production.

The president's council of economic advisers is reported to believe advisers is reported to be age and heavy demand have become "a very, very urgent problem."

This seems to represent a reversal of council thinking. In August, when congress was proposing to give Mr. Truman standby wage-price powers for which he had not asked, council chairman Leon Keyserling referred to the price movement as a "speculative flurry" which would not do undue damage.

The scope and speed of the preparedness program have mushroomed since then. Whether the council favors mandatory price and wage controls, or voluntary ones, is not known.

However, the council is known to feel definitely that ESA should be given flesh-and-blood reality promptly, so that it can begin preparing for whatever action it may find necessary.

rean divisions lined up along or near the 38th parallel will get the order they have been hoping for—drive into North Korea and smash the remnants of the routed Red invasion army. They are being held in check only by an order from their own Korean Republican high command.

Spearheads of the South Korean Third Division have reached the 38th parallel at the east coast village of Ingu.

Three other South Korean divisions rolling northward on the third's left were moving so fast they were ahead of official reports. Their advance elements probably toed the line Saturday, forming a front a little less than halfway across the country.

The South Korean Assembly, in Pusan, unanimously urged United Nations forces—including their own Republican government troops—to seek out and smash the tag-ends of the North Korean Army in North Korea.

The Korean Republic, created under United Nation auspices, always has claimed sovereignty over all Korea, as has also the Soviet-sponsored northern Red regime.

The Pusan radio said the Republican Assembly voted to a man for "absolutely eliminating obstacles to national unification and independence and the establishment of an absolutely free and independent government."

West of the massed South Korean troops, the U. S. Tenth Corps sent steel-tipped spearheads toward the 38th parallel.

U. S. Marines took off from Seoul for Uijongbu, road hub 12 miles north of the capital and 18 miles south of the Red border, marine warplanes smashed Uijongbu flat in their heaviest strike of the war.

The fliers used 1,000-pound "Tiny-Tim" rockets to crush the Red-infested town.

The road north from Uijongbu, one of the main north-south highways, leads to Chorwon, 48 miles north of Seoul, reportedly the headquarters of the North Korean Army-in-retreat.

A South Korean Army spokesman has estimated that 100,000 Communists have massed in Chorwon. But, he said, most were believed to be poorly and lightly-armed conscripts rounded up in haste.

American Intelligence officers said they had no solid information on the reported gathering. They said they had no good estimate of how many Reds still were in fighting form.

Northwest of Seoul, the U. S. 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team rambled out of Kimpo airfield to within 24 miles of the 38th parallel. They were still south of the Han River, however.

The immediate objective of the 187th was to clear Reds from the Inchon Peninsula, extending northwest of Seoul between the Han River and the Yellow Sea. They met little or no opposition and moved about seven miles in one day.

In Seoul itself the only action was the mopping up of small Red groups in the west and southwest. The old capital was officially restored as the Republic's seat of government by General MacArthur Triday, but it was in bad shape.

Its power and water systems were out of order—damaged or destroyed. Many of its streets were still choked with war debris.

But President Syngman Rhee seemed philosophical.

"Lives were saved and the people were made free," he told correspondents. "We can and we will rebuild."

Fires set by arsonists broke out in the granite-walled capitol Friday shortly after MacArthur and Rhee left the building where they led a brief liberation ceremony.

When no one made a move to put out the blazes because there was no water in the mains, the Austrian-born wife of the President took command of the situation and ordered sand thrown on the flames. The fires did no serious damage.

South of Seoul, the U. S. Seventh Division advanced 25 miles east of Suwon to Ichon, rail-highway junction and possible retreat avenue for Reds trapped in the South.

Other Seventh Division Infantry cleared out a Red pocket seven miles south of Suwon. Reds in company strength with two tanks had been reported in the area earlier.

In the huge mop-up operation farther south, the U. S. 25th division put spearheads on the outskirts of Kunsan, west coast port, after capturing the village of Kumje, five miles inland.

Two destroyers, the Canadian Athabaskan and the Australian Bataan, shelled Kusan.

The American 24th and South Korean First Division, operating in South-Central Korea, pared Red pockets around Kumchon, Yongdong and Taejon.

The British Cruiser Ceylon put a party ashore on Techong Island, within ten miles of the 38th parallel off Korea's west coast.

U. S. warships bombarded both coasts. The cruiser Toledo pounded Red territory northwest of Seoul and other units blasted Red-held points on the Ongjin Peninsula which is crossed by the 38th parallel. On the east coast, the U. S. Navy shelled Samchok and vicinity, 75 miles south of the parallel, which South Koreans forces had skirted in their drive northward.

The Chinese Red radio at Peiping sid 1,300 North Korean delegates met in the northern capital of Pyongyang Tuesday to find out how the war was going. It quoted the president of the Korean Democratic Women as telling the representatives: "partial difficulties could not prevent the heroic people from marching forward to victory."

Pyongyang radio insisted that "fierce street battles" were raging in Seoul and that "on all fronts, units of the people's army continue to wage bitter battles against American troops."

ern border in Red China or Soviet Russia.

Wars which divide a nation against itself always produce extreme bitterness which may require years to overcome. The United States apparently hopes to speed the process of reconciliation which is an essential part of unifying and stabilizing Korea.

The more quickly the job can be done—once the military campaign is ended—the better it will suit the major objectives of United States foreign policy. Korea has been a diversion from the main task of rearming western Europe even though it has greatly stimulated that work. The quicker the forces poured into Korea can be pulled back and restored to their original duties of occupying Japan or strengthening Europe, the better pleased authorities here will be.

Exactly how some of the legal and political problems of the final phase of the war are to be handled is still a question. In the matter of postwar trials, for example, if the leaders of the Communist aggression could be caught they apparently could be tried either by the South Korean government or by international tribunals organized under the United Nations.

Wednesday will honor the educational systems in democracy and the teaching of every American's investment in democracy, Chevis Sherrouse will head the committee for the day's activity.

On Thursday, "Freedom of the Press and Communication" Day, activities will be coordinated by Garland Shell and Jim Reynolds.

Phil Duncan has been named to head groups working on Friday, "Community Day."

Closing the week's campaign David Russell has been named as chairman of "Youth Day."

Throughout the week, Jaycees and other groups will conduct a Bible Quiz, similar to other competitions throughout the state, which will determine the winners of college scholarships. The grants will be awarded to one boy and one girl from the state through the cooperation of Harding College, in Searcy, Ark.

Publicity chairman for the week is Peter Garilli, Jr.

GERMAN POLICE

munist Free German Youth (F. D. J.) were grabbed at Dortmund, a steel town of 600,000 population, in a dawn raid.

Many known Communists vanished from public view through out the Ruhr, apparently to avoid the police dragnet.

At one Ruhr community, Bottrop, police confiscated stacks of Communist propaganda and discovered a copy of their secret anti-riot orders had fallen into Red hands.

In the old cathedral city of Cologne police reported they had seized Communist plans for an invasion by 10,000 young troublemakers tomorrow.

On the Soviet zone frontier, West German officials turned back several hundred young East Germans in special buses. Describing themselves as sport fans, the Easterners flourished interzonal passes issued by their Communist government but failed to argue their way across the border.

Throughout the Ruhr authorities were at the alert to guard against the Communist program of "national resistance" against the western occupation powers and the Bonn government.

About 2,000 British troops were recalled from maneuvers to stand by at Duesseldorf. About 100,000 police were mobilized.

Police halted traffic into Cologne and several other cities and inspected trucks and cars for hidden arms and Communist agitators. Riot squads, armed with pistols, rubber clubs and water guns were on duty, ready to move quickly to threatened points. Bridges were guarded.

'Whistler' Taunted Couple Receive Gifts

Paradis, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—New Orleans merchants tonight presented wedding gifts valued at $1200 to state Trooper Herbert Belsom, 26, and his pretty 18-year old bride-to-be Jackie Cadow.

The couple are to be married tomorrow afternoon at the Holy Rosary church in nearby Taft, La., 25 miles west of New Orleans.

Jackie's mother, Mrs. Clifford Cadow, reported to St. Charles parish Sheriff Leon Vial early this morth that a nocturnal "whistler" had threatened to kill her daughter if she went through with the marriage. However, Sheriff Vial characterized the story as a hoax.

"We know of no other couple in Louisiana who have had to overcome such obstacles to be married," said Ray A. Liuzza, spokesman for the New Orleans merchants.

Among the gifts was a one week all-expense paid honeymoon in Miami, Fla. the couple will leave Moisant International Airport in New Orleans tomorrow night on a free plane trip to Miami.

Among their other gifts were a silver service set, bridal flowers, champagne, wedding breakfast, wedding cake, picture album, and a lifetime recording of their marriage vows.

MAKES BROADCAST

herewith the text of a message which General Douglas MacArthur the commander-in-chief of the United Nations forces in Korea, is issuing today at 1200 Tokyo time, October 1 (10:00 p.m. eastern standard time, September 30). I request that you circulate this message to the members of the United Nations for their information."

When informed of General MacArthur's message to the North Korean commander in chief, Secretary-General Lie expressed the hope that peace and order would now soon be re-established in Korea, so that as many lives as possible could be saved.

The special report, in which the MacArthur broadcast was contained, was sent immediately during the late hours of the night to all U. N. members who have delegations in New York City, near Lake Success. The secretariat also circulated copies to the U. N. members through the regular channels.

Copies were dispatched immediately to the president of the U. N. general assembly, Nasrollah Entezam, and to the chairman of the security council, Sir Gladwyn Jebb.

There had been hints that General MacArthur would make an important broadcast to the North Koreans late tonight, Lake Success time, and delegates generally have been expecting such a message as was contained in the special message to the U. N.

It was noted that Gen. MacArthur did not specifically say he would cross the 38th parallel, which was the boundary between North and South Korea, but that he called on the North Koreans to lay down their arms in whatever part of Korea situated. This was taken in key circles here to mean that Gen. MacArthur feels he has the authority under the security council resolution of June 27 to go ahead and finish the war against the North Koreans to restore peace in that area.

The question of Korea is now being debated in the political committee of the general assembly, with eight nations backing a resolution calling for a free, independent and unified Korea.

Sir B. N. Rau, of India, one of the key delegates in the U. N., whose country has taken a keen interest in the Korean war, was informed promptly of the message.

Rau said he wanted to study the statement carefully before making any comment on it.

India has not yet spoken in the U. N. political committee's debate on the Korean rehabilitation resolution and it was known that the tenor of the MacArthur broadcast will affect his country's stand on the resolution.

B. V. Keskar, India's deputy minister of foreign affairs, is one of the members of the delegation and policy discussions were foreseen between the two, with the possibility fresh instructions may be asked of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Marines Say 'Yes' To Sale Of Letter

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30—(AP)—The marine corps league changed its mind again tonight and now says "yes" to an offered $2500—the purchase price of President Truman's letter chiding the corps.

The letter dubbed the marines as "the navy's police force" with "a propaganda machine" likeable to Stalin's. Mr. Truman apologized after marines and ex-marines exploded at home and abroad.

Yesterday, Theus, J. McQueen, national adjutant of the marine corps league, announced at headquarters here that the famous letter would be sold. He said the $2500 check would be turned over to the league for welfare and service work among marine veterans.

But last night, league commandant Maurice J. Fagan of Philadelphia, Pa., wired McQueen not to accept the $2500 under any circumstances. So McQueen announced the deal was off.

Tonight, McQueen reported he had conducted a telegraphic poll of the league's 11-member national staff. The first seven replies received voted "yes," giving a "clear majority" to approval, McQueen said. He added he has so advised Commandant Fagan.

Rep. Gordon McDonough (R.-Calif.), to whom the president wrote the letter, is en route from Los Angeles to Chicago, Ill., to close the deal, McQueen said tonight. He will be met at Chicago, McQueen added, by league officials to complete the transaction.

George T. Bullen, former national commandant, and Joseph Probst, former national publicity director, will represent the league at the Chicago meeting, McQueen said. The sale and acceptance of the check will take place "tonight or tomorrow," he added.

McQueen said he doesn not know the identity of the purchaser.

chunk out of consumer income, beginning next January 1.

The rate will remain the same as now, 1 1-2 per cent on workers and 1 1-2 per cent on their employers, but the levy will be extended to several million persons newly joining the big pension system in 1951.

Also, the rate will be charged after January 1 against the first $3,600 of annual earnings. Now it applies to only $3,000.

The increased income tax withholdings rates will, of course, hit more people sooner and harder.

Fishing Boat Nabs Sea Bass With Anchor

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 30.—(AP)— Fishermen on Skipper Jack Melroy's sports fishing boat all came in today with 15 to 20-pound sea bass—but Melroy uses a bigger hook. He came in with a 39 pound sea bass.

Melroy's hook was the boat's anchor. When he pulled the anchor up, the big bass came up with it.

The fish had a fish hook in its mouth and about 50 feet of line that once belonged to some unlucky fisherman. The line had got entwined about the anchor and snared the bass for good.

REDS MADE

up many Seoul families. A father would be arrested as a "traitor" and jailed or taken north from Seoul into a vacuum which yields no news of his whereabouts. A son would be impressed into Red army service. The family's property would be confiscated.

Such a family may never be brought together again.

The Communist conscription methods were treacherous and tricky. They reopened schools, and when students returned to classes they were told they were in the Red army.

The Reds had another trick of offering free movies. When the house was full, the doors were locked and all able bodied men in the audience were told they were in the army, then and there.

A mounting number of reports also indicate the North Koreans—people in Seoul refer to them as "the Communists" and rarely as "the Red army"—looted and stole whatever they wanted.

There seems to have been some resistance to the Reds, but usually it was of a passive nature. The Koreans are masters at this tactic which they employed for so long against the Japanese.

Young persons on hearing of the army conscription program would quietly flee the city for the countryside if able to get away.

Kimm was arrested late in ernment official who broke with the Rhee regime but did not go Red, is reported to have made one radio broadcast voluntarily against Rhee, but to have made a second radio talk only with a pistol at his back.

Kim m was arrested late in September and taken north. His property was confiscated and his house turned into a Red army dispensary.

Long lines of people who left Seoul during the Red rule are returning to the city.

Shell and flame-batter Seoul is without water, power or light facilities.

Mayor Lee Ki Bong and 32 of his specialists are on the job to cope with public health, public welfare and utilities problems.

It will be next to impossible, however, for the South Koreans alone to bring order out of chaos in this city. They have neither the money nor enough trained personnel to do so.

Forest Fires Burn Again In Beaugard

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Louisiana State Forester J. E. Mixon today reported three small fires in Beauregard parish, hard hit by timber blazes recently.

Mixon said the fresh outbreak, though small, indicates woods are drying out after rainfall which extinguished nearly a score of fires.

At nightfall, two of the fires were reported out and a third as "under control." Mixon said the state forestry commission is "doing everything possible" to reduce the number and size of woods blazes.

Eighth-Month-Old Girl Weighs 44 1-2 Pounds

Manila, Sept. 30. —(AP)— Doctors at Philippines General Hospital were carefully studying 8-months-old Adel Vito.

There appears to be nothing wrong with the little girl but she weighs 44 1-2 pounds. Her parents brought her in for a checkup.

They said she was normal size at birth and always has eaten normally but is growing so fast they are alarmed.

POORER GASOLINE APPEARS LIKELY

Special Ingredients May Be Diverted To Aviation Use

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Civilian motorists soon may be using a less powerful gasoline.

Department of interior officials this week indicate unspecified quantities of special ingredients used in processing high quality gasoline may have to be diverted to production of aviation gasoline.

Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman told the national petroleum council the armed services are threatened with a critical aviation fuel shortage.

The National Petroleum Association this week reported the armed services petroleum purchasing agency has not found suppliers for some 2,400,000 barrels of the 17,400,000 barrels of aviation gasoline the military estimates it will need by December 31.

The serious military supply situation has developed despite gasoline production having set a string of output records this year. Gasoline storage in March stood at a record 137,000,000 barrels.

There is no indication civilian motorists face gasoline rationing but department of interior officials have indicated some sort of controls may be developed to reduce octane ratings of automobile and commercial gasoline.

National crude output will take another tumble next week. A 120,000-barrel per day cutback becomes effective tomorrow in Texas.

Louisiana, however, has placed its October daily allowable at a record 611,993 barrels, 4686 above September.

PLOT IS SEEN FOR OUSTING MACARTHUR

Indianapolis, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Truman and Secretary of Defense Marshall, says Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.), "are conspiring to oust" General MacArthur from his far east command after the Nov. 7 election.

"Government circles in Washington are conscious of the bitter animosity held by President Truman and General Marshall against General Douglas MacArthur," Capehart told a Republican rally in suburban Southport last night.

Capehart, campaigning for re-election, said MacArthur has advocated supporting China's Nationalist government and "opposed the Marshall-Truman policy which delivered China to the Reds" and "brought on the Korean war."

Capehart added that General MacArthur "warned the president not to withdraw our troops from south Korea in the first place because it would take the blood of our boys to recover it if we left south Korea helpless, but that is exactly what happened."

Restrooms In Service Stations 'Near Menace'

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The American Automobile Association said today a majority of restrooms in service stations along the nation's highways are unfit for public use.

This "alarming condition," the AAA said in a report, is "a near-menace to the health of motorists and their families."

The report added that major oil companies were stressing sanitation in restrooms by making periodic inspections and threatening to disfranchise dealers who let their restrooms get filthy.

MARKETS

COTTON

New York

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The cotton futures market was weak today. Selling was general although an outstanding influence was a substantial increase in hedging pressure against heavier new crop movement.

Some of the commission house selling, dealers observed, was in anticipation of larger hedging early next week due to an accumulation of new crop cotton supplies over the week end.

A further reason for the falling prices was the slackening in demand for cotton goods as a result of the recent sharp advance in prices. A 25-point rise in the mid-September cotton parity to 31.50 cents a pound, announced by the department of agriculture late Friday, was about in line with trade expectations. At this early date interest in parity is mostly academic, traders stated, particularly with new crop futures selling well above the expected loan on the next crop.

Futures closed 50 cents to 1.90 a bale lower than the previous close.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures were under pressure from long liquidation and hedge selling here today. Closing prices were barely steady 1.40 to $2.10 a bale lower.

Continued favorable Korean war news prompted commission house profit taking and there was further liquidation of the October position.

Trade buying on a scale down absorbed the contracts.

Middling 15-16-inch spot cotton declined $1.25 a bale to 40.05 cents a pound. Local spot sales totaled 3,362 bales.

POLICY MAKERS FACE PROBLEM

Settlement Of Korean Peace Will Involve Many Headaches

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Planning for the end of the Korean war threatens almost as many headaches for the strategy and policy makers as the past three months of fighting.

The question of whether to carry the war beyond the 38th parallel, which divides North and South Korea, was only one of them although it alone had many ramifications for the military planners.

There was no definite information here on how extensively the Communists have prepared a defense line to hold in the region of the 38th parallel.

If the enemy waited until the launching of the U. N. counter-offensive two weeks ago, he hasn't had much time to build any major fixed fortifications immediately back of the 38th parallel. The Communists, however, long have had a system of pill boxes, gun positions and similar defensive positions in the area. They were built almost as soon as the Russians installed a Communist government north of the parallel, and were used as the jump-off points for the June 25 attack on the southern republic.

While the U. N. commanders now have a easonably precise idea of the number of ground troops in organized units still available to the Communists after the Red debacle in South Korea, they can not be absolutely certain about an enemy air force.

At the moment, they think there isn't any. Some intelligence reports place the total North Korean military planes at less than a dozen.

But have the Red Koreans, even in these apparent final stages of the war, continued to hope that the Soviet air force would come to their aid? Air reconnaissance within the past few days has developed that the Communists have been busy building new air field installations at some points, including their east coast port city of Wonsan and at a point near the west coast. One report indicated that construction of underground hangars was going on at one place as recently as last Wednesday. Why have the North Koreans gone ahead with air field construction if they have only a dozen planes left and with the odds of winning the war heavily against them?

Another factor to be reckoned with is persisting resistance by a Communist underground. Enemy soldiers need only to slip out of their uniforms and into the non-descript white garments of the civilian to look like all other Koreans, either north or south. Some American military chiefs have contended that the problem of wiping out underground resistance should be left entirely to the South Koreans. Their argument has been that it could be politically unwise and militarily difficult for United States troops to move in to what might be considered a domestic police situation.

A formal ending of the Korean war can revive the old but hot question of Formosa.

Late last month President Truman, in answer to a news conference question, said the U. S. 7th fleet would be withdrawn from the Formosan area when the Korean war ended. He explained that it has been there to protect the southern flank of forces in Korea. Mr. Truman, in ordering the fleet and the air force to the aid of South Korea as soon as the Communists attacked, said a collateral function of the fleet was to keep Formosa neutralized—to prevent either a Chinese Communist invasion of Formosa or the Nationalist government forces of Generalissimo Chaing Kai shek from striking at the Communist - held mainland.

Countless birds, bears and caribou were killed by the Mt. Katmai, Alaska, eruption in 1912, but no humans lived close enough to be hurt.

YARDMASTERS GET $54 PAY INCREASE

Steelman Mediates New Scale For Railroad Employes' Union

Washington, Sept. 30. —(AP)— A monthly raise of about $54 for 7,000 railroad yardmasters was announced today by the White House.

The agreement was reached between the A. F. L.'s railroad yardmasters of America and representatives of the nation's railroads with the aid of John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman.

Settlement terms are over and above the 18-cent hourly boost recommended by a presidential emergency board. In addition to that, the yardmasters get five cents an hour, for a total 23 cents increase.

The agreement, effective tomorrow, Oct. 1, calls for a three-year ban on any new union contract demands and provides for an additional penny-an-hour pay boost for every point increase in the government's cost of living index.

The agreement, similar to one negotiated by the A. F. L.'s switchmen's union on July 6, provides for a five-day week. But it stipulates the 40-hour week will be set aside for at least one year and be thereafter "subject to the desires of the employes and the manpower situation."

Thus the yardmasters, like the switchmen, will continue on a 48-hour week for the time being.

A White House statement said that President Truman approved today's settlement and congratulated both sides for their willingness to compromise their differences.

Similar terms have been rejected by the trainmen and conductors brotherhoods, whose strike threat during the summer led to government seizure and operation of the railroads since Aug. 27.

Meanwhile 16 unions representing 1,000,000 rail workers were reported getting ready to start a new wage increase drive. They have scheduled a strategy meeting here on Oct. 11.

Forest Fires Burn Again In Beaugard

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Louisiana State Forester J. E. Mixon today reported three small fires in Beauregard parish, hard hit by timber blazes recently.

Mixon said the fresh outbreak, though small, indicates woods are drying out after rainfall which extinguished nearly a score of fires.

At nightfall, two of the fires were reported out and a third as "under control." Mixon said the state forestry commission is "doing everything possible" to reduce the number and size of woods blazes.

Eighth-Month-Old Girl Weighs 44 1-2 Pounds

Manila, Sept. 30. —(AP)— Doctors at Philippines General Hospital were carefully studying 8-months-old Adel Vito.

There appears to be nothing wrong with the little girl but she weighs 44 1-2 pounds. Her parents brought her in for a checkup.

They said she was normal size at birth and always has eaten normally but is growing so fast they are alarmed.

POORER GASOLINE APPEARS LIKELY

Special Ingredients May Be Diverted To Aviation Use

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Civilian motorists soon may be using a less powerful gasoline.

Department of interior officials this week indicate unspecified quantities of special ingredients used in processing high quality gasoline may have to be diverted to production of aviation gasoline.

Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman told the national petroleum council the armed services are threatened with a critical aviation fuel shortage.

The National Petroleum Association this week reported the armed services petroleum purchasing agency has not found suppliers for some 2,400,000 barrels of the 17,400,000 barrels of aviation gasoline the military estimates it will need by December 31.

The serious military supply situation has developed despite gasoline production having set a string of output records this year. Gasoline storage in March stood at a record 137,000,000 barrels.

There is no indication civilian motorists face gasoline rationing but department of interior officials have indicated some sort of controls may be developed to reduce octane ratings of automobile and commercial gasoline.

National crude output will take another tumble next week. A 120,000-barrel per day cutback becomes effective tomorrow in Texas.

Louisiana, however, has placed its October daily allowable at a record 611,993 barrels, 4686 above September.

PLOT IS SEEN FOR OUSTING MACARTHUR

Indianapolis, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Truman and Secretary of Defense Marshall, says Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.), "are conspiring to oust" General MacArthur from his far east command after the Nov. 7 election.

"Government circles in Washington are conscious of the bitter animosity held by President Truman and General Marshall against General Douglas MacArthur," Capehart told a Republican rally in suburban Southport last night.

Capehart, campaigning for re-election, said MacArthur has advocated supporting China's Nationalist government and "opposed the Marshall-Truman policy which delivered China to the Reds" and "brought on the Korean war."

Capehart added that General MacArthur "warned the president not to withdraw our troops from south Korea in the first place because it would take the blood of our boys to recover it if we left south Korea helpless, but that is exactly what happened."

Restrooms In Service Stations 'Near Menace'

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The American Automobile Association said today a majority of restrooms in service stations along the nation's highways are unfit for public use.

This "alarming condition," the AAA said in a report, is "a near-menace to the health of motorists and their families."

The report added that major oil companies were stressing sanitation in restrooms by making periodic inspections and threatening to disfranchise dealers who let their restrooms get filthy.

COTTON

New York

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The cotton futures market was weak today. Selling was general although an outstanding influence was a substantial increase in hedging pressure against heavier new crop movement.

Some of the commission house selling, dealers observed, was in anticipation of larger hedging early next week due to an accumulation of new crop cotton supplies over the week end.

A further reason for the falling prices was the slackening in demand for cotton goods as a result of the recent sharp advance in prices. A 25-point rise in the mid-September cotton parity to 31.50 cents a pound, announced by the department of agriculture late Friday, was about in line with trade expectations. At this early date interest in parity is mostly academic, traders stated, particularly with new crop futures selling well above the expected loan on the next crop.

Futures closed 50 cents to 1.90 a bale lower than the previous close.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures were under pressure from long liquidation and hedge selling here today. Closing prices were barely steady 1.40 to $2.10 a bale lower.

Continued favorable Korean war news prompted commission house profit taking and there was further liquidation of the October position.

Trade buying on a scale down absorbed the contracts.

Middling 15-16-inch spot cotton declined $1.25 a bale to 40.05 cents a pound. Local spot sales totaled 3,362 bales.

POLICY MAKERS FACE PROBLEM

Settlement Of Korean Peace Will Involve Many Headaches

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Planning for the end of the Korean war threatens almost as many headaches for the strategy and policy makers as the past three months of fighting.

The question of whether to carry the war beyond the 38th parallel, which divides North and South Korea, was only one of them although it alone had many ramifications for the military planners.

There was no definite information here on how extensively the Communists have prepared a defense line to hold in the region of the 38th parallel.

If the enemy waited until the launching of the U. N. counter-offensive two weeks ago, he hasn't had much time to build any major fixed fortifications immediately back of the 38th parallel. The Communists, however, long have had a system of pill boxes, gun positions and similar defensive positions in the area. They were built almost as soon as the Russians installed a Communist government north of the parallel, and were used as the jump-off points for the June 25 attack on the southern republic.

While the U. N. commanders now have a easonably precise idea of the number of ground troops in organized units still available to the Communists after the Red debacle in South Korea, they can not be absolutely certain about an enemy air force.

At the moment, they think there isn't any. Some intelligence reports place the total North Korean military planes at less than a dozen.

But have the Red Koreans, even in these apparent final stages of the war, continued to hope that the Soviet air force would come to their aid? Air reconnaissance within the past few days has developed that the Communists have been busy building new air field installations at some points, including their eas' coast port city of Wonsan and at a point near the west coast. One report indicated that construction of underground hangars was going on at one place as recently as last Wednesday. Why have the North Koreans gone ahead with air field construction if they have only a dozen planes left and with the odds of winning the war heavily against them?

Another factor to be reckoned with is persisting resistance by a Communist underground. Enemy soldiers need only to slip out of their uniforms and into the nondescript white garments of the civilian to look like all other Koreans, either north or south. Some American military chiefs have contended that the problem of wiping out underground resistance should be left entirely to the South Koreans. Their argument has been that it could be politically unwise and militarily difficult for United States troops to move in to what might be considered a domestic police situation.

A formal ending of the Korean war can revive the old but hot question of Formosa.

Late last month President Truman, in answer to a news conference question, said the U. S. 7th fleet would be withdrawn from the Formosan area when the Korean war ended. He explained that it has been there to protect the southern flank of forces in Korea. Mr. Truman, in ordering the fleet and the air force to the aid of South Korea as soon as the Communists attacked, said a collateral function of the fleet was to keep Formosa neutralized—to prevent either a Chinese Communist invasion of Formosa or the Nationalist government forces of Generalissimo Chaing Kai shek from striking at the Communist - held mainland.

Countless birds, bears and caribou were killed by the Mt. Katmai, Alaska, eruption in 1912, but no humans lived close enough to be hurt.

YARDMASTERS GET $54 PAY INCREASE

Steelman Mediates New Scale For Railroad Employes' Union

Washington, Sept. 30. —(AP)— A monthly raise of about $54 for 7,000 railroad yardmasters was announced today by the White House.

The agreement was reached between the A. F. L.'s railroad yardmasters of America and representatives of the nation's railroads with the aid of John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman.

Settlement terms are over and above the 18-cent hourly boost recommended by a presidential emergency board. In addition to that, the yardmasters get five cents an hour, for a total 23 cents increase.

The agreement, effective tomorrow, Oct. 1, calls for a three-year ban on any new union contract demands and provides for an additional penny-an-hour pay boost for every point increase in the government's cost of living index.

The agreement, similar to one negotiated by the A. F. L.'s switchmen's union on July 6, provides for a five-day week. But it stipulates the 40-hour week will be set aside for at least one year and be thereafter "subject to the desires of the employes and the manpower situation."

Thus the yardmasters, like the switchmen, will continue on a 48-hour week for the time being.

A White House statement said that President Truman approved today's settlement and congratulated both sides for their willingness to compromise their differences.

Similar terms have been rejected by the trainmen and conductors brotherhoods, whose strike threat during the summer led to government seizure and operation of the railroads since Aug. 27.

Meanwhile 16 unions representing 1,000,000 rail workers were reported getting ready to start a new wage increase drive. They have scheduled a strategy meeting here on Oct. 11.

PERJURY CHARGED AGAINST WITNESS

Digiovannia Accused Of False Testimony During Kansas City Hearing

Kansas City, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Joe Digiovanni, one of the reputed leaders of the Mafia in Kansas City today was accused of giving perjured testimony before the senate crime investigating committee.

Senator KeFauver (D.-Tenn.), chairn an of the committee probing crime links here in an open hearing, told the witness he would recommend to the U. S. district attorney that he be indicted and tried on such a charge.

The committee chairman assailed testimony given by the alleged secret Sicilian society leader and wholesale liquor dealer before the committee last July and again last night at an open hearing.

Freuently Digiovanni answered questions by saying:

"I don't remember."

Digovanni denied he had ever been arrested for sending black hand extortion notes, for murder and for kidnaping.

Today, however, he admitted he had been arrested on those charges.

Kefauver, visably irritated at the witnesses attitude today, told Digiovanni that the reason he was perjuring himself was to protect his wholesale liquor permit.

Digiovanny pleaded that he had been confused last night.

"Oh no, you weren't," Kefauver said heatedly. "You are a business man who made $80.000 in one year. You know what you are doing."

"This committee does not intend to take perjured testimony," Kefauver emphasized.

Digiovanni told the committee he got his liuor distributorship in 1934 and added that he paid nothing to get it.

He said his brother, Vinson, was interested in another firm which handled another brand of liquor (Schenley).

It was for the latter brand that Wolf C. Rinmann, spot slaying victim in 1949, was seeking to obtain a partial distributorship.

Digiovanni said he knew nothing about the Rimann slaying.

Another witness as the committee prepared to finish its work here was Walter Rainey, gambler now under indictment for evasion of federal income taxes.

His attorney objected to the line of questioning, but Kefauver overruled him.

Rainey said he was interested in a number of gambling concessions at taverns and eating places in Kansas city and Jackson county.

He told the committee that he was good for "about 500 or 600 votes" and for that reason he did not have to worry about protection pay-offs.

Earlier, the committee went back today to the heydey of Tom Pendergast.

His name and activities were brought into the open hearing by James Balestrere, mentioned in previous testimony as one of the reported heads of the Mafia.

The witness, using broken English, admitted he had been in the gambling business and uring prohibition made as much as $800 to $1,000 a month selling sugar to bootleggers.

He related that once in the mid thirties, during the height of Pendergast's career, he approached the political leader for a job.

"What do you want to do, work or make a little money?" quoted Pendergast as asking him.

He said Pendergast then mentioned a gambling establishment at 39th and main in Kansas City, which was widely frequented by housewives.

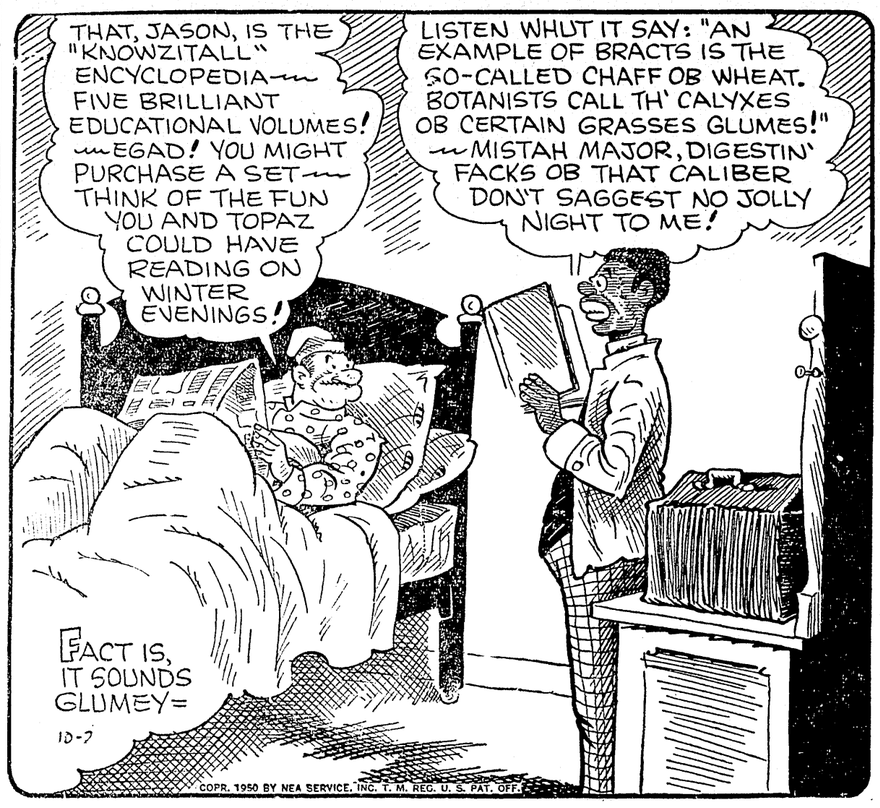
He said Pendergast put him in the game without asking for funds.

All he had to do, he related, was to visit the place once a month and pick up his share of the profits, about $200 a month.

Under questioning, Balestrere said:

"Mr. Pendergast used to do that for a lot of people around here."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE



'Our Foreign Policy' Set Forth By State Department

By Roger D. Greene

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Truman today sponsored a statement on U. S. foreign policy bluntly denouncing Soviet Russia as "a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror."

As for the United States, it warned:

"The short-term problem, in plain and brutal terms, is to survive as a free nation. . . ."

Mr. Truman said the statement —issued by the state department in the form of a 100-page booklet —was drafted "at my suggestion" to help Americans keep "well-informed about the problems that face our country."

An initial printing of 50,000 copies was ordered for distribution in this country and abroad.

Mr. Truman said in a brief foreword he suggested the policy outline to "set down as simply and clearly as possible what we are after in our relations with other governments and their peoples."

The statement emphatically rejected any idea of the United States and Russia sitting down together "to carve up the world between them"—thus scorning Moscow overtures for direct two-way negotiations outside the United Nations.

It said the idea of setting up Russian - American spheres of influence "casually disposing of the fate of other free peoples" might be "something for cartoonists to play with," but it declared:

"It is not an idea that Democratic governments and peoples can seriously consider."

Countering Soviet propaganda claims that east - west tension stems from a conflict between capitalism and communism, the state department said:

"The conflict is really between a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror and every other means, and the community of free nations which refuses to be conquered or dominated or to stand by and see its members swallowed up."

Then, turning to Russia's vast expansion since the end of World War II, the department noted that in the last five years the Soviet Union has—

1. Annexed 7,500,000 square miles of new territory.

2. Brought 500,000,000 people under Soviet control.

"It is now trying to extend its empire across Asia," the department said.

The statement said Russia has "wiped out" three nations—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania — and has "reduced to servitude" six more — Poland, Hungry, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania and Czechoslovakia.

"Soviet leaders have marked Communist China for the same fate," it said.

The booklet, entitled "Our Foreign Policy," compared the current world situation to the early wild west days in this country when "every settler had to carry arms to protect himself and his family against marauders."

"Today each nation has to arm itself, and the lone nation is often at the mercy of an unscrupulous outlaw," the department said.

America's foreign policy was described as aiming at the establishment of "an international community in which people could live in peace, under the protection of law."

The department said that task has been hindered by the threat of Russian aggression, and it declared:

"The Soviet power drive has cut across the course that we and other peace-minded people had charted for ourselves as a hurricane cuts across the path of a ship.

"It has blown us miles off our course. It has been a tragic interruption to our progress, a wasteful diversion of our energies."

Mississippi River Bridge Is Reopened

Greenville, Miss. Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Greenville-Lake Village, Ark., bridge over the Mississippi river was opened for traffic at noon today when Mayor George Archer of Greenville, removed the last barrier.

The bridge has been under repair for three months and a natural gas line was installed on the span.

Tolls remained in effect on the bridge. The bridge will be made toll free later and the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company will make annual rental payments for use of the bridge for its pipelines.

The date on which the bridge will be made toll free will be announced later. The Greenville Chamber of Commerce is planning a celebration on toll free day.

BOOK ANALYSIS OF WIDE FAME

Tech Concert Assn. Will Have Music And Talks On Its Program

Ruston, Sept. 30.—(Special)—Two attractions have already been booked by the Louisiana Tech Concert Association and negotiations are underway for several others, L. V. E. Irvine, chairman of the L. T. C. A. committee, announced.

Programs which have already been scheduled are "An Evening with Charles Laughton" and the Westminister Choir with Dr. John Finley conducting. The Houston Symphony Orchestra, with its famous conductor, Efrem Kurtz, has promised a return to Tech.

The Tech association, beginning its sixth consecutive season, is negotiating with Xavier Cugat and his Latin-American aggregation; Sigmund Romberg and his orchestra, and the Charles L. Wagner, opera company.

Also because of the crucial national problems and the tenseness of the international situation, three distinguished analysts of world problems are being considered for appearances by the L. T. C. A.

They include Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee; Cecil Brown, ace commentator of the Mutual Broadcasting system, and Bishop Bromley Oxnam, president of the world council of churches.

Kefauver, who is a Yale graduate, is one of the most promising and most discussed of American young political leaders. He is known as the "fighting senator from the south," and has made an outstanding record as a 10-year member of the House of Representatives.

Brown, newspaper columnist, radio commentator, and author of "Suez to Singapore", lectures on international problems. He served as a reporter in Rome during Italy's Facist bubble, in Yugoslavia at the time of the Nazi attack, and in Singapore. His broadcasts, covering the sinking of British warships Prince of Wales and Repulse, made journalistic history.

Lone Confederate Soldier On Sidelines During Dance

Biloxi, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A lone confederate veteran sat on the sidelines tonight while sons of other veterans and their wives danced gaily at a ball that concluded the 60th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

The sole veteran to attend was Gen. James W. Moore, 98, of Selma, Ala., the U. C. V. commander, who commented with a smile:

"Even if I can't dance I like to watch the pretty girls."

The colorful ball followed a banquet at which Lieut. Gov. Sam Lumpkin told members of the various confederate organizations meeting here that "we must oppose the attempt of the central government to array the masses against the classes."

"We do not love America if we seek to divide it into jealous groups," Lumpkin said. "The time has come for the leadership of the central government to quit pointing the finger of scorn at the people of the south and the time has come when the central government should stop making personal capital out of the passions of our fellow men.

"In the present area as in the era of the confederacy the unmistakable danger that threatens free government in America is the increasing tendency to concentrate in the federal government power and privileges which should be left with the states and to create powers that neither the state nor the federal government should have," he said.

Lumpkin said that when the people imagine that a short cut to the millenium lies in substituting governmental control and centralized authority in the place of self reliance and individual responsibility, "we are falling into the ancient, old world delusion, which for over 6,000 years has stagnated human progress."

General Moore earlier radioed congratulations to General MacArthur on his success in the Korean war and to General Marshall on his appointment as secretary of defense.

PERJURY CHARGED AGAINST WITNESS

Digiovannia Accused Of False Testimony During Kansas City Hearing

Kansas City, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Joe Digiovanni, one of the reputed leaders of the Mafia in Kansas City today was accused of giving perjured testimony before the senate crime investigating committee.

Senator KeFauver (D.-Tenn.), chairn an of the committee probing crime links here in an open hearing, told the witness he would recommend to the U. S. district attorney that he be indicted and tried on such a charge.

The committee chairman assailed testimony given by the alleged secret Sicilian society leader and wholesale liquor dealer before the committee last July and again last night at an open hearing.

Freuently Digiovanni answered questions by saying:

"I don't remember."

Digovanni denied he had ever been arrested for sending black hand extortion notes, for murder and for kidnaping.

Today, however, he admitted he had been arrested on those charges.

Kefauver, visably irritated at the witnesses attitude today, told Digiovanni that the reason he was perjuring himself was to protect his wholesale liquor permit.

Digiovanny pleaded that he had been confused last night.

"Oh no, you weren't," Kefauver said heatedly. "You are a business man who made $80,000 in one year. You know what you are doing."

"This committee does not intend to take perjured testimony," Kefauver emphasized.

Digiovanni told the committee he got his liuor distributorship in 1934 and added that he paid nothing to get it.

He said his brother, Vinson, was interested in another firm which handled another brand of liquor (Schenley).

It was for the latter brand that Wolf C. Rinmann, spot slaying victim in 1949, was seeking to obtain a partial distributorship.

Digiovanni said he knew nothing about the Rimann slaying.

Another witness as the committee prepared to finish its work here was Walter Rainey, gambler now under indictment for evasion of federal income taxes.

His attorney objected to the line of questioning, but Kefauver overruled him.

Rainey said he was interested in a number of gambling concessions at taverns and eating places in Kansas city and Jackson county.

He told the committee that he was good for "about 500 or 600 votes" and for that reason he did not have to worry about protection pay-offs.

Earlier, the committee went back today to the heydey of Tom Pendergast.

His name and activities were brought into the open hearing by James Balestrere, mentioned in previous testimony as one of the reported heads of the Mafia.

The witness, using broken English, admitted he had been in the gambling business and uring prohibition made as much as $800 to $1,000 a month selling sugar to bootleggers.

He related that once in the mid thirties, during the height of Pendergast's career, he approached the political leader for a job.

"What do you want to do, work or make a little money?" quoted Pendergast as asking him.

He said Pendergast then mentioned a gambling establishment at 39th and main in Kansas City, which was widely frequented by housewives.

He said Pendergast put him in the game without asking for funds.

All he had to do, he related, was to visit the place once a month and pick up his share of the profits, about $900 a month.

Under questioning, Balestrere said:

"Mr. Pendergast used to do that for a lot of people around here."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

'Our Foreign Policy' Set Forth By State Department

By Roger D. Greene

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Truman today sponsored a statement on U. S. foreign policy bluntly denouncing Soviet Russia as "a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror."

As for the United States, it warned:

"The short-term problem, in plain and brutal terms, is to survive as a free nation. . . ."

Mr. Truman said the statement —issued by the state department in the form of a 100-page booklet —was drafted "at my suggestion" to help Americans keep "well-informed about the problems that face our country."

An initial printing of 50,000 copies was ordered for distribution in this country and abroad.

Mr. Truman said in a brief foreword he suggested the policy outline to "set down as simply and clearly as possible what we are after in our relations with other governments and their peoples."

The statement emphatically rejected any idea of the United States and Russia sitting down together "to carve up the world between them"—thus scorning Moscow overtures for direct two-way negotiations outside the United Nations.

It said the idea of setting up Russian - American spheres of influence "casually disposing of the fate of other free peoples" might be "something for cartoonists to play with," but it declared:

"It is not an idea that Democratic governments and peoples can seriously consider."

Countering Soviet propaganda claims that east - west tension stems from a conflict between capitalism and communism, the state department said:

"The conflict is really between a power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force, terror and every other means, and the community of free nations which refuses to be conquered or dominated or to stand by and see its members swallowed up."

Then, turning to Russia's vast expansion since the end of World War II, the department noted that in the last five years the Soviet Union has—

1. Annexed 7,500,000 square miles of new territory.

2. Brought 500,000,000 people under Soviet control.

"It is now trying to extend its empire across Asia," the department said.

The statement said Russia has "wiped out" three nations—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania — and has "reduced to servitude" six more — Poland, Hungry, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania and Czechoslovakia.

"Soviet leaders have marked Communist China for the same fate," it said.

The booklet, entitled "Our Foreign Policy," compared the current world situation to the early wild west days in this country when "every settler had to carry arms to protect himself and his family against marauders."

"Today each nation has to arm itself, and the lone nation is often at the mercy of an unscrupulous outlaw," the department said.

America's foreign policy was described as aiming at the establishment of "an international community in which people could live in peace, under the protection of law."

The department said that task has been hindered by the threat of Russian aggression, and it declared:

"The Soviet power drive has cut across the course that we and other peace-minded people had charted for ourselves as a hurricane cuts across the path of a ship.

"It has blown us miles off our course. It has been a tragic interruption to our progress, a wasteful diversion of our energies."

Mississippi River Bridge Is Reopened

Greenville, Miss. Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Greenville-Lake Village, Ark., bridge over the Mississippi river was opened for traffic at noon today when Mayor George Archer of Greenville, removed the last barrier.

The bridge has been under repair for three months and a natural gas line was installed on the span.

Tolls remained in effect on the bridge. The bridge will be made toll free later and the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company will make annual rental payments for use of the bridge for its pipelines.

The date on which the bridge will be made toll free will be announced later. The Greenville Chamber of Commerce is planning a celebration on toll free day.

BOOK ANALYSIS OF WIDE FAME

Tech Concert Assn. Will Have Music And Talks On Its Program

Ruston, Sept. 30.—(Special)—Two attractions have already been booked by the Louisiana Tech Concert Association and negotiations are underway for several others, L. V. E. Irvine, chairman of the L. T. C. A. committee, announced.

Programs which have already been scheduled are "An Evening with Charles Laughton" and the Westminister Choir with Dr. John Finley conducting. The Houston Symphony Orchestra, with its famous conductor, Efrem Kurtz, has promised a return to Tech.

The Tech association, beginning its sixth consecutive season, is negotiating with Xavier Cugat and his Latin-American aggregation; Sigmund Romberg and his orchestra, and the Charles L. Wagner, opera company.

Also because of the crucial national problems and the tenseness of the international situation, three distinguished analysts of world problems are being considered for appearances by the L. T. C. A.

They include Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee; Cecil Brown, ace commentator of the Mutual Broadcasting system, and Bishop Bromley Oxnam, president of the world council of churches.

Kefauver, who is a Yale graduate, is one of the most promising and most discussed of American young political leaders. He is known as the "fighting senator from the south," and has made an outstanding record as a 10-year member of the House of Representatives.

Brown, newspaper columnist, radio commentator, and author of "Suez to Singapore", lectures on international problems. He served as a reporter in Rome during Italy's Facist bubble, in Yugoslavia at the time of the Nazi attack, and in Singapore. His broadcasts, covering the sinking of British warships Prince of Wales and Repulse, made journalistic history.

Lone Confederate Soldier On Sidelines During Dance

Biloxi, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A lone confederate veteran sat on the sidelines tonight while sons of other veterans and their wives danced gaily at a ball that concluded the 60th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

The sole veteran to attend was Gen. James W. Moore, 98, of Selma, Ala., the U. C. V. commander, who commented with a smile:

"Even if I can't dance I like to watch the pretty girls."

The colorful ball followed a banquet at which Lieut. Gov. Sam Lumpkin told members of the various confederate organizations meeting here that "we must oppose the attempt of the central government to array the masses against the classes."

"We do not love America if we seek to divide it into jealous groups," Lumpkin said. "The time has come for the leadership of the central government to quit pointing the finger of scorn at the people of the south and the time has come when the central government should stop making personal capital out of the passions of our fellow men.

"In the present area as in the era of the confederacy the unmistakable danger that threatens free government in America is the increasing tendency to concentrate in the federal government power and privileges which should be left with the states and to create powers that neither the state nor the federal government should have," he said.

Lumpkin said that when the people imagine that a short cut to the millenium lies in substituting governmental control and centralized authority in the place of self reliance and individual responsibility, "we are falling into the ancient, old world delusion, which for over 6,000 years has stagnated human progress."

General Moore earlier radioed congratulations to General MacArthur on his success in the Korean war and to General Marshall on his appointment as secretary of defense.

Judge Pays Fine For Traffic Law Violator

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A man who came in to complain about getting a traffic ticket caught police magistrate I. M. Oseth busy day.

"To save time," quoth the court, "here's a dollar to pay.. your fine."

The defendant forthwith used it as directed and left.

ISRAEL CUTS DOWN ON COPS

Tel Aviv, Israel—(AP)—Two hundred of the 3,304 policemen in Israeli cities, towns and villages have lost their jobs. Their dismissal was attributed to "budgetary considerations."

FLYING SAUCERS DECLARED REAL

'My Weekly Reader' Newspaper Has Article Asserting It's True

By Art Parks

Columbus, O., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Fifth grade school children the world over—if they learned their lessons last week—now know there are such things as flying saucers.

They know because their "newspaper" told them so.

Their newspaper is "My Weekly Reader," published by the American Education Press of Columbus, one of the oldest educational publishing houses in the United States. It is required reading in many schools.

The newspaper goes to schools in every state and 55 foreign countries. Just how many, the company won't say.

"My Weekly Reader" for the Sept. 18-22 week, carried an article by "Tom Trott," a frankly fictitious character, on flying saucers.

"Tom Trott" told his youthful readers:

"This week, we are at an airport on the Atlantic coast. The most exciting thing we have seen is 'flying saucers.'

"For several years, people in many parts of our country have claimed to have seen flying saucers. The government proved that some of these people were imagining things. However, I am now allowed to tell you that some flying saucers are real. They belong to our air force. They will some day be a big help to our country."

("Tom Trott" and other writers to the contrary, the air force has said and repeated: "We have investigated all reports of flying saucers and find nothing to substantiate any of them.")

Why, then, did the publishing house—which has a 50-year tradition of responsibility to the youngsters it serves—publish such a story?

Says Miss Eleanor M. Johnson, managing editor of elementary school publications:

"The staff is convinced that flying saucers most certainly are among this nation's experimental aircraft, and

"Our correspondent had one idea in mind and that thought was to calm any hysterical fears some children might have built up from hearing too much talk about mysterious flying objects from other planets or deadly flying weapons of our enemies."

The American Education Press has received a number of letters from youngsters indicating a "wide spread hysteria" among youngsters about "tiny, big-headed men from Venus" riding to earth in outlandish contraptions, Miss Johnson explained.

"We are in sympathy with "Mr. Trott's' motive to overcome a deluge of humbuggery afloat in our land which is calculated to exploit superstition and ignorance," Miss Johnson added.

Here are some other things "Trott's" article told the fifth graders about flying saucers:

"Flying saucers are made in several sizes. The smallest ones are six inches thick. The big ones are about as far across as the width of four or five city lots.

"Some of the saucers are raised up in the middle like a pie. Others turn up around the edge like a saucer. They leave no trail of light or smoke. They make no sound. They are harmless.

"These strange flying things are made of material which dissolved after being in the air for a while. For this reason, the saucers disappear soon after they hit the ground. You probably will never find one. But if you do, you will find these words on it in black letters:

"Military secret of the United States of America air forces. Anyone damaging or revealing description or whereabouts of this missile is subject to prosecution by the United States government."

Miss Johnson says her staff's belief in flying saucers is based, in part, on a number of "similar reports on the socalled saucers printed in various periodicals over the last six months."

Ten Year Club Holds Fall Meet

The Ten Year Home Demonstration Club had a meeting September 28 in the Agriculture Building. Mrs. Euna Spielman gave a talk urging all to take an active part in observing United Nations Day October 24. Plans were made to order a kit with instructions and patterns to make a United Nations flag. When the kit is received, the club members will gather at the Agriculture Building to make the flag.

A Christmas party was planned to be held jointly with the Twenty-Five Year Club on December 14, at 10:00 o'clock in the Agriculture Building. Those attending are asked to bring a gift, not over fifty cents, and a covered dish. Sardis Home Demonstration Club will be hostess and Mrs. Spielman will have charge of the program.

The objects and constitution of the Ten Year Club were read by the president Mrs. G. E. Rutledge. Members who have been in the 4-H Club and a Home Demonstration Club combined for as long as 10 years are eligible for membership in the Ten Year Club if they have been active club members for that length of time.

Men In Catahoula Called By Board

Jonesville, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Thirty-five Catahoula parish men this week received notices from the selective service board to report for pre-induction physical examination.

The group, which includes 19 white men and 16 Negroes, is ordered to report on October 9 in Alexandria.

All but two in the group of 35 were born in 1929 and are 21 years or nearing that age.

FLYING SAUCERS DECLARED REAL

'My Weekly Reader' Newspaper Has Article Asserting It's True

By Art Parks

Columbus, O., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Fifth grade school children the world over—if they learned their lessons last week—now know there are such things as flying saucers.

They know because their "newspaper" told them so.

Their newspaper is "My Weekly Reader," published by the American Education Press of Columbus, one of the oldest educational publishing houses in the United States. It is required reading in many schools.

The newspaper goes to schools in every state and 55 foreign countries. Just how many, the company won't say.

"My Weekly Reader" for the Sept. 18-22 week, carried an article by "Tom Trott," a frankly fictitious character, on flying saucers.

"Tom Trott" told his youthful readers:

"This week, we are at an airport on the Atlantic coast. The most exciting thing we have seen is 'flying saucers.'

"For several years, people in many parts of our country have claimed to have seen flying saucers. The government proved that some of these people were imagining things. However, I am now allowed to tell you that some flying saucers are real. They belong to our air force. They will some day be a big help to our country."

("Tom Trott" and other writers to the contrary, the air force has said and repeated: "We have investigated all reports of flying saucers and find nothing to substantiate any of them.")

Why, then, did the publishing house—which has a 50-year tradition of responsibility to the youngsters it serves—publish such a story?

Says Miss Eleanor M. Johnson, managing editor of elementary school publications:

"The staff is convinced that flying saucers most certainly are among this nation's experimental aircraft, and

"Our correspondent had one idea in mind and that thought was to calm any hysterical fears some children might have built up from hearing too much talk about mysterious flying objects from other planets or deadly flying weapons of our enemies."

The American Education Press has received a number of letters from youngsters indicating a "wide spread hysteria" among youngsters about "tiny, big-headed men from Venus" riding to earth in outlandish contraptions, Miss Johnson explained.

"We are in sympathy with "Mr. Trott's' motive to overcome a deluge of humbuggery afloat in our land which is calculated to exploit superstition and ignorance," Miss Johnson added.

Here are some other things "Trott's" article told the fifth graders about flying saucers:

"Flying saucers are made in several sizes. The smallest ones are six inches thick. The big ones are about as far across as the width of four or five city lots.

"Some of the saucers are raised up in the middle like a pie. Others turn up around the edge like a saucer. They leave no trail of light or smoke. They make no sound. They are harmless.

"These strange flying things are made of material which dissolved after being in the air for a while. For this reason, the saucers disappear soon after they hit the ground. You probably will never find one. But if you do, you will find these words on it in black letters:

"Military secret of the United States of America air forces. Anyone damaging or revealing description or whereabouts of this missile is subject to prosecution by the United States government."

Miss Johnson says her staff's belief in flying saucers is based, in part, on a number of "similar reports on the socalled saucers printed in various periodicals over the last six months."

Ten Year Club Holds Fall Meet

The Ten Year Home Demonstration Club had a meeting September 28 in the Agriculture Building. Mrs. Euna Spielman gave a talk urging all to take an active part in observing United Nations Day October 24. Plans were made to order a kit with instructions and patterns to make a United Nations flag. When the kit is received, the club members will gather at the Agriculture Building to make the flag.

A Christmas party was planned to be held jointly with the Twenty-Five Year Club on December 14, at 10:00 o'clock in the Agriculture Building. Those attending are asked to bring a gift, not over fifty cents, and a covered dish. Sardis Home Demonstration Club will be hostess and Mrs. Spielman will have charge of the program.

The objects and constitution of the Ten Year Club were read by the president Mrs. G. E. Rutledge. Members who have been in the 4-H Club and a Home Demonstration Club combined for as long as 10 years are eligible for membership in the Ten Year Club if they have been active club members for that length of time.

Men In Catahoula Called By Board

Jonesville, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Thirty-five Catahoula parish men this week received notices from the selective service board to report for pre-induction physical examination.

The group, which includes 19 white men and 16 Negroes, is ordered to report on October 9 in Alexandria.

All but two in the group of 35 were born in 1929 and are 21 years or nearing that age.

Guerriero-Crenshaw Wedding Vows Said At St. Matthew's Catholic Church

Beautiful Reception At Home Of Bride's Parents Follows Impressive Ceremony

St. Matthew's Catholic Church was bathed in the light of the late afternoon when Miss Mary Louise Guerriero and Mr. Frederick Earl Crenshaw exchanged their wedding vows in an impressive double-ring ceremony.

The mellow glow of cathedral tapers and white chrysanthemums, which decorated the sanctuary, enhanced the beauty of the setting of the five o'clock service on Saturday, September 16.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pasquale Guerriero, Jr., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crenshaw.

Officiating at the ceremony was Father Marvin Bordelon, who was assisted in the service by twin brothers, Frank and Sam Jungina.

Mrs. Sanders Sings

As pre-nuptial music, Mrs. Clyde V. Sanders sang "Ave Maria," and she also rendered "Panis Angelicus" during the signing of the register. She was accompanied by Mrs. Alma Woodham, who played the traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn.

Miss Katharine Guerriero, her sister's maid of honor, was lovely in an American beauty satin gown. The long basque, featuring a scalloped lace and marquisette yoke, was joined to a full skirt. She wore long satin gloves of matching hue that ended in points over the wrist.

Mrs. Charles Guerriero, III, of New Orleans, sister-in-law of the bride, served as her matron of honor. Her dress was of the same shade and design of the gown worn by Miss Guerriero.

The bridesmaids, Miss Sara Ellen Bruno and Miss Elsie Pipes, were wearing peacock blue satin fashioned along identical lines as those of the other attendants' gowns. All wore charming close fitting caps made of satin and maruisette in shades which matched their dresses. They carried white asters fringed in orchid and tied with shimmering green satin ribbon.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Mr. Roy Hicks. The ushers comprised Messrs. Ronald Lee Davis, Jr., Courtney Oliver and Stanley Richards.

Bride Wears Lace Gown

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite gown of imported white chantilly lace over satin. The closely fitting bodice featured a mandarin collar and small lace covered buttons that ran the front length of the waist. The long, tight sleeves ended in soft pleats over the wrist. The skirt, falling in graceful folds, ended in a court train.

She wore a finger tip veil of illusion which fell from a cap of white satin and lace encrusted in pearls. Her flowers were a beautiful arrangement of gardenias against dainty English ivy. For something old, the bride wore her broach and she carried a handkerchief which belonged to Mrs. Cecile Renaud. It had been brought from Spain to be used on her wedding day.

Mrs. Guerriero, the bride's mother, chose for her daughter's marriage an aqua chantilly lace dress. The neckline of the bodice was encircled with a tier of soft pleats. The skirt was designed with a yoke from which the lace fell in becoming fullness. She wore a black picture hat and black suede gloves with quarter-length sleeves.

Mrs. Crenshaw, the bridegroom's mother, was attractive in biege lace. The bodice was styled with a low neckline, an inset of rich brown velvet and capped sleeves. A bow of brown velvet gave an added pretty effect. The skrit was full, and her small brown hat matched the shade of her long gloves. Both wore corsages of talisman roses.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. F. J. Mundo, Sr., was lovely in a gown of black rose crepe and small matching velour hat. She wore an orchid and long black gloves.

Reception Follows Service

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The reception suite was decorated with artistic arrangements of varied blossoms. An unusually pretty display of tuberoses and red roses was used on the mantel.

In the dining room double white althea, white rose of Montana and tuberoses were employed in graceful effects on the buffet, which also held three tall candles in silver holders.

The bride's table was overlaid with a handsome Persian cloth of white. Delicate tints of blue were used in the border which was edged in embroidery. Forming the centerpiece was the wedding cake, a confection of entwined hearts. It was decorated with roses, tied with a white satin bow, and embossed in valley lilies. It rested on frills of white net interspersed with sprigs of tuberoses, small crysanthemums and maiden hair fern. At either end of the table three candles in silver holders stood on white satin bows, surrounded by blossoms and fern. Serving the wedding cake were Mrs. Stanley Hodges and Mrs. B. W. Morrison, aunts of the bride.

Silver trays containing individual cakes and mints embossed in valley lilies were passed among the guests. The punch table was covered with a handmade lace cloth. The base of the bowl was encircled with tuberoses, small white crysanthemums and fern. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. John Lee Kincaid of Winnsboro and Miss Jane Marie Renaud. The former was wearing a white taffeta dress and the latter was charming in a light blue brocaded dress.

Assisting in serving were Misses Jessie Louise Mundo, Marion Louise Guerriero and Polly Jean Phelps. Miss Mundo wore a frock of soft blue marquisette, while Miss Guerriero chose an aqua shade of this material for her dress. Miss Phelps wore a white marquisette with rose and gold trimming at the top of the bodice.

Miss Pat Guerriero, who presided at the guest book, was gowned in delicate blue net. She, along with those who assisted in extending courtesies in the dining room, wore orchid fringed white asters in their hair.

A pretty feature was the tossing of the bridal bouquet. The lucky girl catching it was Miss Ninon Tanguie.

For her going away costume, Mrs. Crenshaw chose a smart English tweed tailleur with a tangerine silk blouse. Her small off-the-face hat was of gray velour with a black velvet band. She wore a green orchid and gloves that matched her hat.

After a honeymoon on the gulf coast, the couple are at home at 202 Downey Lane.

Mrs. Crenshaw is a graduate of Neville High School and Northeast Junior College. She was cheerleader and a member of the Tigerettes in high school. At the college she held membership in the Women's Recreation Association, Wig and Mask Club, Delta Psi Omega, national dramatic honor society, and she was president of the Purple Jackets. Her photograph appared in the beauty section of the yearbook and the college newspaper as one of the "Big Shots" elected annually by students. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Lambda Sigma Chi sororities.

Mr. Crenshaw attended Wichita Falls (Texas) High School, where he was a member of Delta fraternity and the band. He also matriculated at New Mexico Milit Institute, Roswell, N. Mex., later he entered Harding Colle Wichita Falls. He received B. S. degree at Millsaps Colle Jackson, Miss., where he was honor student.

Out-of-town guests who atten the wedding included: Mr. Mrs. F. J. Mundo, Jr., and dau ter, essie Louise, of Lake Charl Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Gu riero, III of New Orleans; M Frank Ossenberg and Mrs. Fr Delker, both of Henderson, Ky.

The closely fitting bodice featured a mandarin collar and small lace covered buttons that ran the front length of the waist. The long, tight sleeves ended in soft pleats over the wrist. The skirt, falling in graceful folds, ended in a court train.

She wore a finger tip veil of illusion which fell from a cap of white satin and lace encrusted in pearls. Her flowers were a beautiful arrangement of gardenias against dainty English ivy. For something old, the bride wore her broach and she carried a handkerchief which belonged to Mrs. Cecile Renaud. It had been brought from Spain to be used on her wedding day.

Mrs. Guerriero, the bride's mother, chose for her daughter's marriage an aqua chantilly lace dress. The neckline of the bodice was encircled with a tier of soft pleats. The skirt was designed with a yoke from which the lace fell in becoming fullness. She wore a black picture hat and black suede gloves with quarter-length sleeves.

Mrs. Crenshaw, the bridegroom's mother, was attractive in biege lace. The bodice was styled with a low neckline, an inset of rich brown velvet and capped sleeves. A bow of brown velvet gave an added pretty effect. The skrit was full, and her small brown hat matched the shade of her long gloves. Both wore corsages of talisman roses.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. F. J. Mundo, Sr., was lovely in a gown of black rose crepe and small matching velour hat. She wore an orchid and long black gloves.

Reception Follows Service

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The reception suite was decorated with artistic arrangements of varied blossoms. An unusually pretty display of tuberoses and red roses was used on the mantel.

In the dining room double white althea, white rose of Montana and tuberoses were employed in graceful effects on the buffet, which also held three tall candles in silver holders.

The bride's table was overlaid with a handsome Persian cloth of white. Delicate tints of blue were used in the border which was edged in embroidery. Forming the centerpiece was the wedding cake, a confection of entwined hearts. It was decorated with roses, tied with a white satin bow, and embossed in valley lilies. It rested on frills of white net interspersed with sprigs of tuberoses, small crysanthemums and maiden hair fern. At either end of the table three candles in silver holders stood on white satin bows, surrounded by blossoms and fern. Serving the wedding cake were Mrs. Stanley Hodges and Mrs. B. W. Morrison, aunts of the bride.

Silver trays containing individual cakes and mints embossed in valley lilies were passed among the guests. The punch table was covered with a handmade lace cloth. The base of the bowl was encircled with tuberoses, small white crysanthemums and fern. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. John Lee Kincaid of Winnsboro and Miss Jane Marie Renaud. The former was wearing a white taffeta dress and the latter was charming in a light blue brocaded dress.

Assisting in serving were Misses Jessie Louise Mundo, Marion Louise Guerriero and Polly Jean Phelps. Miss Mundo wore a frock of soft blue marquisette, while Miss Guerriero chose an aqua shade of this material for her dress. Miss Phelps wore a white marquisette with rose and gold trimming at the top of the bodice.

Miss Pat Guerriero, who presided at the guest book, was gowned in delicate blue net. She, along with those who assisted in extending courtesies in the dining room, wore orchid fringed white asters in their hair.

A pretty feature was the tossing of the bridal bouquet. The lucky girl catching it was Miss Ninon Tanguie.

For her going away costume, Mrs. Crenshaw chose a smart English tweed tailleur with a tangerine silk blouse. Her small off-the-face hat was of gray velour with a black velvet band. She wore a green orchid and gloves that matched her hat.

After a honeymoon on the gulf coast, the couple are at home at 202 Downey Lane.

Mrs. Crenshaw is a graduate of Neville High School and Northeast Junior College. She was cheerleader and a member of the Tigerettes in high school. At the college she held membership in the Women's Recreation Association, Wig and Mask Club, Delta Psi Omega, national dramatic honor society, and she was president of the Purple Jackets. Her photograph appared in the beauty section of the yearbook and the college newspaper as one of the "Big Shots" elected annually by students. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Lambda Sigma Chi sororities.

Mr. Crenshaw attended Wichita Falls (Texas) High School, where he was a member of Delta fraternity and the band. He also matriculated at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, N. Mex., then later he entered Harding College, Wichita Falls. He received the B. S. degree at Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., where he was an honor student.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Mundo, Jr., and daughter, essie Louise, of Lake Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Guerriero, III of New Orleans; Mrs. Frank Ossenberg and Mrs. Frank Delker, both of Henderson, Ky.

DELTA RHO DELTA SORORITY PLANS BENEFIT 'SQUARE DANCE'

Members of the local chapter of Delta Rho Delta National Business and Professional Women's Sorority are completing arrangements for their yearly project to raise money for their many social service activities and works of charity to under privileged in this community during the year. This year they have borrowed an idea from the west and are having a gigantic "square dance," the entire proceeds of which will go to the Girls' work in the community. The "Texas Star" and "Dive for the Oyster" are two of the very popular squares in Texas and Colorado, and in the same manner the members of the Delta Rho Delta, with the cooperation of the people of the Twin-Cities, plan to bring these two popular squares as well as others to the people who attend this benefit affair. Everyone is asked to bring a square. Mrs. Tom Jett, as well as other guest callers will call the dances which will be held at 1300 Louisville Avenue on Wednesday evening, October 11 from 8:00 to 11:00 p.m. Music will be furnished by a real "Square Dance Band" from Winfield.

There will be a concession stand where cold drinks and hot dogs will be available. There will also be a gala floor show. All kinds of entertainment will be found and a grand time is anticipated for all, dancers and spectators alike.

The entire membership of Sigma chapter will be working to make this dance one of the outstanding affairs of the season. Committees and chairman of this project are: General finance chairman, Miss Ann Mickel, and co-chairman, Miss Lillian Glenn; concession chairman, Mrs. W. J. Fields assisted by Miss Marianne Ashford, Miss Johnnie Floyd, Miss Mary Elizabeth Stringer, Mrs. Coralee Adams, Mrs. Bertha Patterson and Miss An nAdams, program chairman, Mrs. Tom Jett assisted by Miss Mary Riser and Miss Teresa Thomisee; chairman of tickets, Mrs. Ruby Warner assisted by Miss Bernice McCrary; chairman of supplies, Mrs. Weldon Bates assisted by Mrs. George Butler, Miss Dorothy Horton, Mrs. Cascille Golson, and Miss Sara Guy; publicity, radio chairman, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Taylor assisted by Miss Betty Richardson; newspaper chairman, Mrs. Jean Boyce assisted by Miss Lillian Glenn; promotion chairman, Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick assisted by Mrs. Shirley Travis, Miss Wilma Smith, Miss Betty Waddell, Mrs. Ammon Robinson and Miss Margaret Nell Compton; sales personnel, chairman, Miss Freedo Michel assisted by Miss Marjorie Ewing.

Advance tickets are on sale at the Rancher and DeSiard street or reservations may be made by phoning 9662 or any member of the sorority.

'GO TO CHURCH' IS BEING URGED

Today Marks Third Sunday In Campaign For Ouachita Parish

Today marks the third Sunday in the "go to church" campaign and all pastors and all service clubs in Ouachita parish are solidly behind the movement.

The project is not to boost any special church or denomination, but it is to urge that one attend the church of his choice. We are fortunate in this country to be able to attend church, to carry on religious programs, and to seek for the betterment of humanity. All this is severely penalized in Communistic countries. We want nothing of the kind here.

On Monday morning, returns will be received by Rev. A. T. Mitchell, pastor of the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, as the number attending the various churches Sunday. These will be published in the News-Star on Monday afternoon. Last Sunday showed a decided gain over the figures of the previous Sunday, and more still are expected to be in church today.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Dr. Leland Crabb of Nashville has many friends and admirers in this area who have read his books with great interest. His latest novel is called "Reunion at Chattanooga" and should be most interesting. Books with a Louisiana setting are always popular "Daughter of Strangers" by Elizabeth Boatwright Coker is a new title which has made all the other ones popular. "King Mountain" by Florette Henri is a new historical novel with a setting at the time of the American Revolution and the Battle of Kings Mountain. There is an interesting love story and a tantalizing mystery in the story which will attract many readers.

"In a Harbour Green" by Benedict Kiely is a well-written novel with an Irish setting. It will not appeal to all readers but it is extremely well done. "The Deepening Year" by Mabel Louise Robinson is a story which will appeal particularly to women readers. It deals with the experiences of a woman during one particular year of her life. Don Wickendon who has written several excellent novels, especially "Tobias Brandywine" has a new one which he calls "The Dry Season." In this story we find a group of expatriates seeking to find new lives for themselves in Guatemala. It gives a nexcellent picture of the country. One of the most readable stories to appear in months is "The Edge of Time" by Louele Grace Erdman. This story is laid in the Texas panhandle during the last part of the 19th century, when the country was being opeend up to settlement by the homesteaders. It is beautifully written by a writer who knows and loves the people of that country. This is a book that is pleasant to read and is the type that will not soon be forgotten.

"The River and the Empty Sea" by Louis Vaczak is a powerful historical novel of exceptional sweep and depth. It is the story of Paul Denys who lived in Quebec in 1671. It is an excellent combination of popular subject matter and mature perception written in facile prose. "Ring in the new" is a simple family story with an Ohio town for the set nit g. Teheltims the year 1900. It is quite authentic in all its details and will appeal to many readers.

"Professor Fodorski" by Robert Louis Taylor is an extremely funny satire on a football game. Everyone who likes football should be interested in this book. "Champion road" by Frank Tilsley is a novel with an English background. This is a hearty story of a man of many ambitions and enterprises which has a holding quality.

Ernest Hemingway, who is probably considered the outstanding modern Amercian author has not written a novel since 1940, when "For Whom the Bell Tolls" appeared. He has just released his latest work "Across the River and Into the Trees." The title is taken from the immortal words of Stonewall Jackson after the battle of Chancelorsville. The hero of Mr. Hemingway's new book is a soldier. This is one of the most beautiful examples of whiting that has appeared in a long time. It is a sad story, but one that every discriminating person will want to read.

"The Home Place" by Fred Gipson will appeal to all readers who liked his success of last year, "The Hound Dog Man." The new book is simply written and deals with simple honest people. Mika Waltari, author of the best seller, "The Egyptian" has another new book of fiction which he calls "The Adventurer". This story has for its background almost all of 16th century Europe. The character plays many parts in many countries. It is not as convincing book as "The Egyptian" but will probably be very popular.'

One reviewer suggested that modern authors should pay the Duponts for the extensive use that has been made of their family as a background for novels. The latest one of this type is "The Barons" by Charles Wertenbaker. It reminds one very much of the books by Taylor Caldwell, written on this same theme.

All of the books mentioned may be borrowed from the Ouachita Parish Public Library. These are only a few of the new books which have been received in recent weeks.

News From The Civic Music Club

By Helen V. Agnew

There is much excitement among the officers and directors of the Monroe Civic Music Association. Paul Hewitt, president, promises to give us the whole story in a few days, as soon as details can be completed. But just to hint, I've been hearing rumors of the possibility of securing an opera. Glory be, Monroe will really be moving to the front if that deal can be closed.

And speaking of Paul Hewitt, he's been doing quite a bit of speaking himself. Already this week he has carried news of Civic Music to the Toastmasters Club and to the Jaycees. He's not alone on the speaking roster however. John Cale made a most interesting talk on civic music to the Business and Professional Women's Club this past week. It is hoped before this next week is over every man woman and child in Monroe and West Monroe will be aware of the splendid opportunities which Civic Music offers.

Have you noticed the articles recently appearing in the papers about the annual state music clinic at Ruston November 18-22 and the LEA convention which will be held in Monroe will be the 100-piece all-state band ,which will be conducted by that distinguished southern music educator, Ottokar Cadek, professor of music at the University of Alabama, and associate conductor for the Birmingham Civic Symphony. The idea of an all-state band is a recent development, music-wise, and another bit of evidence of the increased interest in music which is sweeping the south-land. With all modesty, Civic Music feels it has played a part in this awakening, and is grateful to have had the opportunity of bringing more and better music to more and more people through the years.

TAKE WEDDING VOWS

Miss Carmen Siles Aquilera and Ward Reneau Griffing, Jr. as they take their marrige vows in an old Spanish church in Mexico City September 9. Miss Aquilera is the daughter of Mrs. Maria Christiana Aquilera DeSiles of Mexico City. Mr. Griffing is a former resident of Gilbert.

MISS CARMEN AQUILERA WEDS WARD GRIFFING, JR. IN SPANISH SETTING

A wedding of interest in this section was that of Ward Reneau Griffing, Jr. and Miss Carmen Siles Auilera of Mexico City which took place September 9 in that city.

Mrs. Griffing is a graduate of Gilbert High School and Northeast Junior College. He received his degree at Mexico City College the latter part of August.

Miss Quilera is the daughter of Mrs. Maria Christiana Auilera DeSiles of Mexico City, where she has lived and attended school since she was eight years of age.

The rites were performed in an old historic church amidst a Spanish setting. Beautiful Mexican flowers adorned the pews and ten musicians played the nuptial music.

Following the wedding a reception was held consisting of a seven course meal to which two hundred guests received invitations. After the dinner the orchestra played for a dance.

The couple left immediately for a short wedding trip out of Mexico City.

At its peak the Portuguese empire included territories in Brazil, East and West Africa, Malabar, Ceylon, India, Persia, Indo-China and Malaya.

READER'S CLIQUE MEETS IN HOME OF MRS. LOUIS PETERS

Members of the Reader's Clique met in the home of Mrs. Lewis Peters Thursday afternoon, and enjoyed an interesting musical program.

Mrs. Walter Ryland, president of the club, called the meeting to order with the reading of the club collect in unison, and presided over a short business meeting.

Mrs. Raymond John, program chairman, introduced the guest artists, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., and Mrs. Richard Whitehurst, who rendered a very interesting and entertaining program on the works of Robert MacGimsey, a native of Louisiana.

In describing the life and works of Robert MacGimsey, Mrs. Trousdale said: "As a child in Louisiana young Robert Hunter MacGimsey, was a boy soprano in a local church. His talents included whistling in chords, playing the piano and other instruments by ear. National recognition came to him by way of radio—where he whistled classics in two and three part harmony. John Charles Thomas heard MacGimsey play his composition "Shadrack"—took the manuscript—had it published and used it and many other of his works in concert. MacGimsey seems to best use the medium of spirituals and "move" or rhythm songs."

Mrs. Trousdale, in her usual gracious manner, rendered several vocal solos—"Trouble", "and the Whale", and "Sweet Jesus Boy", and was very accompanied by Mrs. White who also rendered a del piano solo, "Shadrack".

Members and guests p were: Mrs. Raymond John, Ray Updegraff, Mrs. B. J. L Mrs. Walter Ryland, Mrs. Lowery, Mrs. Evans Eth Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. Harbuck, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Henry Menuet, Mrs. Burl Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. Olcott, Mrs. Lewis Peters, Ivy Jordan, Mrs. G. L. M Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Tdiwell, Mrs. H. W. McClary Clay Wilson, Mrs. Briscoe dale, Jr., Mrs. Richard White and Mrs. Joe Bennett of Ja Miss.

He's not alone on the speaking roster however. John Cale made a most interesting talk on civic music to the Business and Professional Women's Club this past week. It is hoped before this next week is over every man woman and child in Monroe and West Monroe will be aware of the splendid opportunities which Civic Music offers.

Have you noticed the articles recently appearing in the papers about the annual state music clinic at Ruston November 18-22 and the LEA convention which will be held in Monroe will be the 100-piece all-state band ,which will be conducted by that distinguished southern music educator, Ottokar Cadek, professor of music at the University of Alabama, and associate conductor for the Birmingham Civic Symphony. The idea of an all-state band is a recent development, music-wise, and another bit of evidence of the increased interest in music which is sweeping the south-land. With all modesty, Civic Music feels it has played a part in this awakening, and is grateful to have had the opportunity of bringing more and better music to more and more people through the years.

TAKE WEDDING VOWS

Miss Carmen Siles Aquilera and Ward Reneau Gritting, Jr. as they take their marrige vows in an old Spanish church in Mexico City September 9. Miss Aquilera is the daughter of Mrs. Maria Christiana Aquilera DeSiles of Mexico City. Mr. Griffing is a former resident of Gilbert.

MISS CARMEN AQUILERA WEDS WARD GRIFFING, JR. IN SPANISH SETTING

A wedding of interest in this section was that of Ward Reneau Griffing, Jr. and Miss Carmen Siles Auilera of Mexico City which took place September 9 in that city.

Mrs. Griffing is a graduate of Gilbert High School and Northeast Junior College. He received his degree at Mexico City College the latter part of August.

Miss Quilera is the daughter of Mrs. Maria Christiana Auilera DeSiles of Mexico City, where she has lived and attended school since she was eight years of age.

The rites were performed in an old historic church amidst a Spanish setting. Beautiful Mexican flowers adorned the pews and ten musicians played the nuptial music.

Following the wedding a reception was held consisting of a seven course meal to which two hundred guests received invitations. After the dinner the orchestra played for a dance.

The couple left immediately for a short wedding trip out of Mexico City.

At its peak the Portuguese empire included territories in Brazil, East and West Africa, Malabar, Ceylon, India, Persia, Indo-China and Malaya.

READER'S CLIQUE MEETS IN HOME OF MRS. LOUIS PETERS

Members of the Reader's Clique met in the home of Mrs. Lewis Peters Thursday afternoon, and enjoyed an interesting musical program.

Mrs. Walter Ryland, president of the club, called the meeting to order with the reading of the club collect in unison, and presided over a short business meeting.

Mrs. Raymond John, program chairman, introduced the guest artists, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., and Mrs. Richard Whitehurst, who rendered a very interesting and entertaining program on the works of Robert MacGimsey, a native of Louisiana.

In describing the life and works of Robert MacGimsey, Mrs. Trousdale said: "As a child in Louisiana young Robert Hunter MacGimsey, was a boy soprano in a local church. His talents included whistling in chords, playing the piano and other instruments by ear. National recognition came to him by way of radio—where he whistled classics in two and three part harmony. John Charles Thomas heard MacGimsey play his composition "Shadrack"—took the manuscript—had it published and used it and many other of his works in concert. MacGimsey seems to best use the medium of spirituals and "move" or rhythm songs."

Mrs. Trousdale, in her usual gracious manner, rendered several vocal solos—"Trouble", "Jonah and the Whale", and "Sweet Little Jesus Boy", and was very ably accompanied by Mrs. Whitehurst, who also rendered a delightful piano solo, "Shadrack".

Members and guests present were: Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Ray Updegraff, Mrs. B. J. LaCour, Mrs. Walter Ryland, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. Evans Ethridge, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. J. S. Harbuck, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Henry Menuet, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. A. G. Olcott, Mrs. Lewis Peters, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. C. R. Tdiwell, Mrs. H. W. McClary, Mrs. Clay Wilson, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. Richard Whitehurst, and Mrs. Joe Bennett of Jackson, Miss.

Mitchell Named By School Group

Jena, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Maxwell Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mitchell of Midway, was elected Wednesday as president of the student council at Jena High School, defeating two other candidates, Wayne McMurray and Fred Shiel, Jr. Maxwell also is head drum major of the high school band.

Other officers of the council were named in Wednesday's balloting and together with the class council members chosen earlier, will make up the student governing body for the ensuing year, Mr. Dargan Brooks, principal, announced.

Kem Gryder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodie Gryder, and Louis Crooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Crooks of Walters, were forced into a runoff election to determine the boys' vice-president of the council. Wayne Coon and James Head trailed Kem and Louis in this contest.

Miss Oren Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Adams of Jena, defeated Miss Peggy Price for girls' vice-president, and Miss Jerry Gal Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wright of Jena, was named secretary-treasurer of the council.

RED CROSS WILL HAVE ELECTION

LaSalle Parish Chapter Has Had Active Year Due To Flood

Jena, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—The annual election of officers of the LaSalle parish chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at the chapter's regular business meeting Monday night, Oct. 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the parish courthouse in Jena, it was announced this week by Mr. F. H. Shiel, chapter chairman.

All members of the Red Cross and persons interested in the progress and well-being of the chapter in LaSalle parish are urged to attend this meeting, Mr. Shiel said.

In addition to naming the slate of officers who will direct the work of the chapter for the ensuing year, the budget for the coming year also will be discussed and adopted, Mr. Shiel said.

Reviewing the work of the Red Cross in LaSalle parish and the immediate area during the past year, especially during the high-water and flood situation last spring, Mr. Shiel asserted that "we owe it to ourselves to fully support the Red Cross in all its activities and this coming year, more than ever, with the added responsibilities of war service in Korea and at bases at home, the Red Cross will need our fullest cooperation to meet its responsibilities."

Assessor At Jonesville Lists Total Now As $5,-120,919

Jonesville, La., Sept. 30.—Catahoula property assessments, after passing the five million dollar mark last year, reached a total of $5,120,919 for this year, according to G. O. McGuffee, assessor.

The 1949 figure was $5,001,435, making an increase this year of $119,484. Taxpayers increased in number from 2,666 last year to 2,770 this year, or a gain of 104.

State and parish property taxes for this year will total $229,043.49, with a state total of $29,443.61 and a parish total of $199,599.88.

Of this year's taxes, $52,774.34 will be covered by homestead exemption. Participating in homestead exemption this year are 1,560 homeowners, as compared with 1,524 last year. Property valued at $1,178,740 is covered by the exemption.

Only a small change is seen in the number of acres of land assessed, with 445,841 this year as compared with 445,641 last year.

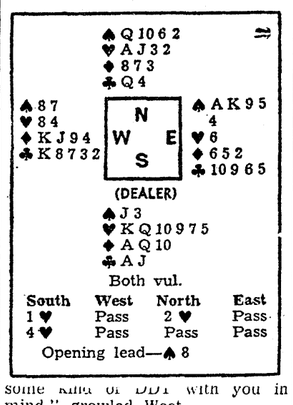
Defense Mistakes Help George Out

By Oswald Jacoby

"It is nice to have such kind opponents," said Generous George. "I really appreciate your setting up dummy's queen of spades for me, but I am not going to take advantage of you and cash it. At least, not right now."

"It's too bad they didn't invent some kind of DDT with you in mind," growled West.

"You don't need DDT," said East. "A muzzle would be enough."



South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ 8

West had opened a spade. East had won with the king and continued by cashing the ace and leading another card of the suit. George had been forced to ruff with the king of trumps, but this left the good queen of spades in dummy.

George cashed the queen and ace of trumps. This left him in dummy, where he wanted to be. A lesser player might have cashed the good queen of spades right then and there. George could have done this and still made the hand, provided he knew exactly where the missing cards were but George had a sure thing play.

He led a low diamond, finessed the queen and when West won with the king, George spread his hand. West was helpless. He chose to return a diamond. George won with the ten, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and then cashed the good spade, discarding his losing jack of clubs.

Of course, the opponents could have beaten the hand if they had defended perfectly. That is why they were so annoyed by George's speech.

The error lay with East. After winning the first trick with the king of spades he should have led the six of diamonds. George's best play would be to finesse either the queen or ten. In either case West would win with the appropriate card and lead another spade. East would take the ace and play the third spade. Once more George would have been forced to trump high.

Dummy's queen of spades would have been good for a discard again, but George would not be able to throw West in since the throw in trick would set the contract. He would still have his choice of finesses but they would all lose for him.

No-Spare Tire Edict Opposed By A. M. A.

Detroit, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The automobile manufacturers association went on record today against any revival of the government's no-spare tire edict of World War II.

The A. M. A.'s board of directors took their stand because of recent reports that the commerce department was considering such a ban.

They said they "found no reason for changing the past practice of the industry regarding the sale of the fifth or spare tire on new cars."

"The present practice," they added, "is the most efficient and economical method of delivering the necessary fifth tire to the customer."

THE YEARS BETWEEN

THEY GO SO FAST . . . those years between childhood and the grown-up time. And they remain in your memory chiefly as a span of sounds and impressions. The front-door slamming . . . the telephone ringing . . . the ice box raided . . . the car gone again. Only in photographs can you halt those flying teen-age feet. Take time for a photograph now and you'll thank yourself in all the time to come.

Defense Mistakes Help George Out

By Oswald Jacoby

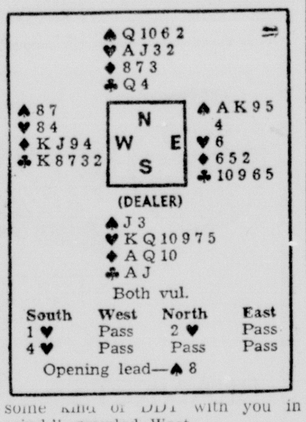
"It is nice to have such kind opponents," said Generous George. "I really appreciate your setting up dummy's queen of spades for me, but I am not going to take advantage of you and cash it. At least, not right now."

"It's too bad they didn't invent some kind of DDT with you in mind," growled West.

"You don't need DDT," said East. "A muzzle would be enough."

West had opened a spade. East had won with the king and continued by cashing the ace and leading another card of the suit. George had been forced to ruff with the king of trumps, but this left the good queen of spades in dummy.

George cashed the queen and ace of trumps. This left him in dummy, where he wanted to be. A lesser player might have cashed the good queen of spades right then and there. George could have done this and still made the hand, provided he knew exactly where the missing cards were but George had a sure thing play.



He led a low diamond, finessed the queen and when West won with the king, George spread his hand. West was helpless. He chose to return a diamond. George won with the ten, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and then cashed the good spade, discarding his losing jack of clubs.

Of course, the opponents could have beaten the hand if they had defended perfectly. That is why they were so annoyed by George's speech.

The error lay with East. After winning the first trick with the king of spades he should have led the six of diamonds. George's best play would be to finesse either the queen or ten. In either case West would win with the appropriate card and lead another spade. East would take the ace and play the third spade. Once more George would have been forced to trump high.

Dummy's queen of spades would have been good for a discard again, but George would not be able to throw West in since the throw in trick would set the contract. He would still have his choice of finesses but they would all lose for him.

LIGHTWEIGHT

Lightest man on Louisiana State's football squad, and one of it's most potent line backers is Sophomore Jack Martin, a 160-pound powerhouse from Haynesville, La., whose performance against Kentucky at Lexington last week was regarded as one of the tilt's major highlights.

No-Spare Tire Edict Opposed By A. M. A.

Detroit, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The automobile manufacturers association went on record today against any revival of the government's no-spare tire edict of World War II.

The A. M. A.'s board of directors took their stand because of recent reports that the commerce department was considering such a ban.

They said they "found no reason for changing the past practice of the industry regarding the sale of the fifth or spare tire on new cars."

"The present practice," they added, "is the most efficient and economical method of delivering the necessary fifth tire to the customer."

THE YEARS BETWEEN

THEY GO SO FAST . . . those years between childhood and the grown-up time. And they remain in your memory chiefly as a span of sounds and impressions. The front-door slamming . . . the telephone ringing . . . the ice box raided . . . the car gone again. Only in photographs can you halt those flying teen-age feet. Take time for a photograph now and you'll thank yourself in all the time to come.

DR. SCHWAB WILL BE NEW PASTOR

Will Preach Today At Temple Baptist Church In Monroe

Dr. Alfred Schwab will preach at both services of the Temple Baptist Church. The new pastor until recently led the Baptist Church of Mer Rouge.

Sunday School under the leadership of Philip Kulcke starts at ten in the morning. The goal is 125 for the first Sunday in October.

John W. Andrews witnessed 73 in Training Union last Sunday. Mr. Andrews. the director, desires 75 present this Sunday at 7:00 p.m.

October 4th, the regular time for prayer-meeting, will be given over to a formal welcome to the new pastor. All the members and friends are urged to come for this happy time. Each head of the church organizations will speak. Refreshments and fellowship will follow the more formal hour. The time is 7:30 October 4th.

Mrs. M. J. Boyette, president of the W. M. S., led the women of the church each day last week in observing the Georgia Barnette week of prayer. The attendance has been excellent.

C. O. Tillman and M. L. Crews, members of the church, have been making most needed and helpful improvements on church property.

H. S. Clawson, chairman of deacons, recommended to the church that it join other sister churches in Louisiana in promoting the minister's retirement plan. Formerly the church was in the plan. This was voted unanimously.

ONE-MAN STRIKE

Rome —(AP)— A one-man strike causes great inconveniences in San Vito Al Torre, a 1,500-inhabitant hamlet in northeastern Italy. The striker is Ferdinando Miani, 70, sexton and church clock winder, who struck for a pay increse.

The town's clock on top of the belfry is stuck on 0245. Laborers sleep late in the morning, husbands arrive home late for dinner. All this for Ferdinando's strike. Explaining why he asks a pay increase, Ferdinando said:

"How can the mayor expect that a man of my age and skill should climb 250 steps daily for $1.10 a year?"

TWO PART HARMONY IN JUNIOR SIZES

"I have some lovely soft woolen on hand that I'd like to make up in a skirt," writes Mrs. Jerome Hastings of Ohio. "I wear a size 11 and like something that's a little out of the ordinary."

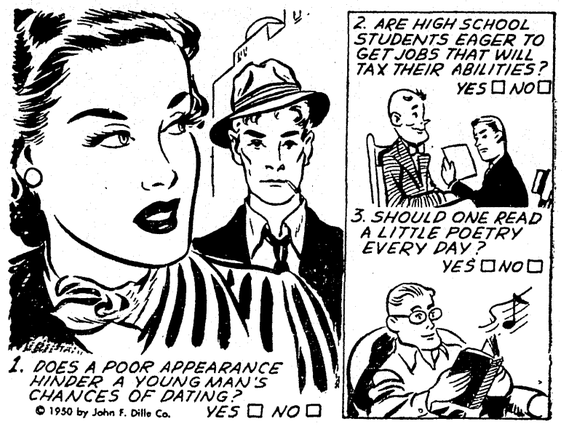
LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.



Answer to Question No. 1

1. Apparently not. A recent study made in sixteen colleges indicates that appearance is "non-significant" in affecting a young man's chances of getting a date. Homely students seem to be just as successful as Romeos. So, you see, boys, we all start from scratch, as far as looks are concerned—a great comfort to some of us.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Some are, some are not. A scholastic magazine found in surveying 40,000 students that instead of asking, "How can I get a job that will require all my abilities and give fe chance for progress?", a discouraging proportion asked, "How soon will I get more money?", or "In what kind of job do I have to do the least work?" One boy replied that he would "like to be a retired business man." There are others—including myself.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, if you want to be liberally educated, for "Man gains most of his real world wisdom from the poets." Charles Darwin, in his old age, said that if he could live life over again he would read poetry and listen to good music at least once a week. He believed he had lost a great deal of happiness from the neglect of these two arts. If you can't enjoy Shakespeare, Goethe, and Euripides, read the great simple poetry of every day life by James Whitcomb Riley, Eugene Field, and Robert Burns.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Ways To Get Pile After Melding

Written for NEA Service

If your side has melded at any previous turn to play there are three methods of taking the discard pile at your disposal.

1. You may take it by putting down from your hand two natural cards that match the card discarded to you.

2. You may take it by putting down from your hand one wild card and one card that matches the card discarded to you.

3. You may take it by adding the card discarded to you to any meld that your side has on the table.

This last method is the one that causes most arguments. For some reason or other a lot of canasta players like to tinker with the game and this particular rule is their favorite for experimentation and change.

In particular they seem to like to play that a closed canasta is something special and not a meld. If they want to play that way, or if they want to play any other little rule of their own I can't stop them. However, the canasta writers and authorities have organized a national canasta laws commission which prepares laws for canasta. We all have agreed on one set of laws for the good of the game, and the great majority of the canasta playing public has gone along with us.

Our laws are subject to change and improvement. However, we are not going to change the laws that govern taking the discard pile. To us, a closed canasta is just the same as any other meld and may be used to take the discard pile.

When the discard pile is frozen the rights to take the pile under 2 and 3 are taken away and you must have a natural pair.

As to what constitutes a frozen pack the laws of canasta are very clear. The pile is frozen if it includes one or more wild cards (whether discarded or turned by the dealer) or red treys (turned by the dealer). It cannot be frozen in any other manner. If anyone tells you this law is going to be changed he is just talking through his hat.

Any time you take the discard pile you must take all the cards in it, including the freezing card if the pile is frozen.

Finally, taking the discard pile is a privilege, not a requirement. If it is your turn to draw you always have the right to take the top card of the stock.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

IRON GOES BEGGING

Goa, Portuguese India —(AP)— An estimated 70,000 tons of iron ore have piled up here because of as sudden fall in foreign demand.

The decline in exports is attributed to foreign competition, failure of Goan exporters to furnish guarantees to importers, and unfavorable rail rates in Goa. The press here is campaigning for government assistance to counteract competition and provide all possible facilities to exporters.

Goa's exports of manganese, an important dollar-earner, have not been affected. The iron-exporting industry is relatively new here.

This last method is the one that causes most arguments. For some reason or other a lot of canasta players like to tinker with the game and this particular rule is their favorite for experimentation and change.

In particular they seem to like to play that a closed canasta is something special and not a meld. If they want to play that way, or if they want to play any other little rule of their own I can't stop them. However, the canasta writers and authorities have organized a national canasta laws commission which prepares laws for canasta. We all have agreed on one set of laws for the good of the game, and the great majority of the canasta playing public has gone along with us.

Our laws are subject to change and improvement. However, we are not going to change the laws that govern taking the discard pile. To us, a closed canasta is just the same as any other meld and may be used to take the discard pile.

When the discard pile is frozen the rights to take the pile under 2 and 3 are taken away and you must have a natural pair.

As to what constitutes a frozen pack the laws of canasta are very clear. The pile is frozen if it includes one or more wild cards (whether discarded or turned by the dealer) or red treys (turned by the dealer). It cannot be frozen in any other manner. If anyone tells you this law is going to be changed he is just talking through his hat.

Any time you take the discard pile you must take all the cards in it, including the freezing card if the pile is frozen.

Finally, taking the discard pile is a privilege, not a requirement. If it is your turn to draw you always have the right to take the top card of the stock.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

IRON GOES BEGGING

Goa, Portuguese India —(AP)— An estimated 70,000 tons of iron ore have piled up here because of as sudden fall in foreign demand.

The decline in exports is attributed to foreign competition, failure of Goan exporters to furnish guarantees to importers, and unfavorable rail rates in Goa. The press here is campaigning for government assistance to counteract competition and provide all possible facilities to exporters.

Goa's exports of manganese, an important dollar-earner, have not been affected. The iron-exporting industry is relatively new here.

Vishinsky Is Devious, Sarcastic As Gromyko

By Richard Kleiner

New York—(NEA)—When he's not speaking, Andrei Yanuarievich Vishinsky is a smiling, benign, grandfatherly type of man. But nobody ever accused him of anything like that when he begins talking.

Russia's Foreign minister, who leads the Soviet delegation to the U. N.'s General Assembly here this month, is about as bombastic an orator as Russia has on its team. Just as devious as Malik and sarcastic as Gromyko, he has a fine explosive quality all his own.

Vishingky's vocal fireworks first splashed into prominence in 1936-38, when he was prosecutor of the Trotskyist - Zinovief "terrorist" groups in Moscow. A correspondent, reporting the trial, wrote then:

"Some of his former students gasped as they saw the once-mild-mannered professor turn tiger, run his hand over his red hair, shout until his pince-nez trembled on his nose and hurl blazing epithets at the accused."

The red hair is now white and the pince-nez have been replaced by plain spectacles, but the blazing epithets are still around. One spectator, who witnessed a Vishinsky outburst on his last visit here, said, "I bet if they looked down his throat they'd find claws on his vocal chords."

Nowadays, Vishinsky is at his oratorical best in his attacks on the United States. He has repeatedly blasted U. S. "reactionary circles" for "war - mongering." He has accused the U. S. of holding the atom bomb as a "sword of Damocles suspended over our heads by a single thread." His speeches are usually lengthy, punctuated with wild wavings of the arms and spiced with little fables and quotations.

On at least one occasion, his love of fables and quotations got him into trouble — literary trouble, at any rate. At the Paris Foreign Ministers' Conference last year, he tossed in what he said was a quotation from the Bible: "You should not try to catch fleas, lest a camel slip through your fingers."

That gem started a 25-minute discussion among the delegates regarding fleas, camels and the Bible. Other delegates said the quotation didn't appear in their Bibles Finally, Vishinsky said he was quoting the St. Vladimir version. That ended the discussion.

He is also given to angry outbursts against everything in general and nothing in particular, like this one at the general assembly meeting last year: "A time will come when vengeance will be wreaked against those who violate the charter, and their instruments will be turned against them."

Vishinsky is of the old guard of Russian political figures. His revolutionary career dates back to 1901 and he can boast of tenancy in some of the Czar's finest jails. He fought during the revolution, and joined the Communist Party soon after.

Vishinsky is a lawyer, and it was through law that he entered politics. He is called "one of the fathers of the Soviet judicial system." That system, with father Vishinsky sitting as state prosecutor, resulted in the ruthless liquidation of anti - Stalinist opposition. He was the state prosecutor from 1935 to 1939.

Besides practicing law for the state, Vishinsky also taught it and wrote about it. Among his more than 100 books are such volumes as "The Law of the Soviet State" and "Trotskyism in the Service of Fascism Against Socialism and Peace." He also dashed off a book called "The U. S. S R. and World Peace."

Vishinsky was rewarded for his brilliant career at legal liquidation with the post of deputy commissar for foreign affairs in 1940. Since then, he's taken part in virtually every important international conference, from the Pottsdam Conference onward.

In March, 1949, he succeeded Molotov as minister of foreign affairs. The move, at that time aroused considerable world wide speculation. Diplomats wondered if it meant any change in Soviet policy.

So far, it hasn't. The Vishinsky for-Molotov switch has turned out to be sort of a diplomatic two-platoon system — Molotov is a defensive type, Vishinsky highly aggressive.

Back in 1937, when he was the state prosecutor and thus the symbol of Russian law and order, an American newsmagazine wrote: "Years of Soviet press, radio and cinema propaganda have made his ominous features spell "The Law' to millions of Russians."

Today, second only to Stalin, his still-ominous features spell "Russia" to millions of Americans.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND BEGINS NEW YEAR

Parish Assemblage, High Ranking In Competition Already Performing

The Ouachita Parish High School Band, which has earned a high rank in the field of competitive music and in service to its community, has again started the year in a big way.

The band's first public appearance of the season was in the parade for the West Monroe Kiwanis Club - sponsored Rodeo. Before every performance of the rodeo the band gave an hour long concert of band music which lent color and excitement to the occasion.

At the Ouachita-Homer football game the band was in there supporting the Lions with fight songs and entertaining the fans with other selections. It has been asked by numerous persons why the Ouachita Band hasn't been presented half-time performances as it did last year. The answer is simple—not enough uniforms Additional uniforms have been ordered, but delivery is slow and uncertain because of the present world situation.

At any rate, when the uniforms are available—in the near future, everyone hopes—the public can count on colorful half-time shows from the band and Lionettes.

Headed by director Truman McCrea, the band is a well organized body composed of seventy-five members. Officers for this year are: Jimmy Vaughn, captain; Arthur Matthews, Billy John Golson, and Scotty Tullier, first lieutenants; Ronnie Fox, Spencer Edminston, Maurice Jones, and Stanley Burkett, sergeants; Booby Edmonson, drum major; Betty Landrum and Montez Wilder, librarians; and Carolyn McCarty, girls' counselor.

Establishing a new precedent, the band has been asked to play for the Louisiana Music Educators' Association meeting to be held in Monroe in November. All music on the required lists for the district and state music festivals will be read by the band at this time for the benefit of the visiting band directors.

Though twenty valuable members of the band graduated last year, twenty-three new bandsmen have been enlisted. The band is expected to be even better this year than last. And, if events continue as they have, it will be.

Streetcar System Runs Upside-Down In City

By Richard K. O'Malley

Wuppertal, Germany — Wuppertalers feel they have a slight edge on most people — their prize streetcar system has been running upside down for nearly 50 years.

Wuppertal's Schweberbahn—Suspension railway—is the only one of its kind in Europe, and most Wuppertalers point to it with the same pride with which New Yorkers single out the Empire State building.

Wuppertal took to the air in 1901 when its narrow streets and choked traffic defied any plans to enlarge the ground streetcar system.

A private concern from Nurenberg came up and constructed the suspension road which is hung over the Wupper river. It operates much as if an elevated system hung its car from the bottom of the railway structure.

Rides on One Rail

Two-car trains, which carry a capacity load of 130 persons, are operated electrically on a monorail with four wheels per car.

The Schweberbahn runs a route of about nine miles. Originally it ran a mile or so more, but Allied bombs in World War II chopped off two of the old stops.

The cost of the unique railway system was approximately $4,800,000 dollars.

After a private concern had run it lucratively for a long time, the city took over. The Schweberbahn was such a novelty that early-day passengers were glad to pay twice the ordinary fare. Now they ride for the same price as they do on ordinary streetcars.

A Ride Is a Thrill

Citizens always throng the Schweberbahn, scorning the more prosaic and slower streetcars. Going to work is a combination sight-seeing tour and carnival ride.

The cars, which run at four-minute intervals, sweep along over the winding Wupper through downtown Wuppertal at speeds up to 30 miles an hour. Only a mile of the track goes over hard ground.

Iron girders, set up like inverted "Yes" mark Wuppeertal's pride and joy, and the sight of a red Schweberbahn train slipping down the steel lane always finds a streetside audience.

Wuppertal is proud of its accident record on the Schweberbahn. Since it was constructed there have been only two mishaps. One occurred during the first World War when a defunct signal system caused a minor collision. The other was more spectacular and happened this year when an overzealous circus press agent persuaded the city to let him take a baby elephant aboard for a stunt ride. The elephant failed to see the singular attraction of Schweberbahn travel and plunged past terrified spectators and burst out of the car. The elephant fetched up in the Wupper river about 25 feet below with nothing more serious than its dignity injured.

Schweberbahn men say it is more economical to operate their system than the ground car lines. They say they don't have the heavy track maintenance demands of streetcar routes. Since there is no traffic problem up in the air, service is more efficient and wear on rolling stock is almost nil.

BLAST BERLIN LANDMARKS

Berlin—(AP)—Communist dynamite teams are snapping East Berlin's ties with the past. One by one, they are erasing historic land marks dear to German hearts. The Communist Germans in West Berthat the landmarks are so bomb damaged that they are a menace and cannot be restored. The non-Communist Germans in West Berlin are in a mild rage over it but can do nothing except splutter. Its just spite, they say. Anyhow, in the process, Frederick the Great, Kaiser Wilhelm and Adolf Hitler are getting a pushing-around. Frederick, astride a bronze horse, was unceremoniously hauled off Unter den Linden and carted away recently. Hitler's Reichschancellory was finally buckled completely and can no longer be identified. Most of the marble and masonry is gone. Now the Kaiser's town house, known as the Berlin Schloss (castle) is being destroyed.

SCHOOL MUSICIANS

Typical hundreds of thousands of young Americans, these girls find music an open world to them through participation in school orchestra activities

Music Big Business With Public, Louisiana Schools

By Jim Reynolds
(Of the Morning World Staff)

There's music in the air . . . and no wonder! Considering what big business the music industry has become, it's surprising the days aren't filled with melody.

Music is mighty big business . . . big in popular appeal, big in terms of the dallars and cents spent every year to bring music to an ever-widening audience.

Here in Ouachita parish and the Twin Cities, school expenditures for instruments alone run to about $5000 this year. Though that may sound pretty big, it dwindles when you consider that approximately 500 students are members of school bands in the Twin Cities.

The growth of music in Louisiana can be attributed to many forces, but perhaps none so important as the program of free musical instruction in the public schools.

The number of local boys and girls who play with school organizations sounds impressive, and is. But it's nothing compared with the immeasurable total of students who are members of school and church choirs and who study music from private instructors.

Why this huge growth in the percentage of our young population who are receiving training in instrumental and vocal music? One local music merchant explains it this way: "Folks nowadays seem to realize more and more that musical training helps make a boy or girl a better rounded, better balanced individual. When you know music and can play an instrument or sing, a whole new field of enjoyment is opened to you."

"Did you ever notice," he continued, "how people use music to change their moods or express feelings they may not know they have? Take me, for example. When I feel low, I like to listen to gloomy music. It seems to express my feeling. Pretty soon, though switch, bit by bit, to more pleasant stuff and finaly end up playing happy music. The gloom is gone. I'm happy again.

"The same thing happens when I get mad. Violent music is what I go for then. After a while, the noise exhausts my anger and I relax. To me, music is better than a psychiatrist."

Granting that, being a music dealer, he might be a bit biased in his thought, we still had to admit he was right.

What instruments are folks buying today? "Just about everything, believe me," he replied. "Anything and everything from a mouth organ to a bass fiddle."

Violins are not so high on the popularity list as they once were, though, he told us. "Boy, I sure can remember the day when the violin was king. Everybody wanted to play one. Then came C-melody saxaphones . . . every kid in town wanted to be a jazz artist. And don't forget ululeles. They're coming back strong now, too, just like the late 'twenties. Can't say I go for them too much, though. Don't sound too nice."

We were trying to get the conversation back to trumpets and trombones, clarinets and tenor saxes, the new glamour horns of the music industry. There was no stopping the flow of reminiscences, though. As we left, musical history had reached the zither. "Now there was a really fine instrument, son. Don't know if you ever heard one (hadn't he ever heard of "The Third Man"?), but boy, was that a sweet sounding instrument. . . ." That's where we had come in. That's where we left.

Mongol Empire Like Soviet Aims

The massive empire of Soviet Russia and its European and Asiatic satellites is beginning to have a curious resemblance to the great Mongol empire of the 13th Century.

Much of the territory is the same—an incredible sweep of land from Middle Europe to the Pacific and from India to the Arctic.

The Mongol dominions were built up from East to West and eventually included most of Russia. On the other hand, the Russian empire, both under the Czars and the Soviet hammer and sickle has moved steadily from West to East. In turn it has absorbed many of the dominions of the old Mongol empire.

Two thousand years ago China built a huge wall to hold out the Mongols. It failed.

Under Genghis Khan (1162?-1227) Mongol warriors conquered a dominion which under a later day successor, Kublai Khan, included nearly all of Asia and an important segment of Europe.

Ghenghis Kahn was proclaimed Emperor of Tartary at his capital in a distant part of Chinese Tartary in 1205. From there he sent out vast armies to conquer the world. By the time he died he was ruling over the whole of Tartary as well as Northern China, Turkestan and Persia.

His son Oktai not only extended the conquest of Asia, but burst into Europe. A large part of Russia, Poland and Hungary were laid waste and for a time Western civilzation was threatened. The threat was ended with his death in 1241.

One of the most famous of the Mongol rulers, Kublai Khan (1216?-1294) chose the site of modern day Peiping as his court and it was here that Marco Polo lived many years.

When Kublai Kahn died his empire split up, but later an equally well known emperor, Tamerlane (1333?-1405) cemented most of it together again while ruling from fabled Samarkand.

Russia was overrun by the Mongols around 1236 and for nearly two and a half centuries was under the heel of the Golden Hoarde. Then, gradually the Russians began to win back. They absorbed fragments of the disintergrating Mongol dominions and then pushed steadily through to the Pacific.

The Mongols began by conquering China by arms. The Soviet Union has onquered the same ancient land by ideas. And a 13th Century empire has come back into being geographically in the 20th Century.

WHAT ELSE?

Carlyle, Ill.—(AP)A Carlyle high school freshman apparently thought he left no doubt in anyone's mind when he filled out his regis tration form the first day of school. He wrote his name and address. Then in the blank calling for his parents names, the boy wrote: "Mother and Father."

Sir Gladwyn Jebb Is New United Nations Hero; Is Career Man

By Sumner P. Ahlbum

Lake Success, N. Y.—(NEA)—A tall and haughty man with the polish of old-school diplomacy moved into the center of the stage at the United Nations Security Council this month.

Already something of a hero to the public who have watched, listened or read about his performance in the U. N.'s crucial days since the Korean war began, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb was taking over from a man who all through August seemed bent on becoming the villain of Lake Success.

Sir Gladwyn, along with the United States' Warren Austin and other delegates in supporting roles, had kept Russia's Jacob Malik from creating complete havoc as council president, although nobody could have kept him from being the villain he wanted to be.

A career man in the British Foreign office for 26 years, Sir Gladwyn has had a finger in many big diplomatic pies, mostly as a consultant, although he served briefly in 1946 as secretary general to the United Nations organization he helped create.

Americans — and the rest of the world public, too — suddenly discovered Jebb at about the same time they were re-discovering the U. N. as something important to watch.

He had hardly sat down as successor to Sir Alexander Cadogan as chief British delegate when he touched off some fireworks by Egypt's Mahmoud Fawzi Bey, whom he chided for abstaining to vote for U. N. support of the south Koreans. His cool rebuttal quickly soothed the delegate from Cairo.

Since then, his Oxford accents around the oval council table and in the rambling halls of the U. N.'s temporary home have won him respect as the council's most astute — and polished — phrasemaker.

The phrases, however, have not soothed Russia's Malik, whom Sir Gladwyn has stalked, verbally, with the same persistence he stalks stag back in the English countryside.

His initial broadside at Malik's cries of U. S. aggression in Korea reddened the face of the thick-skinned Russian. "The queer, upside-down language" of Soviet propaganda, Sir Galdwyn said, makes it seem as if we are "living in a rather nightmarish Alic in-Wonderland world."

Malik winced again at Jebb observaton that Russian propganda is "so obviously absurd th it is hard to think it can be swallowed even by the auto-mato who listen to the Moscow radio

Even on Malik's last day wi the gavel, Jebb gave him no peac bowing the Russian out of offi with these words:

"For the representative of country which maintains millio of its own compatriots in sla labor camps in unspeakable co ditions . . . to denounce other go ernments for alleged misdemea ors as regards political prisone is just about as nauseating a spe tacle as that of Satan rebuki sin."

Sir Gladwyn, 50 and unruffle has been in big roles before. was an adviser to Churchill Yalta (where he helped pick date for the opening U. N. conf ence at San Francisco by sugge ing his own birthday — April 2 He helped draft the Italian pea treaty and is one of British F eign Secretary Ernest Bevi close advisers.

At Lake Success, however, had captured the public. The have been telegrams a star wou relish on opening night, such one from Brooklyn which s "Bravo, bravo. You and your de gation are a credit to civilizatior

He was even becoming son thing of a star on televisio which has been keeping an e on U. N. proceedings lately. " rather watch Jebb than wrestlers," one spectator said.

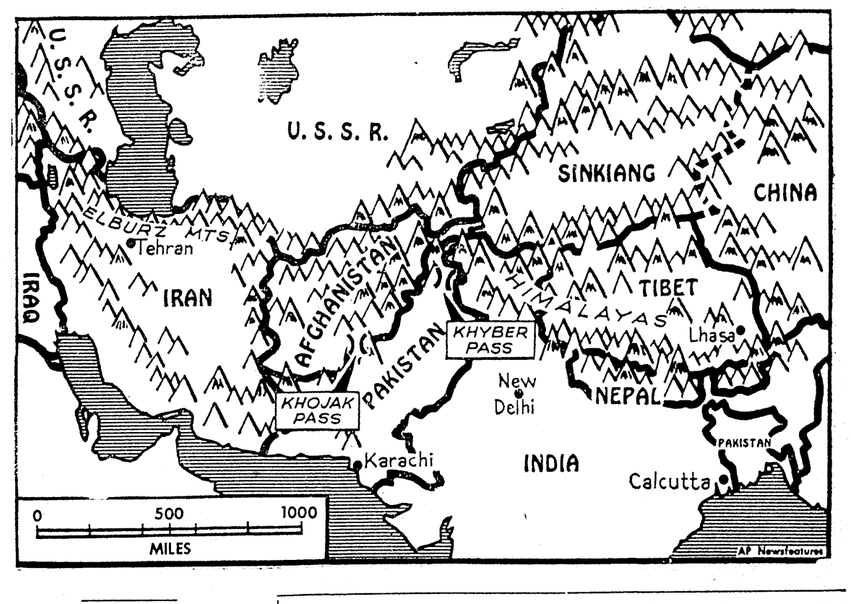
India And Pakistan Study Two Red Invasion Routes



By Steven V. David
AP Newsfeatures

New Delhi, India—Russian forces moving through Afghan passes, could—if they wanted to—invade this subcontinent and make short this subcontinent and make short work of it.

That's the consensus of competent foreign observers here. No one says a Russian invasion is inevitable—in fact, there is a feeling that one may never be necessary. But it's a possibility that has been studied by top army men of the west and, doubtless, of Russia.

The observers speak in terms of what Russia has today and what India, Pakistan and Afghanistan together could put in Russia's way. They dsicount the possibility of foreign help arriving in time, except for a few aircraft.

The observers rule out Tibet and Sinkiang as jumping off places for an invasion of India. That territory, they say, is too rugged and there are no routes southward which would accomodate a military operation.

Two Critical Passes

But to the west, there are two possible entrances for Russian armies. One is the famed Khyber Pass, linking Afghanistan with the northwest frontier province of Pakistan. The other is the Khojak Pass, on the Afghan-Baluchistan border. Baluchistan, a barren area, is part of Pakistan.

Use of either pass would mean moving across long stretches of difficult country. One observer suggests Khojak Pass would be an easier entrance than Khyber, but he points out that lines of communication would be longer. Khyber Pass country also is difficult, but the weather is good and the roads are adequate.

The time to stop any Russian invasion, according to these observers, would be while the Red columns were in the passes. The general believes is that air bombing would make things tough for the Reds. But that India and Pakistan have far too few aircraft to do the job effectively.

"Once they were through the passes," says one observer, "there would be no real obstacle—rivers don't mean much anymore."

Not everyone thinks it would be as easy as that, but all agree that a Russian victory would be a sure thing. Supplies—particularly motor fuel—would give some trouble, but Russian troops could live off the land, something western troops would have trouble doing.

Military men here have a high regard for the Indian army, with an important reservation about the experience of the officers, most of whom were jumped several grades with the departure of British officers. The strength of the army is estimated unofficially at around 300,000 men. There is one armored division using tanl from the last war, but a shorta of spare parts continues to e into tank strength. Other equi ment, from rifles to trucks, can from the piles of war materi left here by the Allies after th war.

Joint Defense is Lacking

One observer suggests that India and Pakistan settled the differences and received aircra from western powers, "they coul make a pretty good stab at sto ping the Russian's. Right no however, joint defense seems long way off.

Military men here are divide on the question of whether Ru sia actually would invade this sul continent. One school holds tha by controlling the rest of Asia, th U. S. S. R. could "neutralize" In dia and Pakistan. An isolated In dia, it is argued, would probabl fall into Russia's hands without a invasion. One observer says h believes the Russians could us the threat of bombing or of inva sion to keep India in line. Rus sia is reported to have a big air base in Tadzhik, not far fror Kashmir, and could use fields i Sinkiang province of China.

Others feel that Russia want Asia, "lock, stock and barrel," an has India on its timetable. As on reason for a Russian invasion they cite the fact that India coul raise an army of several millio men to fight with the west an claim "that's as good a reason a any for moving in here"

Ferriday Man Invents New Carburetor

Ferriday, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—It may be left to a Concordia parish man to revolutionize the automobile-gasoline industry. Melvin Dodge, Vidalia garage man said that he has applied for a patent for a vaporizing carburetor that will allow an automobile to average 65 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

What's more, Dodge believes he can install the carburetor on any car for about $35. The vaporizing carburetor principle is not new, although Dodge says the idea came to him about 8 months ago after watching vapor escape from a gasoline tank while putting fuel into an automobile. He had been working on the motor for the past three months.

When he submitted it to the patent office in Washington, D. C., he learned that three other similar patents have been issued in 1930 and two in 1932. However, Dodge believes that his is different enough to allow him a patent.

In a sworn affidavit made September 9, R. E. Penick, Jr., of Natchez, Miss., states that he made a round trip to Alabama in a 1949 Ford equipped with the vaporizing carburetor and averaged 65 miles to a gallon of gas. The general principle of the vaporizing gas is that of jetting the gas vapor, instead of the gas itself, into the carburator.

Born in Alexandria, Dodge came to Concordia parish with his father at an early age and settled near Lismore. He attended school in Ferriday, but says that he didn't get any farther than the fourth grade. His mother was dead and his father made every effort to keep him in school.

But Dodge did not want to go to school and he wouldn't. He recalls hanging around garages and in tin shops, particularly the Perkins garage in Ferriday. He has tinkered with engines and machinery since he was a very small child. He says that all of his five children are mechanically minded and Mrs. Dodge says "can make about anything."

The Dadges came to Vidalia about two years ago from Lismore.

Dodge says that he has three offers so far from men who wish to put money into his enterprise, but that he must wait for word from the patent office. Meanwhile, he is dickering with a foundry plant in south Louisiana to manufacture the carburetors.

He says that a carburetor can be installed in a car in about an hour and a half, and that one bread company has already asked for the carburetors on it trucks as soon as he gets into production.

He is interested in selling the carburetor to an oil company, he says, but he wants to go into production so that the equipment may be available to every car owner in the United States.

St. Louis Girl Meets Farouk

St. Louis —(NEA)— A 15-cent hamburger and the ambitions of an ex-movie actress for her daughter have put Mimi Medart into the limelight of international romance.

Parlayed together, the sandwich and the desire for "the grand manner" led the St. Louis teenager to the glamorous French Riviera—and to headlines about her meeting with King Farouk, Egypt's plump monarch with the roving eyes.

And back of it all is the story of Blossom and Bill Medart, Mimi's mother and father.

They were married in 1928, when they were both 23 and Blossom Breneman was a struggling silent movie actress under the name of Donal Blossom. She had one starring part, opposite John Boles in a Western. Bill had tried selling bonds and insurance, then became a gymnasium equipment salesman for his family's concern.

Bill met Blossom in Hollywood, where he had gone on a golfing tour. She had St. Louis roots, too, because her parents ran a laundry there. The marriage, destined to be stormy, got off on a wild start when the minister refused to perform the ceremony until Bill's parents appeared.

They separated three months later, then reconciled. Years later, when they were living in a fashionable neighborhood, a family spat led to a police report. Bill was locked out and heaved a mover's dolly through the front door window. Blossom had him arrested, but dropped the charges.

But it was the hamburger that really started the chain of events that finally led to the King Farouk incidents. Bill and Blossom opened a hamburger stand, a 20-foot place on a busy corner. Bill cooked the hamburgers and Blossom baked cocoanut pies. "The Cottage," which opened in 1930, quickly became a fair-sized success.

They kept adding to the establishment. And adding to the family, too. William, Jr., is now at Harvard. Edward went to prep schools in the east and is being groomed to enter the family's restaurant business. And then Mimi came along.

Mimi's name is Marie Devereaux Medart. And she is apparently the apple of the parental eye. She entered Mary Institute in Ladue when she was six. At 10, she was given a horse and developed into an expert horsewoman. When she was 14, they took her out of school and Blossom took her to New York for two years of tutoring and dramatic studies. The Medarts reportedly keep a Park Avenue penthouse.

Mimi's schoolmates like her, but noticed she had "quite a flair for the dramatic." They also noticed that she had to battle plumpness. Some recent pictures indicate that she still has a tendency in that direction. And they couldn't help but notice that Blossom was frequently around, pushing Mimi into the limelight.

The whole Medart family, except son Bill, went to Europe last spring. According to the stories, they met King Farouk at a ritzy party in Deauville. Then came the reports, crackling back to gossip-hungry St. Louis. The King had sent flowers to Mimi. No, the king hadn't sent flowers. Yes, he had, too, said Blossom in a trans-Atlantic telephone interview.

Mimi was interviewed and described Farouk as "charming and worldly." He had invited the whole family to Cairo for Christmas, she insisted. Then she made some vague illusions to the happiness Rita Hayworth enjoyed with Aly Kahn, hinting at marriage plans for herself.

Farouk and his entourage, who had seemed slightly annoyed about the affair, neverthelses followed Mimi and her entourage when they left.

Reporters noted that among those present during the whole business was one Guido Orlando, a New York press agent who has represented, among others, Erroll Flynn. Orlando did all the talking for the Medarts. but Blossom said he was an old friend from Hollywood she went to "for advice."

Now Mimi is in London for a year studying art, history, French and Italian. (Egyptian isn't on her curriculum.) Mer father and mother are soon returning to St. Louis but Blossom is talking about going back for Christmas. The Cairo trip now seems slightly hazy.

Vishinsky Is Devious, Sarcastic As Gromyko

By Richard Kleiner

New York—(NEA)—When he's not speaking, Andrei Yanuarievich Vishinsky is a smiling, benign, grandfatherly type of man. But nobody ever accused him of anything like that when he begins talking.

Russia's Foreign minister, who leads the Soviet delegation to tne U. N.'s General Assembly here this month, is about as bombastic an orator as Russia has on its team. Just as devious as Malik and sarcastic as Gromyko, he has a fine explosive quality all his own.

Vishingky's vocal fireworks first splashed into prominence in 1936-38, when he was prosecutor of the Trotskyist - Zinovief "terrorist" groups in Moscow. A correspondent, reporting the trial, wrote then:

"Some of his former students gasped as they saw the once-mild-mannered professor turn tiger, run his hand over his red hair, shout until his pince-nez trembled on his nose and hurl blazing epithets at the accused."

The red hair is now white and the pince-nez have been replaced by plain spectacles, but the blazing epithets are still around. One spectator, who witnessed a Vishinsky outburst on his last visit here, said, "I bet if they looked down his throat they'd find claws on his vocal chords."

Nowadays, Vishinsky is at his oratorical best in his attacks on the United States. He has repeatedly blasted U. S. "reactionary circles" for "war - mongering." He has accused the U. S. of holding the atom bomb as a "sword of Damocles suspended over our heads by a single thread." His speeches are usually lengthy, punctuated with wild wavings of the arms and spiced with little fables and quotations.

On at least one occasion, his love of fables and quotations got him into trouble — literary trouble, at any rate. At the Paris Foreign Ministers' Conference last year, he tossed in what he said was a quotation from the Bible. "You should not try to catch fleas, lest a camel slip through your fingers."

That gem started a 25-minute discussion among the delegates regarding fleas, camels and the Bible. Other delegates said the quotation didn't appear in their Bibles Finally, Vishinsky said he was quoting the St. Vladimir version. That ended the discussion.

He is also given to angry outbursts against everything in general and nothing in particular, like this one at the general assembly meeting last year: "A time will come when vengeance will be wreaked against those who violate the charter, and their instruments will be turned against them."

Vishinsky is of the old guard of Russian political figures. His revolutionary career dates back to 1901 and he can boast of tenancy in some of the Czar's finest jails. He fought during the revolution, and joined the Communist Party soon after.

Vishinsky is a lawyer, and it was through law that he entered politics. He is called "one of the fathers of the Soviet judicial system." That system, with father Vishinsky sitting as state prosecutor, resulted in the ruthless liquidation of anti - Stalinist opposition. He was the state prosecutor from 1935 to 1939.

Besides practicing law for the state, Vishinsky also taught it and wrote about it. Among his more than 100 books are such volumes as "The Law of the Soviet State" and "Trotskyism in the Service of Fascism Against Socialism and Peace." He also dashed off a book called "The U. S. S R. and World Peace."

Vishinsky was rewarded for his brilliant career at legal liquidation with the post of deputy commissar for foreign affairs in 1940. Since then, he's taken part in virtually every important international conference, from the Pottsdam Conference onward.

In March, 1949, he succeeded Molotov as minister of foreign affairs. The move, at that time aroused considerable world wide speculation. Diplomats wondered if it meant any change in Soviet policy.

So far, it hasn't. The Vishinsky for-Molotov switch has turned out to be sort of a diplomatic two-platoon system — Molotov is a defensive type, Vishinsky highly aggressive.

Back in 1937, when he was the state prosecutor and thus the symbol of Russian law and order, an American newsmagazine wrote: "Years of Soviet press, radio and cinema propaganda have made his ominous features spell 'The Law' to millions of Russians."

Today, second only to Stalin, his still-ominous features spell "Russia" to millions of Americans.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND BEGINS NEW YEAR

Parish Assemblage, High Ranking In Competition Already Performing

The Ouachita Parish High School Band, which has earned a high rank in the field of competitive music and in service to its community, has again started the year in a big way.

The band's first public appearance of the season was in the parade for the West Monroe Kiwanis Club - sponsored Rodeo. Before every performance of the rodeo the band gave an hour long concert of band music which lent color and excitement to the occasion.

At the Ouachita-Homer football game the band was in there supporting the Lions with fight songs and entertaining the fans with other selections. It has been asked by numerous persons why the Ouachita Band hasn't been presented half-time performances as it did last year. The answer is simple—not enough uniforms Additional uniforms have been ordered, but delivery is slow and uncertain because of the present world situation.

At any rate, when the uniforms are available—in the near future, everyone hopes—the public can count on colorful half-time shows from the band and Lionettes.

Headed by director Truman McCrea, the band is a well organized body composed of seventy-five members. Officers for this year are: Jimmy Vaughn, captain; Arthur Matthews, Billy John Golson, and Scotty Tullier, first lieutenants; Ronnie Fox, Spencer Edminston, Maurice Jones, and Stanley Burkett, sergeants; Booby Edmonson, drum major; Betty Landrum and Montez Wilder, librarians; and Carolyn McCarty, girls' counselor.

Establishing a new precedent, the band has been asked to play for the Louisiana Music Educators' Association meeting to be held in Monroe in November. All music on the required lists for the district and state music festivals will be read by the band at this time for the benefit of the visiting band directors.

Though twenty valuable members of the band graduated last year, twenty-three new bandsmen have been enlisted. The band is expected to be even better this year than last. And, if events continue as they have, it will be.

Streetcar System Runs Upside-Down In City

By Richard K. O'Malley

Wuppertal, Germany — Wuppertalers feel they have a slight edge on most people — their prize streetcar system has been running upside down for nearly 50 years.

Wuppertal's Schweberbahn—Suspension railway—is the only one of its kind in Europe, and most Wuppertalers point to it with the same pride with which New Yorkers single out the Empire State building.

Wuppertal took to the air in 1901 when its narrow streets and choked traffic defied any plans to enlarge the ground streetcar system.

A private concern from Nurenberg came up and constructed the suspension road which is hung over the Wupper river. It operates much as if an elevated system hung its car from the bottom of the railway structure.

Rides on One Rail

Two-car trains, which carry a capacity load of 130 persons, are operated electrically on a monorail with four wheels per car.

The Schweberbahn runs a route of about nine miles. Originally it ran a mile or so more, but Allied bombs in World War II chopped off two of the old stops.

The cost of the unique railway system was approximately $4,800,000 dollars.

After a private concern had run it lucratively for a long time, the city took over. The Schweberbahn was such a novelty that early-day passengers were glad to pay twice the ordinary fare. Now they ride for the same price as they do on ordinary streetcars.

A Ride Is a Thrill

Citizens always throng the Schweberbahn, scorning the more prosaic and slower streetcars. Going to work is a combination sight-seeing tour and carnival ride.

The cars, which run at four-minute intervals, sweep along over the winding Wupper through downtown Wuppertal at speeds up to 30 miles an hour. Only a mile of the track goes over hard ground.

Iron girders, set up like inverted "Yes" mark Wuppeertal's pride and joy, and the sight of a red Schweberbahn train slipping down the steel lane always finds a streetside audience.

Wuppertal is proud of its accident record on the Schweberbahn. Since it was constructed there have been only two mishaps. One occurred during the first World War when a defunct signal system caused a minor collision. The other was more spectacular and happened this year when an overzealous circus press agent persuaded the city to let him take a baby elephant aboard for a stunt ride. The elephant failed to see the singular attraction of Schweberbahn travel and plunged past terrified spectators and burst out of the car. The elephant fetched up in the Wupper river about 25 feet below with nothing more serious than its dignity injured.

Schweberbahn men say it is more economical to operate their system than the ground car lines. They say they don't have the heavy track maintenance demands of streetcar routes. Since there is no traffic problem up in the air, service is more efficient and wear on rolling stock is almost nil.

BLAST BERLIN LANDMARKS

Berlin—(AP)—Communist dynamite teams are snapping East Berlin's ties with the past. One by one, they are erasing historic land marks dear to German hearts. The Communist Germans in West Berthat the landmarks are so bomb damaged that they are a menace and cannot be restored. The non-Communist Germans in West Berlin are in a mild rage over it but can do nothing except splutter. Its just spite, they say. Anyhow, in the process, Frederick the Great, Kaiser Wilhelm and Adolf Hitler are getting a pushing-around. Frederick, astride a bronze horse, was unceremoniously hauled off Unter den Linden and carted away recently. Hitler's Reichschancellory was finally buckled completely and can no longer be identified. Most of the marble and masonry is gone. Now the Kaiser's town house, known as the Berlin Schloss (castle) is being destroyed.

SCHOOL MUSICIANS

Typical hundreds of thousands of young Americans, these girls find music an open world to them through participation in school orchestra activities

Music Big Business With Public, Louisiana Schools

By Jim Reynolds
(Of the Morning World Staff)

There's music in the air . . . and no wonder! Considering what big business the music industry has become, it's surprising the days aren't filled with melody.

Music is mighty big business . . . big in popular appeal, big in terms of the dallars and cents spent every year to bring music to an ever-widening audience.

Here in Ouachita parish and the Twin Cities, school expenditures for instruments alone run to about $5000 this year. Though that may sound pretty big, it dwindles when you consider that approximately 500 students are members of school bands in the Twin Cities.

The growth of music in Louisiana can be attributed to many forces, but perhaps none so important as the program of free musical instruction in the public schools.

The number of local boys and girls who play with school organizations sounds impressive, and is. But it's nothing compared with the immeasurable total of students who are members of school and church choirs and who study music from private instructors.

Why this huge growth in the percentage of our young population who are receiving training in instrumental and vocal music? One local music merchant explains it this way: "Folks nowadays seem to realize more and more that musical training helps make a boy or girl a better rounded, better balanced individual. When you know music and can play an instrument or sing, a whole new field of enjoyment is opened to you."

"Did you ever notice," he continued, "how people use music to change their moods or express feelings they may not know they have? Take me, for example. When I feel low, I like to listen to gloomy music. It seems to express my feeling. Pretty soon, though switch, bit by bit, to more pleasant stuff and finaly end up playing happy music. The gloom is gone. I'm happy again.

"The same thing happens when I get mad. Violent music is what I go for then. After a while, the noise exhausts my anger and I relax. To me, music is better than a psychiatrist."

Granting that, being a music dealer, he might be a bit biased in his thought, we still had to admit he was right.

What instruments are folks buying today? "Just about everything, believe me," he replied. "Anything and everything from a mouth organ to a bass fiddle."

Violins are not so high on the popularity list as they once were, though, he told us. "Boy, I sure can remember the day when the violin was king. Everybody wanted to play one. Then came C-melody saxaphones . . . every kid in town wanted to be a jazz artist. And don't forget ululeles. They're coming back strong now, too, just like the late 'twenties. Can't say I go for them too much, though. Don't sound too nice."

We were trying to get the conversation back to trumpets and trombones, clarinets and tenor saxes, the new glamour horns of the music industry. There was no stopping the flow of reminiscences, though. As we left, musical history had reached the zither. "Now there was a really fine instrument, son. Don't know if you ever heard one (hadn't he ever heard of "The Third Man"?), but boy, was that a sweet sounding instrument. . . ." That's where we had come in. That's where we left.

Mongol Empire Like Soviet Aims

The massive empire of Soviet Russia and its European and Asiatic satellites is beginning to have a curious resemblance to the great Mongol empire of the 13th Century.

Much of the territory is the same—an incredible sweep of land from Middle Europe to the Pacific and from India to the Arctic.

The Mongol dominions were built up from East to West and eventually included most of Russia. On the other hand, the Russian empire, both under the Czars and the Soviet hammer and sickle has moved steadily from West to East. In turn it has absorbed many of the dominions of the old Mongol empire.

Two thousand years ago China built a huge wall to hold out the Mongols. It failed.

Under Genghis Khan (1162?-1227) Mongol warriors conquered a dominion which under a later day successor, Kublai Khan, included nearly all of Asia and an important segment of Europe.

Ghenghis Kahn was proclaimed Emperor of Tartary at his capital in a distant part of Chinese Tartary in 1205. From there he sent out vast armies to conquer the world. By the time he died he was ruling over the whole of Tartary as well as Northern China, Turkestan and Persia.

His son Oktai not only extended the conquest of Asia, but burst into Europe. A large part of Russia, Poland and Hungary were laid waste and for a time Western civilzation was threatened. The threat was ended with his death in 1241.

One of the most famous of the Mongol rulers, Kublai Khan (1216?-1294) chose the site of modern day Peiping as his court and it was here that Marco Polo lived many years.

When Kublai Kahn died his empire split up, but later an equally well known emperor, Tamerlane (1333?-1405) cemented most of it together again while ruling from fabled Samarkand.

Russia was overrun by the Mongols around 1236 and for nearly two and a half centuries was under the heel of the Golden Hoarde. Then, gradually the Russians began to win back. They absorbed fragments of the disintergrating Mongol dominions and then pushed steadily through to the Pacific.

The Mongols began by conquering China by arms. The Soviet Union has onquered the same ancient land by ideas. And a 13th Century empire has come back into being geographically in the 20th Century.

WHAT ELSE?

Ferriday Man Invents New Carburetor

Ferriday, La., Sept. 30.—(Special)—It may be left to a Concordia parish man to revolutionize the automobile-gasoline industry. Melvin Dodge, Vidalia garage man said that he has applied for a patent for a vaporizing carburetor that will allow an automobile to average 65 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

What's more, Dodge believes he can install the carburetor on any car for about $35. The vaporizing carburetor principle is not new, although Dodge says the idea came to him about 8 months ago after watching vapor escape from a gasoline tank while putting fuel into an automobile. He had been working on the motor for the past three months.

When he submitted it to the patent office in Washington, D. C., he learned that three other similar patents have been issued in 1930 and two in 1932. However, Dodge believes that his is different enough to allow him a patent.

In a sworn affidavit made September 9, R. E. Penick, Jr., of Natchez, Miss., states that he made a round trip to Alabama in a 1949 Ford equipped with the vaporizing carburetor and averaged 65 miles to a gallon of gas. The general principle of the vaporizing gas is that of jetting the gas vapor, instead of the gas itself, into the carburator.

Born in Alexandria, Dodge came to Concordia parish with his father at an early age and settled near Lismore. He attended school in Ferriday, but says that he didn't get any farther than the fourth grade. His mother was dead and his father made every effort to keep him in school.

But Dodge did not want to go to school and he wouldn't. He recalls hanging around garages and in tin shops, particularly the Perkins garage in Ferriday. He has tinkered with engines and machinery since he was a very small child. He says that all of his five children are mechanically minded and Mrs. Dodge says "can make about anything."

The Dadges came to Vidalia about two years ago from Lismore.

Dodge says that he has three offers so far from men who wish to put money into his enterprise, but that he must wait for word from the patent office. Meanwhile, he is dickering with a foundry plant in south Louisiana to manufacture the carburetors.

He says that a carburetor can be installed in a car in about an hour and a half, and that one bread company has already asked for the carburetors on it trucks as soon as he gets into production.

He is interested in selling the carburetor to an oil company, he says, but he wants to go into production so that the equipment may be available to every car owner in the United States.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb Is New United Nations Hero; Is Career Man

By Sumner P. Ahlbum

Lake Success, N. Y.—(NEA)—A tall and haughty man with the polish of old-school diplomacy moved into the center of the stage at the United Nations Security Council this month.

Already something of a hero to the public who have watched, listened or read about his performance in the U. N.'s crucial days since the Korean war began, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb was taking over from a man who all through August seemed bent on becoming the villain of Lake Success.

Sir Gladwyn, along with the United States' Warren Austin and other delegates in supporting roles, had kept Russia's Jacob Malik from creating complete havoc as council president, although nobody could have kept him from being the villain he wanted to be.

A career man in the British Foreign office for 26 years, Sir Gladwyn has had a finger in many big diplomatic pies, mostly as a consultant, although he served briefly in 1946 as secretary general to the United Nations organization he helped create.

Americans — and the rest of the world public, too — suddenly discovered Jebb at about the same time they were re-discovering the U. N. as something important to watch.

He had hardly sat down as successor to Sir Alexander Cadogan as chief British delegate when he touched off some fireworks by Egypt's Mahmoud Fawzi Bey, whom he chided for abstaining to vote for U. N. support of the south Koreans. His cool rebuttal quickly soothed the delegate from Cairo.

Since then, his Oxford accents around the oval council table and in the rambling halls of the U. N.'s temporary home have won him respect as the council's most astute — and polished — phrasemaker.

The phrases, however, have not soothed Russia's Malik, whom Sir Gladwyn has stalked, verbally, with the same persistence he stalks stag back in the English countryside.

His initial broadside at Malik's cries of U. S. aggression in Korea reddened the face of the thick-skinned Russian. "The queer, upside-down language" of Soviet propaganda, Sir Galdwyn said, makes it seem as if we are "living in a rather nightmarish Alice-in-Wonderland world."

Malik winced again at Jebb's observaton that Russian propaganda is "so obviously absurd that it is hard to think it can be swallowed even by the auto-matons who listen to the Moscow radio."

Even on Malik's last day with the gavel, Jebb gave him no peace, bowing the Russian out of office with these words:

"For the representative of a country which maintains millions of its own compatriots in slave labor camps in unspeakable conditions . . . to denounce other governments for alleged misdemeanors as regards political prisoners is just about as nauseating a spectacle as that of Satan rebuking sin."

Sir Gladwyn, 50 and unruffled, has been in big roles before. He was an adviser to Churchill at Yalta (where he helped pick the date for the opening U. N. conference at San Francisco by suggesting his own birthday — April 25). He helped draft the Italian peace treaty and is one of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's close advisers.

At Lake Success, however, he had captured the public. There have been telegrams a star would relish on opening night, such as one from Brooklyn which said "Bravo, bravo. You and your delegation are a credit to civilization."

He was even becoming something of a star on television, which has been keeping an eye on U. N. proceedings lately. "I'd rather watch Jebb than the wrestlers," one spectator said.

ALMOST-PERFECT TIRES

Akron, O.—(AP)—How round can a rubber tire get?

According to B. F. Goodrich tire engineers, 12 solid rubber tires used at Langley Aeronautical laboratory, Langley Field, Virginia, are within 2-1,000 of an inch of becoming perfectly round. India And Pakistan Study Two Red Invasion Routes

By Steven V. David
AP Newsfeatures

New Delhi, India—Russian forces moving through Afghan passes, could—if they wanted to—invade this subcontinent and make short this subcontinent and make short work of it.

That's the consensus of competent foreign observers here. No one says a Russian invasion is inevitable—in fact, there is a feeling that one may never be necessary. But it's a possibility that has been studied by top army men of the west and, doubtless, of Russia.

The observers speak in terms of what Russia has today and what India, Pakistan and Afghanistan together could put in Russia's way. They dsicount the possibility of foreign help arriving in time, except for a few aircraft.

The observers rule out Tibet and Sinkiang as jumping off places for an invasion of India. That territory, they say, is too rugged and there are no routes southward which would accomodate a military operation.

Two Critical Passes

But to the west, there are two possible entrances for Russian armies. One is the famed Khyber Pass, linking Afghanistan with the northwest frontier province of Pakistan. The other is the Khojak Pass, on the Afghan-Baluchistan border. Baluchistan, a barren area, is part of Pakistan.

Use of either pass would mean moving across long stretches of difficult country. One observer suggests Khojak Pass would be an easier entrance than Khyber, but he points out that lines of communication would be longer. Khyber Pass country also is difficult, but the weather is good and the roads are adequate.

The time to stop any Russian invasion, according to these observers, would be while the Red columns were in the passes The general believes is that air bombing would make things tough for the Reds. But that India and Pakistan have far too few aircraft to do the job effectively.

"Once they were through the passes," says one observer, "there would be no real obstacle—rivers don't mean much anymore."

Not everyone thinks it would be as easy as that, but all agree that a Russian victory would be a sure thing. Supplies—particularly motor fuel—would give some trouble, but Russian troops could live off the land, something western troops would have trouble doing.

Military men here have a high regard for the Indian army, with an important reservation about the experience of the officers, most of whom were jumped several grades with the departure of British officers. The strength of the army is estimated unofficially at around 300,000 men. There is one armored division using tanks from the last war, but a shortage of spare parts continues to eat into tank strength. Other equipment, from rifles to trucks, came from the piles of war material left here by the Allies after the war.

Joint Defense is Lacking

One observer suggests that if India and Pakistan settled their differences and received aircraft from western powers, "they could make a pretty good stab at stopping the Russian's. Right now, however, joint defense seems a long way off.

Military men here are divided on the question of whether Russia actually would invade this subcontinent. One school holds that, by controlling the rest of Asia, the U. S. S. R. could "neutralize" India and Pakistan. An isolated India, it is argued, would probably fall into Russia's hands without an invasion. One observer says he believes the Russians could use the threat of bombing or of invasion to keep India in line. Russia is reported to have a big airbase in Tadzhik, not far from Kashmir, and could use fields in Sinkiang province of China.

Others feel that Russia wants Asia, "lock, stock and barrel," and has India on its timetable. As one reason for a Russian invasion, they cite the fact that India could raise an army of several million men to fight with the west and claim "that's as good a reason as any for moving in here."

St. Louis Girl Meets Farouk

St. Louis —(NEA)— A 15-cent hamburger and the ambitions of an ex-movie actress for her daughter have put Mimi Medart into the limelight of international romance.

Parlayed together, the sandwich and the desire for "the grand manner" led the St. Louis teenager to the glamorous French Riviera—and to headlines about her meeting with King Farouk, Egypt's plump monarch with the roving eyes.

And back of it all is the story of Blossom and Bill Medart, Mimi's mother and father.

They were married in 1928, when they were both 23 and Blossom Breneman was a struggling silent movie actress under the name of Donal Blossom. She had one starring part, opposite John Boles in a Western. Bill had tried selling bonds and insurance, then became a gymnasium equipment salesman for his family's concern.

Bill met Blossom in Hollywood, where he had gone on a golfing tour. She had St. Louis roots, too, because her parents ran a laundry there. The marriage, destined to be stormy, got off on a wild start when the minister refused to perform the ceremony until Bill's parents appeared.

They separated three months later, then reconciled. Years later, when they were living in a fashionable neighborhood, a family spat led to a police report. Bill was locked out and heaved a mover's dolly through the front door window. Blossom had him arrested, but dropped the charges.

But it was the hamburger that really started the chain of events that finally led to the King Farouk incidents. Bill and Blossom opened a hamburger stand, a 20-foot place on a busy corner. Bill cooked the hamburgers and Blossom baked cocoanut pies. "The Cottage," which opened in 1930, quickly became a fair-sized success.

They kept adding to the establishment. And adding to the family, too. William, Jr., is now at Harvard. Edward went to prep schools in the east and is being groomed to enter the family's restaurant business. And then Mimi came along.

Mimi's name is Marie Devereaux Medart. And she is apparently the apple of the parental eye. She entered Mary Institute in Ladue when she was six. At 10, she was given a horse and developed into an expert horsewoman. When she was 14, they took her out of school and Blossom took her to New York for two years of tutoring and dramatic studies. The Medarts reportedly keep a Park Avenue penthouse.

Mimi's schoolmates like her, but noticed she had "quite a flair for the dramatic." They also noticed that she had to battle plumpness. Some recent pictures indicate that she still has a tendency in that direction. And they couldn't help but notice that Blossom was frequently around, pushing Mimi into the limelight.

The whole Medart family, except son Bill, went to Europe last spring. According to the stories, they met King Farouk at a ritzy party in Deauville. Then came the reports, crackling back to gossip-hungry St. Louis. The King had sent flowers to Mimi. No, the king hadn't sent flowers. Yes, he had, too, said Blossom in a trans-Atlantic telephone interview.

Mimi was interviewed and described Farouk as "charming and worldly." He had invited the whole family to Cairo for Christmas, she insisted. Then she made some vague illusions to the happiness Rita Hayworth enjoyed with Aly Kahn, hinting at marriage plans for herself.

Farouk and his entourage, who had seemed slightly annoyed about the affair, neverthelses followed Mimi and her entourage when they left.

Reporters noted that among those present during the whole business was one Guido Orlando, a New York press agent who has represented, among others, Erroll Flynn. Orlando did all the talking for the Medarts. but Blossom said he was an old friend from Hollywood she went to "for advice."

Now Mimi is in London for a year studying art, history, French and Italian. (Egyptian isn't on her curriculum.) Mer father and mother are soon returning to St. Louis but Blossom is talking about going back for Christmas. The Cairo trip now seems slightly hazy.

HANDICAPPED TO BE GIVEN AID

Community Council Has Annual Session And Forms Plans

The meeting of the community council for the physically handicapped was called to order by R. C. Brice, chairman, at 10:00 a.m., Tuesday, September 26, in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel, with following members of the council present: R. W. Dumm; George Fink; Harold Breard; J. M. Boyet; L. F. Taylor; Lloyd E. Leonard; Warren L. Harker; W. C. Harrison, Jr.; Theron Dupree; N. R. Golson; W. B. Patterson; Alex Lea; Perry D. Davis, Sr.; O. L. Cloyd; Rev. James Horton; Mrs. C. P. Guerriero, Jr.; George Tidwell; J. D. Hamilton; Guy Campbell; Ralph White; R. C. Brice, chairman; Mrs. Gertha L. Giles, secretary.

The purpose and policies of the council were read by Mr. Brice from the constitution.

Inasmuch as each member received a copy of the minutes of the last meeting ,they were not read; however, additional copies were given to members present together with minutes of the executive committee meeting held on September 21, 1950.

Motion made by Mr. Fink that the minutes be accepted as written was seconded by Mr. Taylor and carried unanimously.

The names of the various committees, committee chairmen, and committee members as appointed read by Mr. Brice and the purpose of each committee was explained.

As suggested by Mr. Hamilton the chairman appointed Mr. Fink to serve as vice-chairman of the speakers committee in the absence of Mr. Baily, chairman, in order that the various clubs and civic organizations could be contacted to arrange speaking engagements.

Mrs. Guerriero gave a report on the arrangements made regarding the poster contest to be conducted in the high schools in the Twin Cities. The rules to be followed in this contest are as follows: Size of poster—18" x 20"; eligibility—any high school student; material—crayon, cut-outs, water colors, pen and ink, or splatter points; due date—October 5, 1950; selection—first, second, and third prizes; amount—$10.00 first prize, $5.00 second prize, and $2.50 third prize; subject—performance of the handicapped; picture is to depict the physically handicapped working in different businesses. Three judges have been selected but prefer their names to be kept secret. These posters are to be given to the judges on the morning of October 5, 1950 and will be judged immediately thereafter.

Mr. Breard suggested that the three winning posters be displayed in one window of some business establishment instead of three, and after considerable discussion this proposal was accepted.

Several suggestions were made as to the time and place for the awarding of the poster prizes. Mr. Dumm, chairman of the public relations and information committee, suggested that if time could be obtained during intermission at the football game Friday night that more publicity could be gained. It was unanimously agreed that this would be an ideal time in which to present the awards, but should these arrangements prove unsuccessful other arrangements will be made by the public relations and information committee.

It was unanimously agreed that the council furnish the prize money for the poster contest.

Mr. Hamilton read a copy of the letter mailed to approximately 250 major market employers in the Monroe area soliciting their co-operation in hiring handicapped workers.

Mr. Harrison stated that although the Ouachita Valley Fair would be in West Monroe a week later than N. E. P. H. Week from October 1, through 7, 1950 that a concession stand would be decorated and a handicapped boy from City Hall would operate it.

Mr. Brice stated that he would appreciate reports from each committee within ten days, by phone or mail.

HANDICAPPED TO BE GIVEN AID

Community Council Has Annual Session And Forms Plans

The meeting of the community council for the physically handicapped was called to order by R. C. Brice, chairman, at 10:00 a.m., Tuesday, September 26, in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel, with following members of the council present: R. W. Dumm; George Fink; Harold Breard; J. M. Boyet; L. F. Taylor; Lloyd E. Leonard; Warren L. Harker; W. C. Harrison, Jr.; Theron Dupree; N. R. Golson; W. B. Patterson; Alex Lea; Perry D. Davis, Sr.; O. L. Cloyd; Rev. James Horton; Mrs. C. P. Guerriero, Jr.; George Tidwell; J. D. Hamilton; Guy Campbell; Ralph White; R. C. Brice, chairman; Mrs. Gertha L. Giles, secretary.

The purpose and policies of the council were read by Mr. Brice from the constitution.

Inasmuch as each member received a copy of the minutes of the last meeting ,they were not read; however, additional copies were given to members present together with minutes of the executive committee meeting held on September 21, 1950.

Motion made by Mr. Fink that the minutes be accepted as written was seconded by Mr. Taylor and carried unanimously.

The names of the various committees, committee chairmen, and committee members as appointed read by Mr. Brice and the purpose of each committee was explained.

As suggested by Mr. Hamilton the chairman appointed Mr. Fink to serve as vice-chairman of the speakers committee in the absence of Mr. Baily, chairman, in order that the various clubs and civic organizations could be contacted to arrange speaking engagements.

Mrs. Guerriero gave a report on the arrangements made regarding the poster contest to be conducted in the high schools in the Twin Cities. The rules to be followed in this contest are as follows: Size of poster—18" x 20"; eligibility—any high school student; material—crayon, cut-outs, water colors, pen and ink, or splatter points; due date—October 5, 1950; selection—first, second, and third prizes; amount—$10.00 first prize, $5.00 second prize, and $2.50 third prize; subject—performance of the handicapped; picture is to depict the physically handicapped working in different businesses. Three judges have been selected but prefer their names to be kept secret. These posters are to be given to the judges on the morning of October 5, 1950 and will be judged immediately thereafter.

Mr. Breard suggested that the three winning posters be displayed in one window of some business establishment instead of three, and after considerable discussion this proposal was accepted.

Several suggestions were made as to the time and place for the awarding of the poster prizes. Mr. Dumm, chairman of the public relations and information committee, suggested that if time could be obtained during intermission at the football game Friday night that more publicity could be gained. It was unanimously agreed that this would be an ideal time in which to present the awards, but should these arrangements prove unsuccessful other arrangements will be made by the public relations and information committee.

It was unanimously agreed that the council furnish the prize money for the poster contest.

Mr. Hamilton read a copy of the letter mailed to approximately 250 major market employers in the Monroe area soliciting their co-operation in hiring handicapped workers.

Mr. Harrison stated that although the Ouachita Valley Fair would be in West Monroe a week later than N. E. P. H. Week from October 1, through 7, 1950 that a concession stand would be decorated and a handicapped boy from City Hall would operate it.

Mr. Brice stated that he would appreciate reports from each committee within ten days, by phone or mail.

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH
Calhoun Road

F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, hurch School superintendent.
Thankful spirit is just as natural for a saved soul as sweetness is for a rose or light for a star. Those who have felt what Paul did when he exclaimed: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift," will not be slow to note the troop of minor blessings that come daily into his life and that make it a luxury to live to perform his part in the plan of a gracious God.
When all the mercies, O my God,
My rising soul surveys,
Transported with the view I'm lost
In wonder, love and praise.
It would not be possible to enumerate all of our blessings, but anyone can easily count enough of them to silence every murmur, and to shame all discontent.
The services at our church are:
Church School, 9:45 a.m.
Morning worship service, 10:50 a.m.
Youth Fellowship, 6:30 p.m.
Children's service, 6:45 p.m.
Evening service, 7:30 p.m.
Monday: Woman's Society meets 2:00 p.m.
Wednesday: Spiritual life meeting 7:30 p.m.
"You are always welcome at Claiborne."

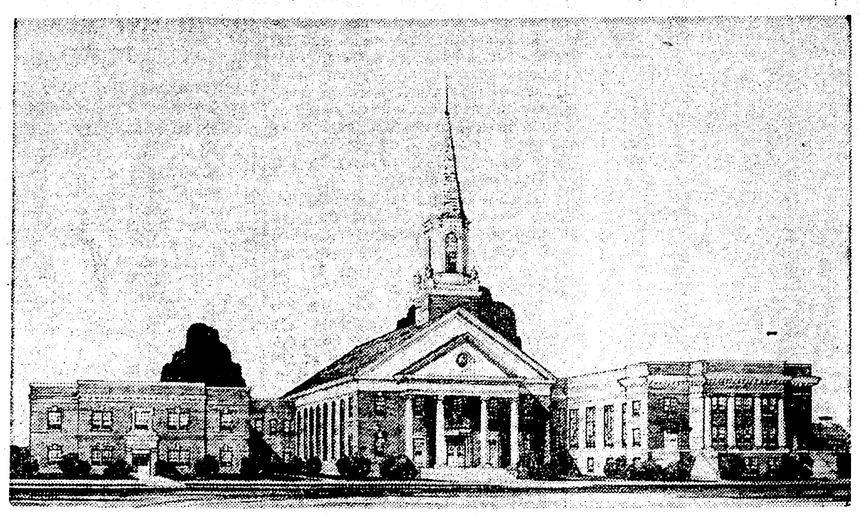
WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A CHRISTIAN
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

To the seemingly simple question, "What does it mean to be a Christian?" many answers have been given.
I heard of one young woman, who when asked by an evangelist whether she were a Christian, reply that she was. But she told a friend afterwards: "Of course I wasn't a Christian in the sense that he meant; but I belonged in a Christian land. I am not a pagan, so I must be a Christian."
More reprehensible, in fact thoroughly dishonest and disgraceful, was the attitude of certain public officials in Germany before both world wars. A symptom of the corruption that was eating at the heart of that great land was a condition of office requiring all officials to be Christian communicants. Some of these officials, though actually rationalists or even atheists, met this condition by formally taking communion once a year—a blasphemous recognition of the most sacred of Christian rites.
Other answers to the question, though less reprehensible, are nonetheless mistaken. To be a Christian, it might be said, it is only necessary to belong to a Christian church, or to one of the many denominations professing Christian faith and organization. On the contrary, some might be considered Christians who belonged to no church at all.
Few, for instance, would deny that Abraham Lincoln was a Christian, and a very good one. Yet Lincoln never joined a church, declaring, however, that if he found a church requiring no condition of membership other than that of love to God and one's fellowmen, that church would he gladly join.
Now, there is no call for pessimism concerning the church. It is my firm belief that by far the greatest number of sincere, earnest, God-loving and man-loving people are in the churches. Nevertheless, one need only observe the lives of many members of churches to realize that church membership is not, in itself, the same thing as being Christian. Or, if one is a church member, without displaying actual Christian graces and character, he is a Christian only in a very formal and unreal sense.
From all wrong answers, one turns then to the true answer. It is set down with clarity and exactness, in Romans 8:9, "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." These are the words of Paul, but they conform to the words of Jesus, who said to His disciples, "If ye love me keep my commandments."

VIEW OF ENLARGED FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, WEST MONROE



Members of the First Baptist Church, West Monroe, have voted unanimously to continue the $400,000 building program which will include the large new sanctuary shown above (center). In a few weeks the educational building is to be completed. This will provide for 1,000 more in Sunday School and will be furnished in the most modern manner. Plans for ground breaking for the next building including a suite of offices, church library, music studios and auditorium seating 1,800 are now in preparation.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Sept. 30—Understand that one of Hollywood's bigger indie producers recently wrangled Ingrid Bergman's consent to do a picture for him, but hastily dropped the plan after checking with theatre owners and being told that they would not book a Bergman movie for fear of public resentment . . . . Altar-bound: Lee Graham, of Broadway's "Alive and Kicking" cast, and dancer Evelyn Farney . . . Ha! Barbara Stanwych did so much shopping in Italy that she was held up at the N. Y. docks, on her return, for more than three hours while customs officers checked her duffle!

Joan Caulfield's mama, who's consistently opposed Joan's romance with Producer Frank Ross, has given in and will throw a big party for them when they visit her, a few weeks hence, in New York . . .Jean de Marco, only married member of the singing "de Marco Sisters" will retire this fall to concentrate on housewfely chores . . . Miriam Hopkins is offering movie studios a combination package—a screenplay she's authored, and her own services as director. . .All rumors about Judy Garland's plans for "outside" work notwithstanding; her contract with MGM absolutely bans such engagements unless her studio bosses give her a written okay.

Seems that much - publicized spat between Elizabeth Taylor and her Nicky Hilton at a recent Hollywood party was strictly "from hunger." Nicky hadn't had any lunch and was so famished by the time buffet was served (11 p.m.) that he loaded his own plate and started to eat without waiting for the little woman, who promptly burst into tears and fled the room. . .Donald O'Connor is balking at Universal - International's plan to use him in a sequel to "Francis"; despite the success of the original film, he never relished the idea of playing second fiddle to a mule.

Preview nights: Pic of the week: Warner Brothers' "The Glass Menagerie" (Jane Wyman - Kirk Douglas - Gertrude Lawrende-Arthur Kennedy). Filmed without losing any of the stage play's great emotional sock, this one will probably be in the running for academy honors, come spring. . .GOOD: 20th Century - Fox's "I'll Get By" (June Haver - William Lundigan-Gloria de Haven). A technicolorful song-and-dance offering, as gay and tuneful as anything glimpsed to date this season. . . Paramount's "Cassino to Korea" (Quentin Reynolds - James Logan-David Landlum). A gripping documentary concerning the struggles of two American GI's in the Italian campaigns of World War II . . .FAIR: Republic's "Sunset in the West" (Roy Rogers - Estelita Rodriguez). A well - contrived yarn about gun smuggling on stolen trains, and a gilt-edged offering for western fans. . .Monogram's "Big Timber" (Roddy McDowall-Jeff Donnell). A warm-hearted, if not too strong-minded, tale of life in the lumber camps.

Ordinarily, the charge that gossip printed in Hollywood columns wrecks Filmville marriages makes little sense, but I'll make an exception in the case of Elizabeth Taylor and her spouse, Nicky Hilton. It's been a rare day in the past month that one columnist or another hasn't devoted a few hundreds words to a quarrel between "Liz and Nicky." Most of the items have been written with apparent relish a sort of a "we-told-you-this-marriage-couldn't-last" attitude. To date I haven't heard of, or read about, a single quarrel that seemed to have a much more serious foundation, than the silly little tiff reported above, but I can see how the columned stories, blowing their trival squabbles up like so many balloons, could easily distort the perspectives of a couple of youngsters. If their marriage does fail, I think that Hollywood press, for once, could logically be saddled with considerable blame.

I'm amused by a sequence of quotes attributed to that exceedingly colorful young lady, Shelley Winters. The first in the series was a pronouncement about men in general. "No man under forty can have very much sex appeal," said she. Then, speaking of Farley Granger, she opined, for publication, that her affection for him is "maternal." Finally, questioned about her reported romance with Marlon Brando, she said: "He's a very exciting person - but he's just a boy." Miss Winters is taking a most unusual tack for a screen actress. If she continues to talk in such a fashion, people are apt to overestimate her age.

While we're on the subject of Hollywood gals and Hollywood romance, I'm touched - positively touched - by a columned report on the Gables. "No woman could do more to prove her love than Sylvia has," wrote the feminine columnist. "She cooked for Clark on location and did his laundry!" Millions of American wives should be touched, too, I think.

SCOUTING WILL BE EXPLAINED

Series Of Radio Programs To Be Given Starting In October

Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Scout council will begin a series of radio programs Monday evening, October 21, at 7:45 p.m. over radio station KMLB. The program entitled The Scout Meeting of the Air will be an information program for Scouts and the public.
Jack Spaulding, prominent young business man in Monroe, is to be the radio scoutmaster of this new Scout radio program. Each week he will be the master of ceremonies for programs including interesting features for Scouts and Scouters.
The Scout Meeting of the Air will frequently interview Scouts and leaders about activities of special interest to all who are taking some part in the Scout program. All troops and packs in Monroe and adjacent areas will be called on to participate from time to time. New ideas in Scouting, stories about Scouts and former Scouts, announcements of special activities, and regular Scout news of the week will also be features of the weekly radio program.
Several prominent Scouters will participate in the first program Monday night. These will include A. B. Clarkson, president of the Ouachita Valley Council, J. W. Webster, commissioner of the Ouachita Valley Council, and J. C. Crawford, Cub Scout commissioner of the Ouachita Valley Council.
Mr. Spaulding will interview these men to obtain information about current Scouting activities within the council. There will also be several important news announcements for Scouts and Cubs made during this week's program.
Scouts and Cub Scouts as well as all leaders and friends of Scouting are urged to listen to this broadcast each week. They are also reminded that any program suggestions or comments about programs will be greatly appreciated.

BOOKIES CLIPPED IN FIVE CITIES

Ark. Police Told Race Tracks In Five Cities Hit For $30,000

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29. —(AP)—Police said today that a telephone-radio relay system has clipped bookies in five cities for $30,000.
Detective Chief M. A. Hinds said 45-year-old Francis David Hassard of East St. Louis, Ill., told him he and three other men had taken that much in St. Louis, New Orleans, Chicago, Boston and Forrest City, Ark.
"It was like taking candy from a baby," Hassard was quoted.
Police Commissioner Joe Boyle said the system operated this way:
One man would place a long-distance telephone call to a confederate at a race track in Chicago or Miami from his hotel room. When the race ended, he would be told the winner.
Then he would flash the name by a short-wave radio. Another man, in a nearby place where he could bet, would receive the word by a radio unit beneath his shirt and put up his money before the bookie drew the deadline.
Boyle said Hassard, arrested for Arkansas authorities, had a short-wave radio transmitter and receiver when he was taken into custody at a downtown hotel here yesterday. He said the group had been operating at the "21 Club" in Forrest City, Ark.

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH
Calhoun Road

F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, hurch School superintendent.

Thankful spirit is just as natural for a saved soul as sweetness is for a rose or light for a star. Those who have felt what Paul did when he exclaimed: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift," will not be slow to note the troop of minor blessings that come daily into his life and that make it a luxury to live to perform his part in the plan of a gracious God.

When all the mercies, O my God,
My rising soul surveys,
Transported with the view I'm lost
In wonder, love and praise.

It would not be possible to enumerate all of our blessings, but anyone can easily count enough of them to silence every murmur, and to shame all discontent.

The services at our church are:
Church School, 9:45 a.m.
Morning worship service, 10:50 a.m.
Youth Fellowship, 6:30 p.m.
Children's service, 6:45 p.m.
Evening service, 7:30 p.m.
Monday: Woman's Society meets 2:00 p.m.
Wednesday: Spiritual life meeting 7:30 p.m.

"You are always welcome at Claiborne."

Church school at 9:45 a.m. This will be rally day, and a banner attendance is anticipated. Worship at 10:50 a.m. Today is World Wide Communion Sunday, and all the members and friends of the church are urged to attend. It is also the first Sunday of the new church year, and there will be an ordination service for the new officers. The sermon theme is "We Are the Hands of Jesus." Christian Youth Fellowship at 5:00 p.m. This is a program of worship, instruction and recreation for young people. Evening service at 7:30. The old familiar hymns will be sung, and the sermon subject is "One Loaf," which is in keeping with World Wide Communion Sunday.

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE A CHRISTIAN
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

To the seemingly simple question, "What does it mean to be a Christian?" many answers have been given.

I heard of one young woman, who when asked by an evangelist whether she were a Christian, reply that she was. But she told a friend afterwards: "Of course I wasn't a Christian in the sense that he meant; but I belonged in a Christian land. I am not a pagan, so I must be a Christian."

More reprehensible, in fact thoroughly dishonest and disgraceful, was the attitude of certain public officials in Germany before both world wars. A symptom of the corruption that was eating at the heart of that great land was a condition of office requiring all officials to be Christian communicants. Some of these officials, though actually rationalists or even atheists, met this condition by formally taking communion once a year—a blasphemous recognition of the most sacred of Christian rites.

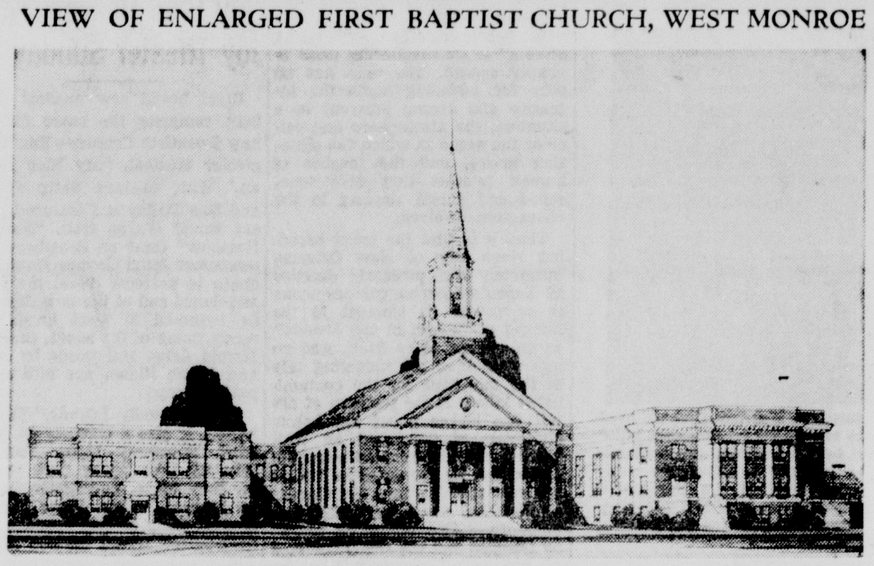
Other answers to the question, though less reprehensible, are nonetheless mistaken. To be a Christian, it might be said, it is only necessary to belong to a Christian church, or to one of the many denominations professing Christian faith and organization. On the contrary, some might be considered Christians who belonged to no church at all.

Few, for instance, would deny that Abraham Lincoln was a Christian, and a very good one. Yet Lincoln never joined a church, declaring, however, that if he found a church requiring no condition of membership other than that of love to God and one's fellowmen, that church would he gladly join.

Now, there is no call for pessimism concerning the church. It is my firm belief that by far the greatest number of sincere, earnest, God-loving and man-loving people are in the churches. Nevertheless, one need only observe the lives of many members of churches to realize that church membership is not, in itself, the same thing as being Christian. Or, if one is a church member, without displaying actual Christian graces and character, he is a Christian only in a very formal and unreal sense.

From all wrong answers, one turns then to the true answer. It is set down with clarity and exactness, in Romans 8:9, "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His." These are the words of Paul, but they conform to the words of Jesus, who said to His disciples, "If ye love me keep my commandments."

VIEW OF ENLARGED FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, WEST MONROE



Members of the First Baptist Church, West Monroe, have voted unanimously to continue the $400,000 building program which will include the large new sanctuary shown above (center). In a few weeks the educational building is to be completed. This will provide for 1,000 more in Sunday School and will be furnished in the most modern manner. Plans for ground breaking for the next building including a suite of offices, church library, music studios and auditorium seating 1,800 are now in preparation.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Sept. 30—Understand that one of Hollywood's bigger indie producers recently wrangled Ingrid Bergman's consent to do a picture for him, but hastily dropped the plan after checking with theatre owners and being told that they would not book a Bergman movie for fear of public resentment . . . . Altar-bound: Lee Graham, of Broadway's "Alive and Kicking" cast, and dancer Evelyn Farney . . . Ha! Barbara Stanwych did so much shopping in Italy that she was held up at the N. Y. docks, on her return, for more than three hours while customs officers checked her duffle!

Joan Caulfield's mama, who's consistently opposed Joan's romance with Producer Frank Ross, has given in and will throw a big party for them when they visit her, a few weeks hence, in New York . . Jean de Marco, only married member of the singing "de Marco Sisters" will retire this fall to concentrate on housewfely chores . . . Miriam Hopkins is offering movie studios a combination package—a screenplay she's authored, and her own services as director. . .All rumors about Judy Garland's plans for "outside" work notwithstanding; her contract with MGM absolutely bans such engagements unless her studio bosses give her a written okay.

Seems that much - publicized spat between Elizabeth Taylor and her Nicky Hilton at a recent Hollywood party was strictly "from hunger." Nicky hadn't had any lunch and was so famished by the time buffet was served (11 p.m.) that he loaded his own plate and started to eat without waiting for the little woman, who promptly burst into tears and fled the room. . .Donald O'Connor is balking at Universal - International's plan to use him in a sequel to "Francis"; despite the success of the original film, he never relished the idea of playing second fiddle to a mule.

Preview nights: Pic of the week: Warner Brothers' "The Glass Menagerie" (Jane Wyman - Kirk Douglas - Gertrude Lawrende-Arthur Kennedy). Filmed without losing any of the stage play's great emotional sock, this one will probably be in the running for academy honors, come spring. . .GOOD: 20th Century - Fox's "I'll Get By" (June Haver - William Lundigan-Gloria de Haven). A technicolorful song-and-dance offering, as gay and tuneful as anything glimpsed to date this season. . . Paramount's "Cassino to Korea" (Quentin Reynolds - James Logan-David Landlum). A gripping documentary concerning the struggles of two American GI's in the Italian campaigns of World War II . . .FAIR: Republic's "Sunset in the West" (Roy Rogers - Estelita Rodriguez). A well - contrived yarn about gun smuggling on stolen trains, and a gilt-edged offering for western fans. . .Monogram's "Big Timber" (Roddy McDowall-Jeff Donnell). A warm-hearted, if not too strong-minded, tale of life in the lumber camps.

Ordinarily, the charge that gossip printed in Hollywood columns wrecks Filmville marriages makes little sense, but I'll make an exception in the case of Elizabeth Taylor and her spouse, Nicky Hilton. It's been a rare day in the past month that one columnist or another hasn't devoted a few hundreds words to a quarrel between "Liz and Nicky." Most of the items have been written with apparent relish a sort of a "we-told-you-this-marriage-couldn't-last" attitude. To date I haven't heard of, or read about, a single quarrel that seemed to have a much more serious foundation, than the silly little tiff reported above, but I can see how the columned stories, blowing their trival squabbles up like so many balloons, could easily distort the perspectives of a couple of youngsters. If their marriage does fail, I think that Hollywood press, for once, could logically be saddled with considerable blame.

I'm amused by a sequence of quotes attributed to that exceedingly colorful young lady, Shelley Winters. The first in the series was a pronouncement about men in general. "No man under forty can have very much sex appeal," said she. Then, speaking of Farley Granger, she opined, for publication, that her affection for him is "maternal." Finally, questioned about her reported romance with Marlon Brando, she said: "He's a very exciting person - but he's just a boy." Miss Winters is taking a most unusual tack for a screen actress. If she continues to talk in such a fashion, people are apt to overestimate her age.

While we're on the subject of Hollywood gals and Hollywood romance, I'm touched - positively touched - by a columned report on the Gables. "No woman could do more to prove her love than Sylvia has," wrote the feminine columnist. "She cooked for Clark on location and did his laundry!" Millions of American wives should be touched, too, I think.

SCOUTING WILL BE EXPLAINED

Series Of Radio Programs To Be Given Starting In October

Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Scout council will begin a series of radio programs Monday evening, October 21, at 7:45 p.m. over radio station KMLB. The program entitled The Scout Meeting of the Air will be an information program for Scouts and the public.

Jack Spaulding, prominent young business man in Monroe, is to be the radio scoutmaster of this new Scout radio program. Each week he will be the master of ceremonies programs including interesting features for Scouts and Scouting.

The Scout Meeting of the Air will frequently interview Scouts and leaders about activities of special interest to all who are taking some part in the Scout program. All troops and packs in Monroe and adjacent areas will be called on to participate from time to time. New ideas in Scouting, stories about Scouts and former Scouts, announcements of special activities, and regular Scout news of the week will also be features of the weekly radio program.

Several prominent Scouters will participate in the first program Monday night. These will include A. B. Clarkson, president of the Ouachita Valley Council, J. W. Webster, commissioner of the Ouachita Valley Council, and J. C. Crawford, Cub Scout commissioner of the Ouachita Valley Council.

Jack Spaulding will interview these men to obtain information about current Scouting activities within the council. There will also be several important news announcements for Scouts and Cubs made during this week's program.

Scouts and Cub Scouts as well as all leaders and friends of Scouting are urged to listen to this broadcast each week. They are also reminded that any program suggestions or comments about programs will be greatly appreciated.

BOOKIES CLIPPED IN FIVE CITIES

Ark. Police Told Race Tracks In Five Cities Hit For $30,000

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29. —AP— Police said today that a telephone-radio relay system has clipped bookies in five cities for $30,000.

Detective Chief M. A. Hinds said 45-year-old Francis David Hassard of East St. Louis, Ill., told him he and three other men had taken that much in St. Louis, New Orleans, Chicago, Boston and Forrest City, Ark.

"It was like taking candy from a baby," Hassard was quoted.

Police Commissioner Joe Boyle said the system operated this way:

One man would place a long-distance telephone call to a confederate at a race track in Chicago or Miami from his hotel room. When the race ended, he would be told the winner.

Then he would flash the name by a short-wave radio. Another man, in a nearby place where he could bet, would receive the word by a radio unit beneath his shirt and put up his money before the bookie drew the deadline.

Boyle said Hassard, arrested for Arkansas authorities, had a short-wave radio transmitter and receiver when he was taken into custody at a downtown hotel here yesterday. He said the group had been operating at the "21 Club" in Forrest City, Ark.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1950

17TH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

This Sunday marks the first anniversary of Father Jones as Rector of Grace Church, and to observe the date, he has requested every member and friend of the Parish to be at one of the services with him that day. The Service schedule, with special music and sermon at the 11 o'clock service, follows:

7:30 A.M.—Holy Eucharist
9:30 A.M.—Church School
11:00 A.M.—Choral Eucharist and Sermon. The music of the service will be Cruickshank's, with the offertory anthem, "O Bread of Life", by full choir. Father Jones' sermon subject will be: "God Working in You."
5:00 P.M.—Young People's Service League in the Parish House.

Week-day meetings include:

MONDAY:
7:30 P.M.—Vestry Meeting in the Church Study.

TUESDAY:
2:30 P.M.—General Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, in the Parish House. Mrs. S. A. Collins will give an instructive talk on "Rebecca" at this meeting, the second in a series of studies on "Holy Women."
4:00 P.M.—Junior Choir, in the Studio.

WEDNESDAY:
7:30 P.M.—Senior Choir Rehearsal, in the Studio.

Note: There will be no celebrations of the Holy Eucharist during this week, as the Rector and Father Hayward will be in New Orleans attending clergy conferences called by the Bishop.

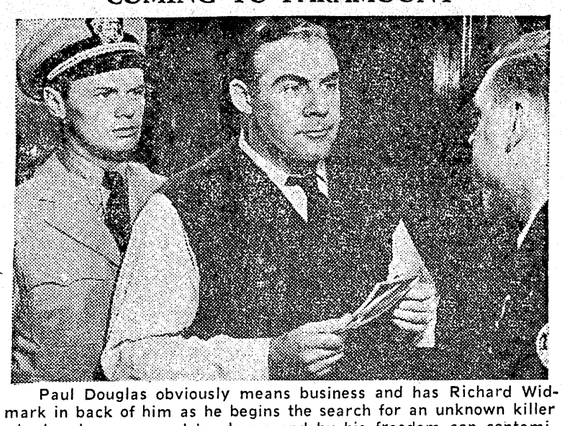
COMING TO PARAMOUNT



Paul Douglas obviously means business and has Richard Widmark in back of him as he begins the search for an unknown killer who has been exposed to plague and by his freedom can contaminate an entire city in "Panic In The Streets," exciting new melodrama which opens a four day engagement at the Paramount Wednesday. Filmed in the city of New Orleans, where the story takes place, "Panic In The Streets" also stars Barbara Bel Geddes, Walter Jack, Palance nd Zero Mostel.

'Panic In Streets,' Filmed In New Orleans, Here Wednesday

Widmark, Douglas, Bel Geddes Starred In Picture At Paramount

All of the renown that has gathered to the name of Elia Kazan is twice confirmed by the arrival of the young master's hardest-hitting film, 'Panic in the Streets," coming Wednesday to the Paramount Theatre. Working, as he does best, in the story's actual locale, New Orleans, and with a brilliant company, headed by Richard Widmark, Paul Douglas and Barbara Bell Geddes, the director has brought forth a masterpiece of suspense to rank with the very best of all screen melodramas.

"Panic in the Streets" takes on added significance as a motion picture by the individuality of its theme. In unflinchingly realistic terms, it tells a story of the undreamed dangers that befall a great city when an outbreak of plague becomes an imminent threat. Everything omes to depend on the efforts of Widmark as a Public health officer and Paul Douglas as a police detective to apprehend the unknown killers of a man who had pneumonic plague before the city learns of the terror in its midst and becomes panic-stricken.

This unique tale is told by Kazan with all the artistry and power that have made him the phenomenal director of his day. His handling of the waterfront chase which brings "Panic in the Streets" to its thundering close is simply superb. The man has no peer for pounding home the intensity and drama inherent in a situation, the atmosphere and color of the scene in which the situation arises, and the touches of human interest that give tone, mood and subtle shading to the characters involved.

Thus it is that the great brooding river city of New Orleans, intimately and profusely detailed by Kazan's unerring camera sense is as potent an element in the filming of "Panic in the Streets" as the central story itself. And no less vivid than the mounting tale of the man-hunt for the contaminated killers is the plethora of detail one learns about the heroic civil servant portrayed by Widmark and his interrupted home life personified by the sensitive acting of the wistful Barbara Bel Geddes as his wife; about the dutiful but stubborn police operative played by Douglas and the sharp contrast of routine police work jolted by sudden emergency; and about the two pursued executioner - victims, roles memorably enacted by movie newcomers Walter Jack Palance and Zero Mostel.

It is typical of Kazan's way with fresh talent what he achieves with the soft-spoken but treacherous Palance, the well - meaning but weak-willed Mostel. But the director is no less successful in eliciting refreshing and penetrating performances from Widmark Douglas and Miss Bel Geddes. The latter, incidently, proves herself anew as one of the most artful and delicate of the younger actresses.

Dan Riss, Alexis Minotis, Guy Thomajan and Tommy Cook are also prominent in the cast, as is a variety of the New Orleans citizenry engaged by Kazan in the filming process there. Ths authenticity also counts in projecting a shattering realism that forces home the ultimate point of "Panic in the Streets." The script by Richard Murphy is to be classed with his "Boomerang!" for Kazan, and stems from a story by Edna and Edward Anhalt adapted by Daniel Fuchs. A top caliber job all the way down the line marks this twenities Century - Fox hit, brilliantly produced by Sol C. Siegel.

'My Blue Heaven' At Joy Theater Sunday

Eight brand new musical numbers comprise the score for the new Twentieth Century - Fox Technicolor musical, "My Blue Heaven,' With co-stars Betty Grable and Dan Dailey and featured players David Wayne from "Finian's Rainbow" fame on Broadway and newcomer Mitzi Gaynor from light opera to perform them, the song-and-dance end of the new film can be assumed in good hands. Already many of the songs, tunes by Harold Arlen and words by Arlen and Ralph Blane, are hitting top public favor.

"The Friendly Islands," the top ballad, is also a travesty on guess what Broadway show. For the take off Dan Dailey does vocally on Ezio Pinza, permission had to be granted by Mr. Pinza himself. It was. Betty Grable appears as a dark-haired island maiden in this one.

Betty is her usual luscious blonde self, though, in numbers like the two-part "Don't Rock the Boat, Dear," lyrically sparkling. An income tax song, "It's Deductible," a holiday tune, "Hallowe'en," and a blues number, "Live Hard, Work Hard, Love Hard" are also catching on, with the first two figured good for seasonal reprise. "I Love a New Yorker," "What A Man" and "Cosmo Cosmetics" round out the song score. An oldie by Walter Donaldson and George Whiting holds down the title tune spot.

INVITED TO ISRAEL

Jerusalem.—(AP)—Premier David Ben Gurion would like to see American Jews come here to help build up the little Jewish state, but he says that decision is strictly up to them. He told a luncheon here honoring Jacob Blaustein, of Baltimore, chairman of the American Jewish Committee, that Jews in the United States owe no political allegiance to Israel and their only political attachment is to the United States. Ben Gurion asserted that the aid of American Jews to Israel was "one of the principal sources of our strength and success. But we would like to see American Jews come and take part in our effort. We need their technical knowledge, their un-rivalled experience, their spirit of enterprise, their bold vision, their 'know-how'."

'Woodpecker Nose' Robert Teams With Lucille Ball In Comedy

When I was born (and I was born despite any reports to the contrary), my father took one horrified look at my nose and exclaimed. "Gad, I have sired a woodpecker.'

"No, dad," I lisped (I was quite young at the time), "It's me, your son, Bob."

"Watch your language, kid," he snarled. "Don't let it get around that you're a member of the Hope family."

However, it was impossible to conceal this fact, and a short time later we moved from England to Cleveland. I tried not to pay any attention to my nose, hoping it would go away, but by the time I was 12, I realized I was stuck with it. Literally, too, because they didn't call me "Needle-Nose Robert" for nothing.

But six years later a lucky thing happened. I fell out of a tree and landed smack on my face. One of the greatest plastic surgeons in the country operated on me (although come to think of it he did look a lot like Groucho Marx), and for days I waited expectantly for the bandages to be removed. My father was in the room when this momentous event occurred. Carefully the doctor unpeeled layer after layer of gauze until my face was bare.

"Gad, a woodpecker with an upsweep,' exclaimed my father.

It's true that my nose does curve up a little at the end, but that's a sign of good breeding, I keep telling myself. Anyway, as long as I can kiss girls like luscious Lucille Ball who co-stars with me in "Fancy Pants," I don't care what anyone says about my nose. Would you?

Bing Crosby's Niece Weds In Shreveport

Shreveport, La., Sept. 29. —(AP) Pretty, blonde Toni Crosby—niece of world famous Bing—will be married to a young lieutenant at Barksdale air force base Saturday and will make her home in Shreveport.

The bride—her full name is Patricia Antonia Crosby — will exchange vows with Lieut. James C. McManaway, Jr., who is assigned to headquarters, second air force, at Barksdale.

She will be given in marriage by her father, Edward J. (Ted) Crosby—one of the five Crosby boys from Spokane, Wash.—who grinningly admitted to a reporter Friday that he never had engaged in the singing business "because I didn't think there was any money in it."

In her suite at the Washington Youree Hotel where she was busying herself with her bridal gown Miss Crosby obligingly posed with her father for a pre-wedding picture for newsmen at noon Friday.

She said that she and the groom had met through friends in Spokane and that the decision to be married at Barksdale was made after he was transferred here two months ago. Both Miss Crosby and the lieutenant are 24.

Eight brand new musical numbers comprise the score for the new Twentieth Century - Fox Technicolor musical, "My Blue Heaven,' With co-stars Betty Grable and Dan Dailey and featured players David Wayne from "Finian's Rainbow" fame on Broadway and newcomer Mitzi Gaynor from light opera to perform them, the song-and-dance end of the new film can be assumed in good hands. Already many of the songs, tunes by Harold Arlen and words by Arlen and Ralph Blane, are hitting top public favor.

"The Friendly Islands," the top ballad, is also a travesty on guess what Broadway show. For the take off Dan Dailey does vocally on Ezio Pinza, permission had to be granted by Mr. Pinza himself. It was. Betty Grable appears as a dark-haired island maiden in this one.

Betty is her usual luscious blonde self, though, in numbers like the two-part "Don't Rock the Boat, Dear," lyrically sparkling. An income tax song, "It's Deductible," a holiday tune, "Hallowe'en," and a blues number, "Live Hard, Work Hard, Love Hard" are also catching on, with the first two figured good for seasonal reprise. "I Love a New Yorker," "What A Man" and "Cosmo Cosmetics" round out the song score. An oldie by Walter Donaldson and George Whiting holds down the title tune spot.

INVITED TO ISRAEL

Jerusalem.—(AP)—Premier David Ben Gurion would like to see American Jews come here to help build up the little Jewish state, but he says that decision is strictly up to them. He told a luncheon here honoring Jacob Blaustein, of Baltimore, chairman of the American Jewish Committee, that Jews in the United States owe no political allegiance to Israel and their only political attachment is to the United States. Ben Gurion asserted that the aid of American Jews to Israel was "one of the principal sources of our strength and success. But we would like to see American Jews come and take part in our effort. We need their technical knowledge, their un-rivalled experience, their spirit of enterprise, their bold vision, their 'know-how'."

'Woodpecker Nose' Robert Teams With Lucille Ball In Comedy

When I was born (and I was born despite any reports to the contrary), my father took one horrified look at my nose and exclaimed, "Gad, I have sired a woodpecker."

"No, dad," I lisped (I was quite young at the time), "It's me, your son, Bob."

"Watch your language, kid," he snarled. "Don't let it get around that you're a member of the Hope family."

However, it was impossible to conceal this fact, and a short time later we moved from England to Cleveland. I tried not to pay any attention to my nose, hoping it would go away, but by the time I was 12, I realized I was stuck with it. Literally, too, because they didn't call me "Needle-Nose Robert" for nothing.

But six years later a lucky thing happened. I fell out of a tree and landed smack on my face. One of the greatest plastic surgeons in the country operated on me (although come to think of it he did look a lot like Groucho Marx), and for days I waited expectantly for the bandages to be removed. My father was in the room when this momentous event occurred. Carefully the doctor unpeeled layer after layer of gauze until my face was bare.

"Gad, a woodpecker with an upsweep,' exclaimed my father.

It's true that my nose does curve up a little at the end, but that's a sign of good breeding, I keep telling myself. Anyway, as long as I can kiss girls like luscious Lucille Ball who co-stars with me in "Fancy Pants," I don't care what anyone says about my nose. Would you?

Bing Crosby's Niece Weds In Shreveport

Shreveport, La., Sept. 29. —(AP)— Pretty, blonde Toni Crosby—niece of world famous Bing—will be married to a young lieutenant at Barksdale air force base Saturday and will make her home in Shreveport.

The bride—her full name is Patricia Antonia Crosby — will exchange vows with Lieut. James C. McManaway, Jr., who is assigned to headquarters, second air force, at Barksdale.

She will be given in marriage by her father, Edward J. (Ted) Crosby—one of the five Crosby boys from Spokane, Wash.—who grinningly admitted to a reporter Friday that he never had engaged in the singing business "because I didn't think there was any money in it."

In her suite at the Washington Youree Hotel where she was busying herself with her bridal gown, Miss Crosby obligingly posed with her father for a pre-wedding picture for newsmen at noon Friday.

She said that she and the groom had met through friends in Spokane and that the decision to be married at Barksdale was made after he was transferred here two months ago. Both Miss Crosby and the lieutenant are 24.

John Derek Starred In Robin Hood Film

High adventure and glorious romance will dominate the screen of the Paramount Theatre today with the arrival of Columbia's spectacular Technicolor movie, "Rogues of Sherwood Forest." John Derek and Diana Lynn are co-starred in the film in which adventure's most stirring era is brought to life in the son of Robin Hood and his Merry Men in all new exploits.

The character of Robin Hood, or his son, has been variously portrayed on the screen by a number of famous romantic stars who combined a magnetic personality with athletic prowess. Derek, who has established himself as a new romantic idol with brilliant performances in Humphrey Bogart's "Knock On Any Door" and "All The King's Men," is now essaying the colorful role of the son of Robin Hood.

As the dashing greenwood's fighter, Derek is said to turn in a performance worthy of such distinguished predecessors as Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., and Cornel Wilde. Derek rises to the rigorous demands of his arduous role as he engages in hard riding, stirring swordplay and displays an acrobatic ability reminiscent of Fairbanks at his best.

"Rogues of Sherwood Forest" tells a swift-moving story of how the tyrannical grip of King John (George Macready) over 13th century England was broken. Derek, returned from the wars, immediately opposes the harsh treatment meted out to the people by the king's soldiery, is arrested and sentenced to death. He escapes with the aid of the King's beautiful ward (Lynn) and retires to Sherwood Forest, there to gather Robin Hood's Merry Men. In a series of brilliant forays, the king's forces are harassed to the point where he cynically promises to give his ward's hand in marriage to a French soldier in exchange for his mercenaries. But the wedding procession is ambushed by Derek and his men in the exciting climax. Thus, the king's power is curbed and the love of Derek and Miss Lynn reaches fruition.

MAJ. GEN. THOMAS PUT IN CHARGE

Has Supervision At Selman Field And Reservists Training In 12 States

Major General Charles E. Thomas, Jr., commanding general of the fourteenth air force, with headquarters at Robins Air Force Base, Ga., has supervision of all activities of the 9798th VART Sq. Selman Field, Monroe, as well as of all other training for reservists of the United States air force, within the twelve-state srea of his command.

General Thomas was transferred to his present duty on July 1, 1950 from the continental air command, Mitchel Air Force Base, N. Y., where he had served for ten months as inspector general.

This is the second time that General Thomas has been stationed at Robins Air Force Base. In 1941, as commanding officer, he supervised the construction of that base from the turning of the first spadeful of dirt. When transferred three years later, he had witnessed the complete development of Robins Field, which covered more than 3,000 acres, with personnel numbering 16,000 soldiers and civilians.

In May 1944, General Thomas was ordered to the south Pacific, where he was chief of staff of the 21st bomber command, later being appointed deputy commander for operations of the army air forces in the Pacific ocean area.

Six months thereafter, he became commanding general of the island of Ie Shima. The day he landed on that island the famous war correspondent, Ernie Pyle, was killed by Japanese snipers.

At the close of the war, General Thomas was returned to the United States, and saw duty at Wright Field, Ohio, and as commanding general at Brookley Field, Alabama.

Another order to cross the Pacific, in June 1947, sent him to China as chief of the aviation advisory group at Nanking. This important mission lasted until January 1949, when the approaching Communist invasion into China necessitated his withdrawal from that country.

He was then placed in command of the 1503d air transport wing in Tokyo. In August 1949, he returned to the United States as inspector general of the continental air command, Mitchel Air Force Base, N. Y., and eight months later he was ordered to his present duty as commanding general of the fourteenth air force.

Since the early days of his career in the military service, General Thomas has performed various important duties throughout the United States. Prior to World War II, he spent more than two years at Camp Nichols, Philippine Islands.

General Thomas is a graduate of the army industrial college in Washington, the air corps tactical school at Maxwell Field, Alabama, the army war college in Washington and the chemical warfare school at Edgewood arsenal, Maryland. He has also served as instructor in aeronautics at many of the flying schools.

GA. TUCKER PTA IN 1ST SESSION

Starts New School Year With Good Attendance, Enthusiasm

The Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. held its first meeting Thursday afternoon at 3:15 in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Darwin Nichols, president, opened the meeting with the P.-T. A. prayer.

Reports were heard from chairmen of the various committees and the date of the carnival, the money making project of the P.-T. A. has been set for Thursday, October 19.

Mrs. Nichols introduced the program chairman, Mrs. James Brothers. Mrs. Brothers presented Miss Myrtle Rodgers, principal, who spoke on what the P.-T. A. stands for.

Miss Rodgers said the school and the teachers are trying to give the parents what they want for their children. Parents are always welcome to visit the class rooms and to observe the technical methods used by the teachers. Miss Rodgers stated that the program for this year would include physical education and instruction for handicapped children, especially in speech and reading. She pointed out that a well rounded school program would produce a happy, well-adjusted student.

At this time Miss Rodgers introduced her faculty.

Mrs. R. M. Troy introduced the new officers and standing committees.

Mrs. Brothers introduced as her next speaker Mr. Van Leigh, physical education instructor. Mr. Leigh said that physical education was definite instruction in the social and emotional development of the child.

Mr. Leigh pointed out that the best physical education program for the elementary child would include all sports and give every child a chance to participate.

He stated that the elementary child could learn the fundamentals of the older games. That these games would provide the opportunity for the child to develop honesty, truthfulness and fair play.

Mrs. Hammond took the room count. The winning rooms were Mrs. Willard's second grade and Miss McDonald's sixth grade.

Mrs. DeWitt Henry, legislative chairman, discussed the Constitutional amendment to have civil service restored. This is a continuing plank in the P.-T. A. platform. The bill did not pass, but the P.-T. A. has reaffirmed their faith in the civil service amendment and offer this resolution.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association has supported the civil service movement in Louisiana since its inception, and

Whereas, the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher Association believes that men and women o merit must be attracted to and held in our government service, if we are to have efficient economical operation of the public affairs of our state, and

Whereas, civil service serves as a means of building careers in government for young people and furthers the security of the family whose provider is employed by city or state, and

Whereas, the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher Association deplores the failure of the 1950 legislature to allow the civil service constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people of Louisiana for ratification,

Now therefore be it resolved, that the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher Association support the restoration of state civil service in Louisiana by constitutional amendment, insuring civil service employees complete freedom in the exercise of their inherent franchise rights by prohibiting political activities on the part of civil service employees and prohibiting coercion on the part of department heads.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be furnished the press and the legislators from this area.

Singapore. —(AP)— The Singapore government plans to stop the flow of Communist propaganda in the form of books and magazines pouring in from Hong Kong and Red China. A branch of the Chinese secretariat has been set up to check and translate China-produced publications. If considered necessary, the emergency regulations pertaining to published works will be extended to enforce a ban.

A YOUNG MERCHANT AT WORK

Tommy Lee is one of the newspaper boys for whom National Newspaper Week is observed. This young merchant is shown delivering his daily papers to one of his customers.

This Is National Newspaper Week

Carrier Boys Are 'Little Merchants' Serving Subscribers In Twin Cities

Over the wide expanse of these United States there is a great army of "Teen" age boys, more than half a million strong, who are little business men of today. From their ranks may well come the leaders of tomorrow.

A slightly known and not widely publicized program of boy welfare and "citizenship building" has been steadily moving forward for the past ten or twelve years. This planned program, pioneered by newspaper executives of vision, is a democratic picture of men and boys at work.

This week, October 1 through 7, is National Newspaper Week to be climaxed with National Newspaper Boys Day, Saturday, October 7. We would like to have you meet some of your "Little Merchants" of Monroe and West Monroe and find out how they are utilizing a small portion of their spare time in pursuing a business that is both educational and profitable.

Tommy Lee, handsome lad of fifteen, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Lee, 611 North Sixth street, West Monroe. Tommy rates a "B" average in his school work at Ouachita Parish High School, where he will be a sophomore this year.

He became a carrier salesman about four months ago and serves around two hundred customers on the north side of Monroe at Bres, Stubbs and Hudson Lane. From the very start he showed qualities of good business management when he plainly stated that he preferred to use a bicycle on his route because he believed that it would enable him to give his customers better service. With a shy little grin he added "and it is less expensive to operate."

Tommy began his career with a joint bank account with his father. He now has his own account and is also storing up cash bond savings at the rate of $10.00 per week. Although he is proud of being a successful business man in the dollars and cents value, he wisely considers the educational qualities of his venture.

When Tommy isn't going to school, delivering or collecting his route, posting his books or studying his lessons, he still finds time for the usual recreation. He plays basketball and baseball with junior teams. Swimming is a favorite sport.

One day in the not too distant future this young merchant is going to be a lawyer. He plans to attend Louisiana State University and hopes to finance part of that education himself. He is on his way at an early age. Tommy is carrying the news today. He will be making the news tomorrow.

DESTROY GREEN COTTON STALKS

This Injunction Urged Upon Farmers As Pest Safeguard

The Louisiana Delta Council is urging every farmer who planted cotton this year to immediately after they have harvested their last cotton to start chopping up and plowing under their green cotton stalks, this appeal is not only being made to our own farmers living in the council area, but it is to all cotton farmers in the state of Louisiana, according to W. H. Farmer, the council manager.

With the heavy growth on all cotton stalks this year, and should we have a late frost, these green stalks will continue to bloom, and will certainly furnish a good breeding place for boll weevils, which will hatch out before hard winter and will hibernate in our wooded sections for next years crop. These green cotton stalks are of no value on top of the ground and can serve the farmer much better if they are plowed under so they can completely rot during the winter months.

Two parishes in south Louisiana have already been reported as having pink boll worm infestation, and it is most likely these parishes will be taken out of cotton in 1951 to prevent this dreaded enemy from spreading to other cotton producing parishes, and the plowing under of our green cotton stalks will greatly retard this spreading.

All cotton gins should immediately put a stop to the hauling off of the rotten cotton hulls and other trash that is blown from the coom as it is ginned, and the best way to stop this common practice is to have it burned just as soon as it is safe to do so, stated Mr. Farmer.

voted to join it in May 1950 Annapolis, Md., was less than a square mile in area.

Selman Field, Monroe, as well as of all other training for reservists of the United States air force, within the twelve-state srea of his command.

General Thomas was transferred to his present duty on July 1, 1950 from the continental air command, Mitchel Air Force Base, N. Y., where he had served for ten months as inspector general.

This is the second time that General Thomas has been stationed at Robins Air Force Base. In 1941, as commanding officer, he supervised the construction of that base from the turning of the first spadeful of dirt. When transferred three years later, he had witnessed the complete development of Robins Field, which covered more than 3,000 acres, with personnel numbering 16,000 soldiers and civilians.

In May 1944, General Thomas was ordered to the south Pacific, where he was chief of staff of the 21st bomber command, later being appointed deputy commander for operations of the army air forces in the Pacific ocean area.

Six months thereafter, he became commanding general of the island of Ie Shima. The day he landed on that island the famous war correspondent, Ernie Pyle, was killed by Japanese snipers.

At the close of the war, General Thomas was returned to the United States, and saw duty at Wright Field, Ohio, and as commanding general at Brookley Field, Alabama.

Another order to cross the Pacific, in June 1947, sent him to China as chief of the aviation advisory group at Nanking. This important mission lasted until January 1949, when the approaching Communist invasion into China necessitated his withdrawal from that country.

He was then placed in command of the 1503d air transport wing in Tokyo. In August 1949, he returned to the United States as inspector general of the continental air command, Mitchel Air Force Base, N. Y., and eight months later he was ordered to his present duty as commanding general of the fourteenth air force.

Since the early days of his career in the military service, General Thomas has performed various important duties throughout the United States. Prior to World War II, he spent more than two years at Camp Nichols, Philippine Islands.

General Thomas is a graduate of the army industrial college in Washington, the air corps tactical school at Maxwell Field, Alabama, the army war college in Washington and the chemical warfare school at Edgewood arsenal, Maryland. He has also served as instructor in aeronautics at many of the flying schools.

GA. TUCKER PTA IN 1ST SESSION

Starts New School Year With Good Attendance, Enthusiasm

The Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. held its first meeting Thursday afternoon at 3:15 in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Darwin Nichols, president, opened the meeting with the P.-T. A. prayer.

Reports were heard from chairmen of the various committees and the date of the carnival, the money making project of the P.-T. A. has been set for Thursday, October 19.

Mrs. Nichols introduced the program chairman, Mrs. James Brothers. Mrs. Brothers presented Miss Myrtle Rodgers, principal, who spoke on what the P.-T. A. stands for.

Miss Rodgers said the school and the teachers are trying to give the parents what they want for their children. Parents are always welcome to visit the class rooms and to observe the technical methods used by the teachers. Miss Rodgers stated that the program for this year would include physical education and instruction for handicapped children, especially in speech and reading. She pointed out that a well rounded school program would produce a happy, well-adjusted student.

At this time Miss Rodgers introduced her faculty.

Mrs. R. M. Troy introduced the new officers and standing committees.

Mrs. Brothers introduced as her next speaker Mr. Van Leigh, physical education instructor. Mr. Leigh said that physical education was definite instruction in the social and emotional development of the child.

Mr. Leigh pointed out that the best physical education program for the elementary child would include all sports and give every child a chance to participate.

He stated that the elementary child could learn the fundamentals of the older games. That these games would provide the opportunity for the child to develop honesty, truthfulness and fair play.

Mrs. Hammond took the room count. The winning rooms were Mrs. Willard's second grade and Miss McDonald's sixth grade.

Mrs. DeWitt Henry, legislative chairman, discussed the Constitutional amendment to have civil service restored. This is a continuing plank in the P.-T. A. platform. The bill did not pass, but the P.-T. A. has reaffirmed their faith in the civil service amendment and offer this resolution.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association has supported the civil service movement in Louisiana since its inception, and

Whereas, the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher Association believes that men and women o merit must be attracted to and held in our government service, if we are to have efficient economical operation of the public affairs of our state, and

Whereas, civil service serves as a means of building careers in government for young people and furthers the security of the family whose provider is employed by city or state, and

Whereas, the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher Association deplores the failure of the 1950 legislature to allow the civil service constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people of Louisiana for ratification,

Now therefore be it resolved, that the Georgia Tucker Parent-Teacher Association support the restoration of state civil service in Louisiana by constitutional amendment, insuring civil service employees complete freedom in the exercise of their inherent franchise rights by prohibiting political activities on the part of civil service employees and prohibiting coercion on the part of department heads,

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be furnished the press and the legislators from this area.

Singapore. —(AP)— The Singapore government plans to stop the flow of Communist propaganda in the form of books and magazines pouring in from Hong Kong and Red China. A branch of the Chinese secretariat has been set up to check and translate China-produced publications. If considered necessary, the emergency regulations pertaining to published works will be extended to enforce a ban.

A YOUNG MERCHANT AT WORK

Tommy Lee is one of the newspaper boys for whom National Newspaper Week is observed. This young merchant is shown delivering his daily papers to one of his customers.

This Is National Newspaper Week

Carrier Boys Are 'Little Merchants' Serving Subscribers In Twin Cities

Over the wide expanse of these United States there is a great army of "Teen" age boys, more than half a million strong, who are little business men of today. From their ranks may well come the leaders of tomorrow.

A slightly known and not widely publicized program of boy welfare and "citizenship building" has been steadily moving forward for the past ten or twelve years. This planned program, pioneered by newspaper executives of vision, is a democratic picture of men and boys at work.

This week, October 1 through 7, is National Newspaper Week to be climaxed with National Newspaper Boys Day, Saturday, October 7. We would like to have you meet some of your "Little Merchants" of Monroe and West Monroe and find out how they are utilizing a small portion of their spare time in pursuing a business that is both educational and profitable.

Tommy Lee, handsome lad of fifteen, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Lee, 611 North Sixth street, West Monroe. Tommy rates a "B" average in his school work at Ouachita Parish High School, where he will be a sophomore this year.

He became a carrier salesman about four months ago and serves around two hundred customers on the north side of Monroe at Bres, Stubbs and Hudson Lane. From the very start he showed qualities of good business management when he plainly stated that he preferred to use a bicycle on his route because he believed that it would enable him to give his customers better service. With a shy little grin he added "and it is less expensive to operate."

Tommy began his career with a joint bank account with his father. He now has his own account and is also storing up cash bond savings at the rate of $10.00 per week. Although he is proud of being a successful business man in the dollars and cents value, he wisely considers the educational qualities of his venture.

When Tommy isn't going to school, delivering or collecting his route, posting his books or studying his lessons, he still finds time for the usual recreation. He plays basketball and baseball with junior teams. Swimming is a favorite sport.

One day in the not too distant future this young merchant is going to be a lawyer. He plans to attend Louisiana State University and hopes to finance part of that education himself. He is on his way at an early age. Tommy is carrying the news today. He will be making the news tomorrow.

DESTROY GREEN COTTON STALKS

This Injunction Urged Upon Farmers As Pest Safeguard

The Louisiana Delta Council is urging every farmer who planted cotton this year to immediately after they have harvested their last cotton to start chopping up and plowing under their green cotton stalks, this appeal is not only being made to our own farmers living in the council area, but it is to all cotton farmers in the state of Louisiana, according to W. H. Farmer, the council manager.

With the heavy growth on all cotton stalks this year, and should we have a late frost, these green stalks will continue to bloom, and will certainly furnish a good breeding place for boll weevils, which will hatch out before hard winter and will hibernate in our wooded sections for next years crop. These green cotton stalks are of no value on top of the ground and can serve the farmer much better if they are plowed under so they can completely rot during the winter months.

Two parishes in south Louisiana have already been reported as having pink boll worm infestation, and it is most likely these parishes will be taken out of cotton in 1951 to prevent this dreaded enemy from spreading to other cotton producing parishes, and the plowing under of our green cotton stalks will greatly retard this spreading.

All cotton gins should immediately put a stop to the hauling off of the rotten cotton hulls and other trash that is blown from the coon as it is ginned, and the best way to stop this common practice is to have it burned just as soon as it is safe to do so, stated Mr. Farmer.

voted to join it in May 1950 Annapolis, Md., was less than a square mile in area.

BLONDIE

by CHIC YOUNG

THIS MAGAZINE HAS A QUIZ TO SEE HOW GOOD A NEIGHBOR YOU ARE

I'M A GOOD NEIGHBOR

FIRST, ANSWER ALL THE QUESTIONS AND THEN GRADE YOURSELF ACCORDINGLY

GREAT SCOTT! FORTY PERCENT --THAT MEANS I'M A TERRIBLE NEIGHBOR

BLONDIE---I WANT TO BE A GOOD CITIZEN--I WANT MY FRIENDS TO LOVE ME

IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO START

I'LL START WINNING BACK THE AFFECTIONS OF MY NEIGHBORS BY BRINGING SICK OLD MR. VAN NUCKLE A COCONUT CREAM PIE

WHOOPS, I'M SORRY, MR. VAN NUCKLE--I SLIPPED

MR. SCHROEDER WILL BE SO HAPPY WHEN HE SEES I'VE STARTED THE BARBECUE PIT HE SAID HE WAS GOING TO PUT HERE

WHO RUINED MY YARD? WE DECIDED NOT TO PUT IN THE BARBECUE PIT

IT WAS MR. BUMSTEAD ---HE SAID HE WAS DOING A GOOD TURN

I'LL SAVE MR. McNUFF A REPAIR BILL BY FIXING HIS CHIMNEY FOR HIM

OW-W

IT'S RAINING BRICKS

I CAUGHT ONE, TOO

10-1

LOOK, DEAR, THIS TIME IT COMES OUT ONE HUNDRED PERCENT --I'M A PERFECT NEIGHBOR

WHAT ARE THOSE ANGRY VOICES I HEAR OUTSIDE?

CHIC YOUNG

WE WANT BUMSTEAD!

OH! HELLO-BIMMY!! WHEN DID YOU GET IN TOWN? OH! YOU JUST ARRIVED?? YOU'RE GOING OVER TO AUNT MINNIE'S HOUSE? FINE!!

COUSIN BIMMY JUST GOT IN TOWN - I WANT YOU TO GO TO AUNT MINNIE'S HOUSE AND BRING HIM HOME TO DINNER!!

A FINE WAY TO START THE DAY!!

HE MUST HAVE BEEN PARDONED - HE WUZ SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS - OR ELSE HE BROKE JAIL!!

ISN'T BIMMY HERE YET - MINNIE?

HE'S DUE ANY MINUTE!! I'M GLAD YOU CAME - I WANT TO RUN DOWN TO THE GROCERY STORE -- WILL YOU MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME??

I WILL! I FEEL AT HOME HERE AS I SEE A LOT OF THINGS THAT WERE SWIPED OUT OF MY HOUSE!!

I WON'T BE LONG - LET HIM IN WHEN HE ARRIVES --

IT'S HARD FOR ME TO DECIDE WHICH OF MAGGIE'S RELATIVES I DISLIKE MOST - BUT THIS GUY IS NEAR!!! THE BOTTOM!!

THERE'S THE BELL! IT MUST BE HIM!!

GRAB HIS OTHER HAND! HE MAY BE ARMED!!

COME ALONG QUIETLY!

IF YOU HAVE ANYTHING TO SAY - TALK TO THE JUDGE!!

LISTEN - MAGGIE! COME RIGHT DOWN TO THE CITY JAIL - THEY THINK I'M YOUR COUSIN BIMMY AND I'M IN JAIL! HURRY!!

YOU'LL HAVE TO HAVE GOOD PROOF!!

MUST BE SUNDAY AGAIN, MA. I JUST HEARD ANOTHER FENDER!

I TOLD FREDDIE THAT THE GAUGE WASN'T WORKING AND THAT HE'D BETTER FILL UP THE TANK... BUT HE SAYS, OH, NO-! WE'VE GOT PLENTY OF GAS!

BUT, SLUG, I'VE TOLD YOU THAT I'LL BE FOREVER GRATEFUL TO YOU FOR BRINGING ME THE GASOLINE.. AND THAT I'LL PAY YOU JUST AS SOON AS WE GET HOME.

TEN BUCKS, NOW!

I SET THE OVEN FOR SIX O'CLOCK, AND OUR ROAST WILL BE A CINDER!

RUN IN THERE, ARNOLD, AND GET ME A HOT DOG AND A BOTTLE OF POP... AND DON'T TALK TO THAT FROWZY BLONDE!

JUST STEP ACROSS THAT LINE, AND I'LL SHOW YOU WHAT I MEAN

AND THAT GOES DOUBLE

BUT YOU'LL HAVE TO LEARN TO TAKE TURNS... SO YOU HOP DOWN THERE AND WORK THE PEDALS AND LET YOUR BROTHER STEER FOR A WHILE!

I'M GOING TO WALK! I'VE GOT TO BE AT SCHOOL IN THE MORNING!

GEE WHITH! THITH ITH A TWELL PLATHE TO RUN OUT OF GATH.

IT'S A SWELL PLACE TO RUN OUT OF-PERIOD!

LITTLE DAISY HOT DOGS - ICE CREAM AND POP

SOCKS DARNED IN SPARE MOMENTS

MAYBE SOME DAY WE'LL RUN OUT OF MUSTARD AND WE CAN CLOSE THIS JOINT AND MOVE BACK TO DEATH VALLEY!

ALICE SHOULDN'T EAT HOT DOGS. THEY ALWAYS SET HEAVY ON HER TUMMY!

LOOK AT MY UNCLE WOODIE! HE PECKED THE BUCK-SHOT OUT OF A FENCE POST AND HE'S BEEN GROUNDED FOR TWO WEEKS.

READER'S DIGEST
reports the same research which proves that brushing teeth right after eating with COLGATE DENTAL CREAM
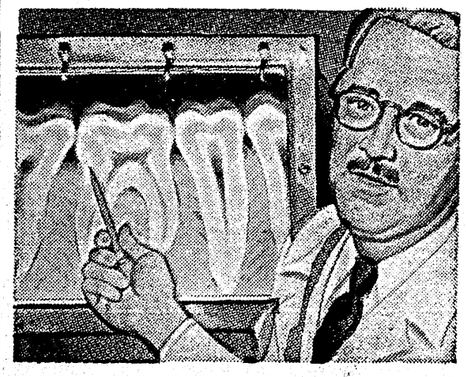
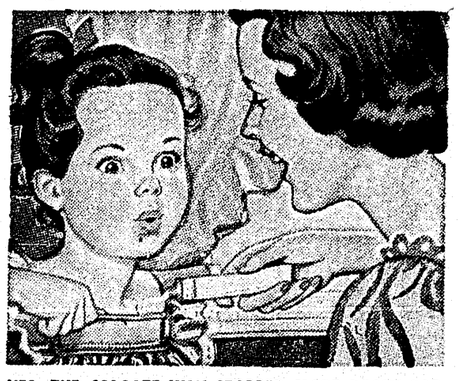
STOPS TOOTH DECAY BEST

Better Than Any Other Way of Preventing Tooth Decay According to Published Reports!



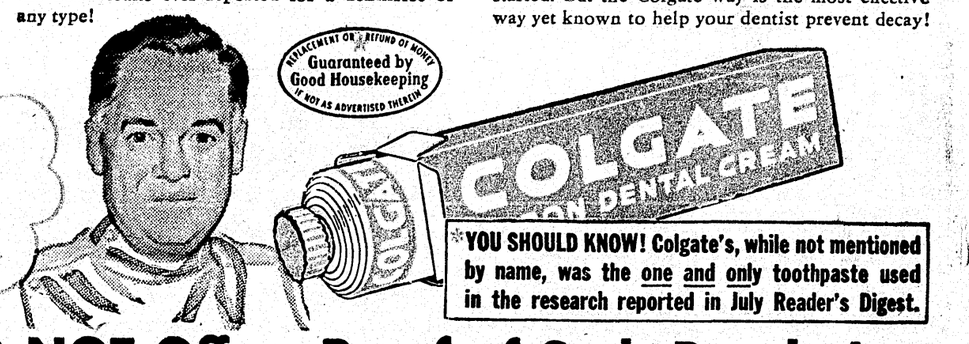
READER'S DIGEST RECENTLY REPORTED on one of the most extensive experiments in dentifrice history! And here are additional facts: The one and only toothpaste used in this research was Colgate Dental Cream. Yes, and two years' research showed brushing teeth with Colgate's right after eating stopped tooth decay best! Better than any other home method of oral hygiene!



YES, THE COLGATE WAY STOPPED MORE DECAY FOR MORE PEOPLE than ever before reported in all dentifrice history! Even more important, there were no new cavities whatever for more than 1 out of 3 who used Colgate Dental Cream as directed. No other dentifrice has proof of such results—the best results ever reported for a dentifrice of any type!

SO START YOUR FAMILY ON COLGATE DENTAL CREAM TODAY! By the time they enter school, 9 out of 10 children have one or more decayed teeth. Children love Colgate's wake-up flavor, so it's easy to get them to use Colgate's as directed. No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But the Colgate way is the most effective way yet known to help your dentist prevent decay!

Always Use Colgate's To Clean Your Breath While You Clean Your Teeth—and Help Stop Tooth Decay!



*YOU SHOULD KNOW! Colgate's, while not mentioned by name, was the one and only toothpaste used in the research reported in July Reader's Digest.

No Other Toothpaste or Powder AMMONIATED OR NOT Offers Proof of Such Results!
